Steel Production Halted By Strike

PITTSBURGH (AP)—The sixth major steel strike since the war choked off nearly 90 per cent of America's steel industry Wednesday and quickly spread to allied fields. More than 500,000 steelworkers were idle with widespread effects in transportation, coal, maritime and other industries.

The Pennsylvania Railroad laid off 6,300 employees. Great Lakes shippers started tying up their boats; and steel-owned coal mines closed down. A spokesman for the railroad said the strike will cost the railroad about 20 per cent of its freight business. Under pressure from President Eisenhower the steel industry and the United Steelworkers agreed to meet with federal mediation chief Joseph F. Finnegan to find some way of settling the strike.

NEW PROPOSAL
In New York, the Steelworkers Union made a new proposal to management that the strike issues be submitted to a fact-finding board headed by a neutral person chosen by Chief Justice Earl Warren of the U.S. Supreme Court.

In a letter to the industry's negotiating team, Steelworkers' president David J. McDonald proposed that the board also include one member chosen by the union and one by industry. Its recommendations would not be binding. The Steelworkers are seeking a new contract embodying a wage increase. Latest government figures pegged their average pay at $3.10 an hour.

In Washington, Senator Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas called for a report on what the total economic impact the steel strike will have in lost wages, corporate income and taxes.

SHOCKING ANSWER
The answer will shock the average American, the Democratic leader predicted. "The people are going to rise up and say 'let's find a solution' when they hear it," Johnson said.

Picketing began promptly at 12:01 a.m. Wednesday. It was peaceful and streets look comparatively empty without the usual mill-bound traffic.

Many strikers took advantage of the work stoppage to head for vacation trips. Others pitched into the job of painting and fixing their homes. The strikers themselves have their pay for the last two weeks coming and also two weeks' vacation pay. The union does not pay strike benefits, but USW locals provide help in emergency cases such as paying for medical expenses.

EFFECTS IN CANADA
The effects of the steel strike also began spreading to Canada. Montreal representatives of the United Steelworkers of America said the northern Quebec and Labrador mines of Iron Ore of
