nachie. The ladies along with several gentlemen chaperones are in charge of the 63-member group of high school students who will leave the province today.

MR. AND MRS. CARL JACKSON

Murray Harbor North Church Wedding Is Held

In a double-ring ceremony on July 23 at Murray Harbour North Presbyterian Church, Carol Verna, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Graham, Westville, N. S., became the bride of Carl Winston Jackson, son of Mark Jackson and the late Mrs. Jackson of Murray Harbour North. Rev. M. C. Currie was the officiating clergyman. The organist Mrs. Annie Kennedy accompanied Mrs. Earl Currie as she sang "I Love You Truly" before the ceremony and "O Perfect Love" during the signing of the register. The church was decorated with baskets of mixed flowers, roses and potted plants. The guest pews were marked with lily of the valley and white satin bows. The bride given in marriage by her father wore a floor length gown of peau de soie with lace bodice and scalloped neckline with sequin trim, lily point sleeves, and panels of lace on the skirt front and on the train. Her veil of nylon net flowed from a crown of mohair braid centered by a fabric rose. Her bouquet was of red roses and she wore a single strand of pearls, a gift of the groom. Gail Graham, cousin of the bride was maid of honor, wearing a street length dress of blue nylon organza. Her headdress was a blue velvet bow with matching veil and she carried a bouquet of blue-tinted carnations. Shelley Graham, sister of the bride, and Shelley Jackson, niece of the groom as flower girl were dressed alike in pleated pink organza dresses. The bridesmaid carried a bouquet of carnations tinted to match her dress and the flower girl carried a basket of petals. Gordon Jackson was best man for his brother. The ushers were Barry Hickey and Blair Kerwin. Mrs. Graham chose for her daughter's wedding a two-piece blue lace dress with white accessories and a corsage of pink carnations. Following the ceremony a reception was held at Hillside Inn Montague for approximately 50 guests. The toast to the bride was proposed by Rev. Mr. Currie and responded to by the groom. Sandra Graham, cousin of the bride was in charge of the guest book. Mr. and Mrs. Jackson left on a short honeymoon to the Cabot Trail and other points of interest in the Maritimes. For travelling, the bride chose a light beige boucle suit with beige and tan accessories and a corsage of yellow carnations. Mr. and Mrs. Jackson will reside in Murray Harbour North. ### MARY HAWORTH

Wife Refuses Divorce Out Of Vindictiveness

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: My son and my attorney seem to think I am a vindictive middle-aged woman, wanting to have my cake and eat it too. I would value your opinion. Five years ago I was awarded separate maintenance by the California court. My husband, a jazz pianist and night club MC, had hit bottom by then, due to his drinking and wenching, with one strumpet in particular. She was a stripper in the club where he worked. I didn't ask for divorce, because I believed that he would come to his senses in time and we could resume our marriage. He hasn't remarried, though he has considered himself divorced to the extent of borrowing money on his signature only. He invested in a little radio station that seems to be paying off. Now his partners in the enterprise are insisting that since their wives have to sign the legal papers, I, as his wife, should be. He says it's because I've been so big-mouthed about still being his legal wife. My son says all I've gained by the separate maintenance arrangement is "the vindictive satisfaction of preventing Dad

