Billy-Graham Film To Be Shown On Island

"SOULS IN CONFLICT," the fourth motion picture released by Evangelist Billy Graham, this one filmed against the backdrop of his highly successful London Crusade, will be shown in Summerside in the Baptist Church Hall on Thursday, July 28, at 7:30 p.m., Charlottetown in the Rollaway Club on Sunday, July 31 at 9:00 p.m., and in Mirray River in the Mayfair Theatre on Sunday, July 31 at 3:00 p.m. All seats are free.
"SOULS IN CONFLICT" is a trilogy, a full-length production in color which documents the life stories of an actress, a jet pilot, and a factory worker, as they are influenced by Graham's spiritual messages—delivered before audiences numbering as many as 120,000 persons in vast Wembley Stadium.

Since his first major campaign in America, in Los Angeles, California, in 1950, Graham has supplemented his ministry with the coast-to-coast radio broadcast, the "Hour of Decision," over A B C carried by 300 stations here in America and approximately 50 foreign stations.
In 1952 increased use of religious films brought about the formation of Billy Graham Evangelistic Films, Inc. "MID-CENTURY CRUSADE," a documentary of Graham's Portland, Oregon Campaign, was the first production of this new organization. "MR. TEXAS," the world's first Christian Western, which saw 25,000 persons crowd Hollywood Bowl for its premiere, followed. "OILTOWN U.S.A.," a story of the message of evangelism in millionaire circles in Houston, Texas, was the third such film.
Inasmuch as the new historic London Crusade was Graham's most ambitious endeavor, "SOULS IN CONFLICT" is his most important picture. Featured in the cast are Joan Winmill, star of the British TV thriller, "Epitaph for a spy," Eric Wickelwood and Charles Leno. Miss Winmill was one of those who "came forward" in Harrington Arena, later to receive counsel in the interview room from none other than Mrs. Billy Graham.

Donn Moomaw, six-foot-four, 222 pound All-American line-backer from UCLA, who turned down a most lucrative offer to play professional football to follow the dictates of his heart in the field of evangelism, is also prominently featured, as is Colleen Townsend Evans, ex-Warner Brothers and 20th Century-Fox player.

"SOULS IN CONFLICT" was produced by Billy Graham by the Great Commission Films, Hollywood, in association with Anglo-Scottish Pictures, London. Dick Ross wrote and directed the picture assisted by Leonard Reeve. The special musical score was composed and conducted by Ralph Carmichael.

The work-experience of the person provides expression only for mental energies and drives, there arises a definite necessity to provide in some way for the expression of physical energies and drives. Within this group may be included the members of the professions, business executives, white-collar workers generally, and students. Mental fatigue is most relieved when confronted with bodily fatigue.
Certain games are more difficult to master than others. This is especially true of those which involve a rather large group of participants. These are especially valuable from this, that they involve co-operation and teamwork. Young people especially should be encouraged to learn and to participate actively in games of this type.
But if not intelligently directed, game-experience, like all other things in themselves good, can produce harmful effects. As in other fields of human endeavor, the good effects must be fostered and the harmful prudently prevented.
Game-experience for human persons, for example, is essentially different from the game-experience of animals. When one has an acute awareness of the reason of being of things, and the necessities which their being entails, one is in a much more likely way of making fruitful use of them.

It sometimes happens that there is a psychological distance between a father and son which negates the father's influence for good over the son. This will rarely occur if the father judiciously promotes and shares, as far as this is possible, the game-experience of his son. It is a wise father who encourages his son to take a reasonable pride in his excellence in games.
Many boys who find themselves in juvenile courts would not if more fathers would bind their sons to them by this use of games. Games is here used in its wide sense to include hiking, fishing, hunting, boating, and the like.
Our age seems to place too much emphasis on the winners in sports contests. This de-emphasizes the value that the game has for its own sake, a value which, indeed, is in turn subordinate to the value of the human persons involved. There is a certain lack of right order involved in playing a game for the sake of victory. The game should be played for its own internal necessities. As Kipling said:
"It matter not whether you win or lose,
"But how you play the game."

Thoughts For Our Time

Nothing is more effective as a social leaven than shared experience. It has the natural foundation for true friendship.
Such true friendship requires mutual knowledge between the parties. The unknown or the unequal is instinctively feared. Fear and friendship are incompatible. The requisite knowledge and equality can be provided by shared experience.
Shared experience is possible on many planes of human activity. One of the more obvious forms and perhaps one of the more undervalued, is that provided by games. Two persons who have shared victory or defeat in the same contest will spontaneously know each other's strength or weakness, and will recognize that a certain equality obtains between them. The foundation is thus laid for true friendship between them.
Although the game plays a much greater role in the life of the young, yet it has its place, and that an important one, in the life of mature persons as well. Our age deserves credit for the practical recognition of this truth.
The game-experience will necessarily vary as between one age group and another, and as between the sexes. These variations will depend upon the physical constitution of the person, and upon his or her capability to sustain exertion.
Game-experience seems especially desirable for those whose way of life tends to tax mental rather than physical powers. Man is a substantial unity composed of a material and a spiritual principle, with energies and drives directed toward action in two spheres of existence.

ipants in games. Limited attendance at spectator sports doubtless serves a useful purpose. No one would contend, however, that it supplies for active participation. This is especially true for the young, who have a superabundance of physical energy that cries for active expression.
Many of the early Christian writers compare the Christian life to competition in the games. The saint is often metaphorically referred to as the "athlete" of Christ. St. Paul several times has recourse to comparisons based on athletic contests. Christ said nothing about sports, with the single exception of the simile involving a game of children in the market-place. One feels safe in asserting, nevertheless, that He would give His blessing to prudent, well-regulated, and temperate active participation in games. This, after all, is proper and becoming to human nature.
The physical, mental, and moral health of our people is, to a larger extent than most of us realize, dependent upon the game-experience which our culture can provide. It is to our best advantage to seek out the principles involved in this sphere of human activity, to this end that those who come after us may enjoy, without fear, life in a country that is virile, healthy, wholesome, and well-adjusted, enjoying friendship with God and man.

OPENING TODAY
KIWANIS DAIRY BAR
AT VICTORIA PARK

(Proceeds for operation of Kiwanis Kiddies' Wading Pool)
Our Dairy Bar features Milk Shakes, Chocolate Milk and Ice Cream products.
We also serve Tea, Coffee and Milk, Toast, Doughnuts, Hot Dogs, Soft Drinks, Chocolate Bars, etc.
It costs over $1000.00 a year to operate our very popular Wading Pool but we feel it well worth the cost. Hundreds of children daily enjoy the fun in the Pool with a record high of 1000 about ten days ago.
We intend to operate our Pool regardless of cost and to finance this operation we have built a modern, hygienic Dairy Bar to serve the many people, young and old, who daily enjoy the natural beauty of lovely Victoria Park. ALL profit from the Dairy Bar will go to defray operational expenses of our Pool and we solicit your patronage at this time.
In the near future we propose to open a Tea Room in conjunction with our Dairy Bar, the opening to be announced shortly.
