

"GOLD IN A DUST HEAP."

(Concluded.)

"A few days ago he comes in and shows me this ring. 'Molly,' sez he, 'look here; I've found this, and if I had the money, I'd go and have it advertised. But I'm a bit tired now; I can't walk so far.'

"'Loi,' I sez, for it sparkled like, 'it's worth no end, I bet!'

"'Yes, sez he, 'no end.'

"'And would buy a lot o' dinners,' I sez.

"'Yes, a lot of dinners. If it were mine, I'd give it to you for one dinner,' and then he half-laughed to hide his words like, but I knew what he meant, and he looked bad, did Mr. Beales.'

"'I knows them as would buy it of you,' sez I, 'and ask no questions.'

"'Do you, Molly? But it's not mine.'

"'Well, but you don't know whose it is.'

"'No,' sez he, and went away quick, and I hears him walking about his room, and I hears him say, half aloud, 'Our Father th'art in heaven,' as he mostly did when he went to bed; but it war dinner-time then.

"'Well,' thought I, 'Mr. Beales is queer, very queer.'

"Towards dark, Mr. Beales comes in again quite slowly, and sez, 'Molly! I was minding the children, and did not turn round. 'Yes,' sez I.

"'Didn't you say you knew some folks as would take this ring and give me something for it?'

"'Yes,' sez I; 'nif you'll stay with the children, Mr. Beales, I'll run round with it for you, and buy you a bit of summat with it.'

"'Thank you, Molly,' he sez; and then he stopped, and muttered, 'Deliver us from evil,' or summat like that, and then aloud he sez:

"'No, thank you, Molly; I think I'll go out myself and get my supper. And, Molly, just keep this ring, and if I am not able to-morrow, just run round to the parson with it, and tell him about it; he'll know what to do. You're a good girl, Molly—promise me you'll do this.'

"'Yes, I'll go, Mr. Beales,' sez I. 'I spees you's got work for to-morrow, as you can't go yourself.'

"'He just smile a bit, a queer sort of smile, and sez:

"'O, perhaps I'll get pensioned off, Molly. You'll always be honest, won't you? and don't have anything to do with the folks you mentioned just now. Keep out of harm, Molly, and I shouldn't wonder if you went to heaven and seed my gal.'

"'He didn't wait for an answer, but kissed one of the children as war near him and went out.

"'I war asleep when he came in, I s'pose—but you knows the end. It were all his nonsense about going out o' get his supper.

"'Mother went in early of the morning, and she found him lying quite dead; and he had a lock of hair in his hand—child's hair it war.

"'I'll not soon forget what he said to me, and I was a-going to step round with this 'ere if you hadn't come in. He war a good man, war Mr. Beales, though a bit soft-like; and even Molly rubbed her hand across her dirty face and sniffed a bit.

"'As for myself, I felt a choking sensation, and I was almost dazed. I did not hear what Canfield said to the girl—something good, I know; I could only contrast my own house with this room, and myself with the dead man.

"'The owner of the ring, who had offered a reward for it, was found; but I think Mr. Beales has had a richer reward than even the best or wealthiest man on earth could have given him.—Youths' Companion.

Esther Cox Again.

A despatch to the News of yesterday says: "Esther Cox's bad spirits are in attendance. They manifest themselves in the manner following: In scrubbing the floor, her brush and cloth would be stolen from her and hid. Sometimes, when wondering where they could be, they suddenly would fall alongside of her with great force. Once the articles were found in a closed room just immediately after using them. While washing at Mrs. White's this morning, the clothes would leave the tub and move across the room and strike the inmates. She had to abandon the washing and started for Mr. White's saloon. A short time after entering, the hatchet, shovel, tubs, iron spikes, bag of salt and putty, took life and flew around with terrible velocity. All this would occur at intervals while at her work. She admits no control whatever over the spirits, and naturally gets very much excited, fearing personal injury might befall her by such dangerous missiles flying around.—Moncton Times.

CATARRH.
Constitutional Catarrh Remedy
CURES CATARRH.

Hear what a Reverend Gentleman says of the Constitutional Remedy.

T. J. B. HARDING, Esq., Brockville, Ont.:—
DEAR SIR—It is now two years since your "Constitutional Catarrh Remedy" was introduced to me. I have waited this long to see if the cure would remain permanent before doing this, my duty, to you, as at first the happy effects seemed to me to be "too good to be true."

I was afflicted in my head for years before I suspected it to be Catarrh. In reading in your Circular I saw my case described in many particulars. The inward "drop" from the head had become very disagreeable, and a choking sensation often preventing me from lying long. I would feel like smothering and be compelled to sit up in the bed. My health and spirits were seriously affected. When your agent came to Walkertown in August, 1876, I secured three bottles. Before I had used a quarter of the contents of one bottle I found decided relief, and when I had used two bottles and a third, I quit taking it, feeling quite cured of that ailment, and have not used any since until of late I have taken some for a cold in my head.

A sense of duty to sufferers from that loathsome disease, Catarrh, prompts me to send you this Certificate, unsolicited, with leave to make what use of it you may see proper. Yours truly,

W. TINDALL, Methodist Minister.
Port Elgin, Ont., Aug. 24, 1878.
