MR. R. G. HALBERTON, son of "Sam Slick," who is in England at present, writes that he is about going to the Mediterranean to spend a year for the benefit of his health.

THE Upper Prince Street School, in this city, will be re-opened, after its short suspension of work, on Tuesday, Nov. 15th, inst. A full attendance of the pupils on that day is requested by the School Board.

THE Pictou Bank is a paying concern. The receipts for the past year were $1,007.05, the net profits being $385.00. The capital stock is $2,580, and has therefore yielded a profit of over 15 per cent.

MR. DODD would direct special attention to the auction sale on Monday next, of Mr. Disney's very beautiful and valuable farm and residence at Pleasant Point, North River, and known as "Riverside." The land is very highly cultivated and consists of one hundred and ten acres, all cleared, but about twenty, and some of the outbuildings are all A. 1. And the whole property presents a rare chance for a capitalist, as it would be easily converted into a first class summer resort. Beautiful scenery and river views, with splendid bathing and boating facilities. Sale to commence at 12 o'clock. See adv't.

THE Crystal Ivorytype Printing is the name of a new process for painting photographs, and is giving general satisfaction wherever exhibited. Any person having photographs that they wish to be made to look like life, should leave their orders early with Professor F. C. Clement at Miss Sinclair's, corner Pownall and Sidney streets. His charges are very low and satisfaction guaranteed. He will also teach the Crystal Ivorytype Painting to any one wishing to learn. One lesson is all that is necessary to acquire the beautiful art. Samples of his pupils work are on exhibition at Mr. P. G. Fraser's Drug Store and also at the Professor's studio. He will also teach a new process of producing beautiful paintings as ornaments on silk and satin. Ladies not finding it convenient to call, can have the Professor call at their homes by sending their cards. All wishing any work done should call early, as Prof. Clement intends remaining in Charlottetown only a short while.

THE dynamite landed here in transit to Halifax still remains in an unsafe shed near St. Peter's Road. It was yesterday examined by Capt. Rood of the "M. A. Starr." He pronounced it to be genuine dynamite, and refused to take it as freight. This dangerous explosive still remains close to the city. At any moment a spark from a chimney in the neighborhood might set fire to the shed, and the explosion which would naturally follow would shake Charlottetown to its foundation. Fancy a set of the most destructive of all explosives set off at one's door. Then contemplate how far the dynamite in the suburbs is from the doors of our citizens, and the danger the city is exposed to by the unlawful transaction of the shippers of this dynamite. We hope that the authorities will have it removed to safer quarters than the present.

Small matter: "I declare!" exclaimed Brown, "I believe I have forgotten all I ever knew." "Sorry to hear it," remarked Fogg. "However, you can take an hour some day and learn it all over again."

The editor of the Kingston Freeman has evidently been suffering from a touch of arnica. He shouts: "Bind up my wounds, bring me another piece of chargepipe, and let the battle proceed! Stove, tinker, charge! Oh, stovepipe, on."

While preaching from the text, "He giveth His beloved sleep," a Toledo minister stopped in the middle, gazed upon his sleeping auditors, and said: "Brethren, it is hard to realize the wondrous, unbounded love the Lord appears to have for a good portion of this congregation!"

A household journal says tough beef can be made palatable by stewing gently for two hours, taking out about half a pint of liquor when half done, and let the rest boil into the meat. A better and less troublesome way would be to kill the cow when she is a calf.—Norristown Herald.

The San Francisco Post says: "A young lady of Mills Seminary who recently sent us a poem entitled 'Murmurings from the Outer Utterness,' is informed that any pecuniary assistance she can send to the widow of the man to whom we gave it to read will be thankfully received by that lady."

The nearest man in the world lives in Burlington. While a deaf, dumb and blind hand-organist was sleeping on the post office corner, the watch stole his instrument and substituted a new-fangled chime therefor; and when the organist awoke he seized the handles of the chime and ground away for dear life, and when "the shades of night were falling fast," that meanest man in the world came around, took his chime, restored the organ to its owner and carried home four pounds of creamy butter.—New Jersey Enterprise.

Amiable husband (who had just finished moving)—"Where are my slippers, dear?" Wife—"They came along with the third load, and that load went to the parrot." Husband—"And where is my pipe?" Wife—"You'll find it in one of the barrels of crockery in the cellar." Husband—"And where's my comb and hair brush?" Wife—"Jane packed them in the kitchen stove with the children's shoes." Husband (mentally soliloquizing)—"What a woman my wife is! She never went to college and yet she knows everything."—Brooklyn Eagle.
