FASHION AND FABRIC.

Dark, rich plum colors of a reddish cast are highly favored among winter tailor costumes of cloth.

Satin is made great use of this autumn in lining long, narrow loops and pointed ends of velvet that are machine stitched in silk on their extreme edges.

Many of the small pelerines and other shoulder capes of last winter are modishly changed into very attractive styles with a frill at the edge and long slender stole fronts.

On some of the rich dark costumes for the winter are arranged yokes of silk applique, with revers of seal, mink, astrakhan, chinchilla, otter or other dark fur beyond.

Fringe in jet, silk, beads, cords and chenille has come into fashion if not in general favor. In spite of their familiar drawbacks, fringes of every make are used by high class dressmakers.

There is this season a very extensive show of small fur neck pieces and a few boas in all the long fleeced furs, such as black fox, marten, lynx, Alaska sable, etc., with fair sized muffs to match.

The princess dress of today has undergone great transformations. Often on imported models only the back is a princess model, and the front is cut in the form of a bodice and yoke, a bolero, a cutaway Louis XIV coat, etc.

This season the yellow toilets, as a rule, seem to be decidedly yellow rather than the dainty honeysuckle and primrose tints. The brilliant Marechal Niel yellow, the orange and military gold yellow shades are especially favored.

The odd and pretty combination of orange and gray, so becoming to many women and so popular the last season, has been carried into the domain of elegant evening dresses, where it has gained still greater vogue and success.

A very popular half cape cut like an immense Charles IX collar and applied to both redingote and princess dresses is much used on imported models from both Paris and London. It looks like large revers points in front and like a cape collar pushed down on the shoulders in the back and on the sides.

By order of the Berlin Barbers, Hair-dressers and Wigmakers' union, apprentices are forbidden to wear their hair cut short, because the practice is unprofessional. The union decided that "the apprentices' hair should be tastefully and carefully dressed in order to act as inspiration for the business and for customers."

SKIN-DEEP BEAUTY!

Dr. Agnew's Ointment Beautifies the Skin

Handsome is that handsome does," is the old theoretical adage, but after all it's the skin-deep beauty that's attractive. It would take a big lot of handsome doing to compensate for a skin that is diseased and whose appearance is distasteful to all who see it, and the torment of the patient whose daily burden it is to bear it about. Dr. AGNEW'S OINTMENT is a wonderful cure for all sorts of Skin Diseases—itching, burning, stinging sensations which are accompaniments—tetter, salt rheum, scald head, ring worm, eczema, itch, ulcers, erysipelas, liver spots, and all eruptions of the skin—one application allays the irritation, and perseverance in its use results in a speedy cure. AT THE TURN OF THE ROAD.

A moment's pause for longing and for dream

A moment's looking backward on the way; To kiss my hand to long past turrets gleaming. To stand and think of life of yesterday!

A little time to dream of sunlit hours

Spent where white towers rise against the sky. To tread again that path of too sweet flowers. To hear again her greeting and goodbye!

What is there, say you, in that faroff city.

Of my past living and past loving left, Wrapped in its golden haze, to stir my pity And call the bitter sigh of the bereft?

The memory of a touch warm, trusting, clinging. The memory of that touch grown cold as ice? A voice hushed that was pure as wild bird's singing?

A love whose bright flame burned in sacrifice? Only a grave? Life of today will teach me Its stream fleets fast for sorrow and regret. Beyond this turn its sweeping wave will reach me.

I must go with it, as we all go! Yet—

A moment's pause for longing and for dream

ing. A moment's looking backward on the way; To kiss my hand to long past turrets gleaming.

To stand and think of life of yesterday!

TWO INTERESTING INSECTS.

Something About the Ladybug and the Dragon Fly.

So commonplace an insect as the little ladybird or, as it is often called, the ladybug is something to excite your interest.

It is constantly seen upon flowers and is known by naturalists as coccinella. It is a tiny creature with a hard body like a shell, which is of a deep orange color, with black or red spots or a sprinkling of brown. By looking under a rose leaf you will often see a cluster of little amber colored balls. They are ladybirds' eggs and in time will be developed into a flat six footed worm of grayish color marked with yellow.

As soon as these worms are hatched out they begin to look about for the aphides, which are tiny green creatures to be found on any neglected rosebush. The worms eat them with great avidity, after which they attach themselves to some solitary leaf, where they remain without food until they are changed into ladybirds.

Besides furnishing food for the development of the ladybird, the aphides serve another purpose in the economy of nature. They are called the ants' cows. When the ants stroke them with their feelers, they exude a pale, sweet, green substance not unlike honey, which the ants devour. The aphides are lazy and never roam from the leaves upon which they have commenced their life.

Four times in 12 days they change their coverings before they reach maturity, and then they begin with their family cares.

Some 20 are produced by their parents daily, and were it not that the ladybird worms devour them in such quantities they would soon overrun and kill the plants.

Another interesting insect is the dragon fly, with its wings of transparent iridescent gauze. It, too, must pass through a process of transformation before its perfection is reached. At first it is only a greenish gray grub, which lives in the mud on the margin of the stream. The grub crawls from the mud and attaches itself to a reed with its claws. In a little time its eyes become very brilliant, the back opens, a head appears, then the body and finally the wings, which are closely folded, and very soon the dragon fly will be able to fly. Dragon flies live upon other insects, and when they are numerous the mosquitoes are said to disappear. Some of them are very beautiful. The wings of some are golden green, of others slate blue and still others have black and blue spots upon the extremities.
