A GREAT MEDICINE.

Cod-liver Oil is useful beyond any praise it has ever won, and yet few are willing or can take it in its natural state.

Children like it. It is Cod-liver Oil made more effectual, and combined with its strengthening and flesh-forming powers are largely increased.

Don't be persuaded to accept a substitute. Scott & Bown, Belleville, 50c and $1.

Early as they were on the river a big American kerosene ship was ahead of them in tow, and when Jim saw her through the driving morning mist he was thankful.

When he raked her with his spy glass and saw his father on the poop with an unlighted cigar between his teeth. That cigar, Jim knew, would be smoked on the other side of the American and Mary, and Jim felt so entirely safe and happy that he "clear"ed his throat.

BATTLE BETWEEN FOREST KING

Two Big South American Pumas Take Pieces in a Month Struggle. "On our return, trip to the foothills of the Andes said to a Globe-Democrat man, 'I saw a thrilling incident of life in the South American forest, a fight to the death between two big animals. These great beasts are fierce, hard fighters at all times against a common enemy, but it is only during the mating season that the males fight among themselves, and when they do contest means death to one or both of them.'

"For strength and courage they are the equals of the African lion or the tigers of the Indian jungles. We were making our way down a narrow wooded ravine in the foothills of the Andes, and had stopped for our midday meal on the bank of a small mountain stream of clear water. After we had finished the meal I laid down for a short rest, but in less than five minutes I was aroused by the most terrific roaring, snapping and snarling of wild beasts I had ever heard.

"When we caught sight of the two animals they were crouching close to the ground, facing each other, in a small space under some large trees. They were the finest specimens of the puma I ever saw. 'They were probably thirty feet apart, and as they crouched there glaring at each other they looked like giant cats about to spring on their prey. Pugilists never sparred with greater caution than did those two big brutes. Their tails were switching back and forth, and their eyes were like balls of fire. Slowly they moved around in a circle, all the time cautiously getting closer and closer together. It was evident that each was waiting for the other to make the first lead. For more than ten minutes they watched and waited. The roaring and snarling we heard when they first met had ceased. Their map no sound now as they watched for a chance to spring.

"Our own nerves were trembling under the strain, when at last the two great brutes rose in the air at the same instant and, like catapults, came together with a thud that could have been heard 200 yards away. They were on the ground and for almost ten minutes all we could make out was two great brown bodies rolling over and over in a death struggle. They made no outcry of any kind, but every few seconds we could hear their powerful jaws come together with a snap like the closing of a well-oiled steel trap. Finally they began to weaken, and as their struggles grew less violent we could see that both of them were covered with blood, very bright and glistening. In five or six minutes more the fight was over and the two giants of the forest were stretched out on a fall length on the ground, clasped in each other's limbs, just as they lay when I sometimes lie down together. They struggled feebly a little longer and then both of them lay perfectly still. Then we went down to them, and found that neither was any animal so torn to pieces. It was as if they had been torn apart and scattered all over the ground where they had fought, and in their necks were great ragged holes, from which the blood had flowed in streams while they were still fighting. They each had a score of wounds that would have killed any animal with less tenacity of life."

A Peppery Queen.

Here is an amusing incident of stage life. A certain actress having been disengaged for some time, had packed her wardrobe in pepper to preserve it from moths. She was suddenly called upon to take the part of the Queen in "Hamlet."

Weak, Nervous Women.

one to whom a night's rest was unknown. Str. energy and good health restored.

Notice.

I was subject to frequent attacks of nervousness that seemed to sap all my vitality and left me in a state of weakness and misery. I could not relish food and such a thing as a good night's rest was unknown. Incapable of any exertion and with an ever present tired and dependent feeling. Medicines that I used did not do any good; it was a case of gradually becoming weaker and weaker. Hearing of Scott's Sarsaparilla and its success with similar cases to mine, I used it, and from the first few doses began to get better, appetite returned, good sleep and refreshing sleep, I grew stronger, in fact life seemed to be led in so active a way. ODDS AND ENDS.

Canada's Fiscal Policy Defended.

Loxton, Nov. 23.—The Standard this morning says that Sir Charles Tupper, speaking at Newcastle-Tyne yesterday, defended the fiscal policy adopted by Canada in her relations with England. He contended that Canada's system of indirect protection are immensely increasing instead of decreasing her trade with Great Britain. England, he said, was the only country which, in respect to trade, treated her colonies as foreigners, and he thought the time had arrived when this subject should be dealt with in a manner likely to prove to the advantage of both England and her colonies.

That Pale Face.

For Nervous Prostration and Anemia there is no medicine that will so promptly and infallibly restore vigor and strength as Scott's Emulsion.

Cured of Chronic Catarrh.

A Remarkable Cure.—J. W. Jenison, Gilford, spent between $200 and $300 in consulting doctors; tried Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People, and all other treatments, but got no benefit. One box of Chase's Catarrh Cure did me more good than all other remedies; in fact, I consider myself cured, and with a 25-cent box at that.