ELLEN'S DIARY

Life-Giving Rains Have Restored The Pastures

"Do you hear it, Ellen - the rain on the roof?" James queried softly, nudging us to wakefulness this morning, before the day's dawn. Darkness filled the room. Beyond there was no sight of any star gazing and a silence. And the patter of the life-keeping-rain. "It's not heavy," James commented. "It's only a light shower. But, if we get enough of them, they'll do a power of good. Things were becoming serious, where the fields were concerned. This will brighten everything." "It's surely welcome" we said. He snuggled down on his pillow. And presently his measured breathing told us, he was off once more along his Dreamland trail. It leads, we think, to dusty summer-fields where horses graze: a remembered driver, maybe that carried him out on boyish jaunts, or a mare and white-starred foal. Perhaps the exciting first to come in his young farming. Pastures in his dreams - are they not always lushly green for their content herds and flocks? Horses dappled and sleek. Cows - knee-deep in cloverly grasses, with some calves almost hidden in the growth. Flocks of clean, short-fleeced matrons of ewes, with pictured lambskin beside. In James' Dreamland, a stream must wind, one in ample flow, slipping beneath rustic bridges, to water the fields and offer at all times, refreshment to the stock. Lightly dampish our day continued, with a small August wind in the leaves. And strangely sunless. "Folks can get too much sunlight, you know!" a guest, come from an always summer clime, remarked with a twinkle, when we spoke of this attractive feature with some envy the other day. "Oh yes!" he grinned. "we can get an excess of sunshine - so much it is tiresome." "We farm-folks had had our fill of it, of late. The damp of today, and the heavier evening showers, were most welcome. The listless hollyhocks against a wall, snapped to attention. The pansies drank of the U. S. Now that the hay had been gathered in, and with our nearest still in the offing, our farmers have turned their attention to a matter of carpentry. The project had been discussed and values, for and against, weighed. Now that the registered herd had increased beyond present stabling, and having experienced the handiness of the loose-housing barn, the question posed was whether or not another should be built. Required logs were set aside in the wood-harvest, taken to a mill, and the lumber brought in. It was finally decided to add a roomy shed to the present building rather than to build anew. And with this new week, the work of construction began, in such spare time as came to the builders. Forms were fashioned today, and how clean and fragrant are the new spruce boards used for the concrete, which will be the foundation. By ratching spells off from the fieldwork, the addition should be complete before a last cricket's doleful tune is rather coldly blown over the hilltops and away. So goes now our day, though on no breath of wind. Just over the hilltops gently, and away. Until tomorrow - - - Diary - - Good-night.

Selkirk Couple Are Honored On Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel E. McDonald of Selkirk were honored recently when neighbours gathered at their home; the occasion being their sixty-first wedding anniversary. On the same day, Mr. McDonald celebrated his eighty-seventh birthday. Daniel McDonald and Flora McDonald were married on July 25th 1905, at St. Alexis Church, Rollo Bay by Father Edward Walker, P. P. The attendants were M. R. McIntyre of Selkirk and Annie McDonald now residing in Alberta.

On the day previous to the anniversary the ladies of Selkirk prepared and served supper to the family. The table was centered with a three-tiered wedding cake, made by Mrs. Daniel McInnis, topped with bride and groom, and decorated with a sixty first anniversary emblem. Rev. Joseph MacLeod, pastor read the telegrams from Hon. John Diefenbaker, Hon. Lester B. Pearson and W. R. Shaw. Messages of congratulations were also received from Her Majesty the Queen, Melvin J. McQuaid, M. P. Walter Dingwell MLA, Mrs. Margaret McCabe and John Dan McDonald, Boston, Mass.

Later in the evening, neighbours and friends called to extend their good wishes and congratulations. Mr. and Mrs. McDonald have resided since their marriage in Selkirk where they have made a host of friends and have always been useful members of the community. Both enjoy good health although Mrs. McDonald is afflicted with blindness. Mr. McDonald is still able to perform light farming duties. The couple had a family of seven, namely: Mary, Annie, Lina, Irene all living in the U.S. One daughter, Laura died one year ago. The sons are Lem of Monticello, P. E. I. and Daniel of Montreal. Both were at home for the celebration. They have 28 grandchildren and several great grandchildren.

Hickey Family Holds Reunion

Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Hickey, Jr., and family, Michael, Brian, Brenda, Coleen and Paul, Hamilton, Ont., spent the past two weeks visiting Mr. Hickey's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Hickey at Indian River. All the families of Mr. and Mrs. Hickey attended a re-union at their home on Sunday, comprising Edgar, Eleanor and family, Arnold and Janet and children, Davelyn and David, New Glasgow, N. S., Brenda and Charlie Ryan and children, Harry and Brenda Lee, Charlottetown, Rozita, Lawrence and Sister Noreen also of Charlottetown, Eleanor, Mrs. Frank Miller and daughter, Patty Ann, Montreal, Mr. Miller, due to a work schedule with Northern Airways, was the only missing member of the group.

Following a dinner served buffet style, Edgar, a very talented musician from childhood and a violinist at the age of nine years, favored the group with many tunes, old and new on both the violin and accordion, and was joined by Arnold and Rozita on guitars, Sister Noreen on the mandolin and Mrs. Hickey at the organ. Brendon Driscoll also played the violin.

Mr. Hickey, Sr. was celebrating his birthday on the same day and was pleasantly remembered by his family. Also attending the function were Mr. and Mrs. Brendon Driscoll, Mr. and Mrs. William Hickey and Joseph and Mrs. Agnes Shea.
