The Sad Tale of Lady Nicholas

The Fall in Fortune of a Unique Personage Who Once Was A Well Known Character in England And America

MONTPELIER, Vt., March 20—Countess Eleanor—Lady Lucas Langdon Nicholas, as she styles herself—better known as Mme. Nicholas, mother of Washington Irving Bishop, a famous mind reader, who died fifteen years ago, whose life until a few years ago was surrounded by luxury and who was prominent in society in New York, Washington, Baltimore and Philadelphia, was taken today to end her days in the county almshouse.

Although Mme. Nicholas is without relatives and almost friendless, ill, destitute and a recluse, she yielded only under protest to those who had determined the only place left for her was the poothouse. Although she has lost everything else, her courage remains, and her greeting was, "I shall not trouble you long. I am still wealthy and I shall soon gain what rightfully belongs to me."

Nobody else shares Mme. Nicholas hopes of a favorable turn in her affairs. She has a claim against the government and one against the Nicholas estate, and the money left by her son is still in litigation, but she has no funds to press the suits, and lawyers who undertook them have abandoned them as hopeless.

Born in Kent, England, about seventy years ago, Mme. Nicholas is a cousin of the late Mr Gladstone and otherwise well connected with British families. Her marriage in the early fifties in New York was one of the most brilliant affairs which had so far occurred in the city's society. Possessed of great beauty and a keen intellect, she at once took a prominent position, but she was not content with social prominence alone, becoming a leader in many charitable undertakings.

Mr. Bishop was killed in an accident after the war. Financial reverses followed and gradually since that time her fortunes have been ebbing. Augustine Daly gave a benefit performance for her in New York fourteen years ago, and she has received aid from several wealthy men and women but even in her extremity she lost none of her charitable instincts, and as fast as she obtained funds she disposed of the money to those hardly more needy than herself.

Mme. Nicholas still believes her son was murdered. He had gathered prominence as a mind reader by appearing before the Prince of Wales and other notable persons. Mr Bishop apparently died suddenly, in 1889, and surgeons who had heard of his remarkable psychic powers took the opportunity to perform an autopsy and examine his brain.

His mother vainly protested that he was not dead, but only suffering from an attack of catalepsy, and for several years she sought to have the physcians indicted for murder. She was more than ever convinced that her son was not dead when the autopsy was performed by a story told to her that at the moment a knife entered the vital part he rose up and cried 'Mother !'

Excited Nerves, Twitching Muscles

SYSTEM EXHAUSTED BY WORRY AND LOSS OF SLEEP—PERFECT HEALTH THE RESULT OF USING

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

Such cures as this make it impossible to doubt the restorative influence of Dr Chase's Nerve Food.

Mrs E J Vanderburgh of Eastern Welland avenue, St Catherines, Ont, states: "For twenty-one years I was badly afflicted with heart trouble, nervousness and cramps in the limbs, also twitching of the muscles and nervous headaches. I became weak, debilitated and emaciated. My condition was distressing and I was made worse through worry and loss of sleep.

"I tried a hundred remedies in vain and reading about Dr Chase's Nerve Food I decided to try it. After having used half a dozen boxes of this preparation my old trouble had entirely vanished and I was enjoying better health than I had since girlhood. I am now past middle life and am in perfect health. I would not take worlds today and go back to my former state."

There is more or less mystery and doubt as to the specific action of many drugs, but it is positively and definetely known that iron forms new red corpuscles in the blood, or, in other words makes the blood rich and nourishing.

But iron alone cannot be taken into a delicate stomach. The great secret of the succes of Dr Chase's Nerve Food is in the way iron is combined with certain other restoratives so as to make a preparation that can be used with the greatest benefit by even the most weak and delicate person.

Dr Chase's Nerve Food is also slightly laxative as well as tonic in influence, and while building up the system insures the regular and healthful action of the digestive, filtering and excretory system.

If you would enrich the blood strengthen the nerves and replace weakness and disease with health and vigor use Dr Chase's Nerve Food; 50 cents a box, 6 boxes for $2.50, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co, Toronto.

ANECDOTE OF MISTER DOOLEY

The Original of the Famous Philosopher Was a Well Known Man

NEW YORK, May 20—The original Mr. Dooley, now gone his way, was a character well known to George Ade, John Mc Cutcheon, Vance Thompson, and many other Chicago newspaper men, long before Peter Dunne made him a national celebrity. It was Vance Thompson, by the way, who swooped down on the old gentleman in a sleepy hour, borrowed two dollars from him before he rightly realized it, and vanished again into the outer darkness while he was still rubbing his eyes. This little episode he subsequently referred to as "th' hurricane touch." Similar anecdotes of the old man's wit are cherished as particular possessions. George Ade has one that he entitles Human Gratitude. Late one night he was surprised to find the proprietor asleep behind his own bar. On being roused, that worthy showed a marked disinclination for business and a strong desire to be let alone. So Ade pulled down the blinds, stackdd up the cuspidors, locked the cash register and called a cab. With some difficulty he elicited an address and then, for what seemed hours, they jounced over out-of-the-way streets until at last the cabbie drew up before a ramshakle little box of a frame house with a stairway running up the outside. All this time the passenger had slept sweetly. Out of the cab and up the rickety stairs, puffing and blowing. Ade bundled his charge. On the top step he lost his footing and the two of them rolled higgledy- piggledy to the street. The old gentleman sat up, regarded Ade with the utmost indignation, and spoke the first words of the evening.

"Jarge," said he, "ye thripped me."

The drudgery of house work seems never ending to tired-out, dispirited women who suffer from female complaints or irregularities. Inflammation and ulceration cause fearful bearing-down pains which are aggravated by much standing on the feet, and lifting necessary in house work.

But let no woman despair of relief from this torture. That famous tonic reconstructor of diseased or disordered female organism.

It Made Me a Well Woman

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done more for me than doctors or medicines. I suffered for four months with suppression of monthly periods. Headaches were a daily occurrence. Pains in my back and limbs made it hard for me to attend to my domestic duties.

The medicines I had taken did not help me, and I was in misery and despair until one day I read an account of your Vegetable Compound, and decided to try it, and I thank God that I did so, for it not only regulated my monthly periods, but made me a well woman.
