NATURAL PHENOMENA IN AUSTRALIA.

DISEASES AND THEIR REMEDIES.

Australia has been called a country of contraries, not only in a point of climate, but in nature itself. The diseases and infirmities of men are, however, the same in this remote region as at the centre of civilization, and here, as there, the common sense and practical experience of all classes have taught them the inestimable value of Professor Holloway's remedies, in the various maladies incident to the human race.

It might be thought, perhaps, that because we abound in exceptions to all rules of natural history, because our swans are black, our cherries grow with the stones on the outside, our delicious-looking pears are solid wood, our bees are stingless, our flowers are scentless, our trees are barkless, our owls screech by day, and our cuckoo sing at night—that the complaints prevalent in Australia are also unusual and cannot be reached and subdued by the preparations which have conquered sickness and death in every other region of the earth. This is a grave error.

Rheumatism, in peculiarly distressing forms, prevails in many of the gold districts crippling the limbs and blasting the hopes of the miner. The Ointment in all such cases, produces the most astonishing results. Contracted joints, when lubricated with this penetrating unguent, soon recover their flexibility; the pain and inflammation which accompany acute rheumatism are invariably relieved by its application, and even when all the limbs are partially paralysed by the disease, they rapidly recover the power of motion and their pristine vigour, as the flesh and muscular fibre absorb this re-vitalizing preparation, under the friction of the hand.

Neuralgia, Tic-Douloureux, as well as all other affections of the nerves of sensation, are cured with facility by the same means. The Pills, from their direct operation upon the secretions, and through them upon the blood, may also be used with marked advantage in every instance where the Ointment is employed to remove the outward developments of disease, and fomentation of the parts affected, with warm water, together with an occasional resort of warm drinks for the promotion of perspiration, are useful adjuncts in producing a speedy cure.

For all diseases of the muscles, nerves and glands, as well as for ulcers, bruises, eruptions, tumours, and scrofulous affections, I am satisfied that Holloway's Pills and Ointment are the only thorough and invariable specifics.—From the pen of an Old Settler.

WHISTLING GIRLS.—There is a proverb that "Whistling girls and crowing hens Always come to some bad end."

But, notwithstanding the old proverb, a writer steps forward to defend whistling girls in this independent fashion: "Show me the girl who has the hardihood to whistle in these days when everything is so natural, even to the very hair of your head, is at a discount, and I'll show you a girl who can be depended upon, one who will not fail you in time of need, and will give you the true hearty grasp, the cordial hand-shake, the warm, genuine welcome; no tip of the kid glove, and a cold how-do-you-do; who can brave danger, look tall in the face without shrinking, laugh with those who laugh, and weep with those who weep, as well as whistle with those that whistle; who can, in short, take the world as she finds it, rough and rugged, and not go through life as though she were walking on eggs, and afraid of cracking them; who deals in substance, not in shadow."

DUTY ON FOREIGN BREADSTUFFS.—In the original Customs Act, Grain, Flour and Breadstuffs of all kinds, and also Seeds, the products of any of the British N. A. Provinces, were admitted duty free. These items are now omitted from the list of free goods, and all such F. E. I. or N. F. breadstuffs as would pay duty coming from England or the United States, such as grain, meal, &c., will pay a duty of fifteen per cent.—Journal.

Correspondence.

"We would announce that a person named C. J. Ferdinand, whom we engaged as an assistant in the literary department of this paper, has withdrawn himself from it, and now has no connection directly or indirectly, with this office."—North Star.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Dear Sir:—As the writer of the above was astute enough to entice me nearly a thousand miles to conduct a newspaper not in existence, whose proprietor is penniless, whose office is a myth, whose printers are his three female children, and whose supporters have yet to be enjoined, will you allow me also to add to the unenviable notoriety which has been accorded me, that I withdrew my services, as the publisher had but a sheet of paper between himself and starvation; had more enemies than friends, whose social position soared no higher than the pedagogue or peddler, whose knowledge of the newspaper business merely consisted of type-sticking, or acting as a deoxy clerk for his journal, and whose antecedents, either socially or mentally, I could never relish. By adding insult to an injury which will meet with retributive justice in another Court, in another land, where bills of sale are valueless, he has likewise capped the climax of the hopeless idea of begging a prolonged existence for another of the many starving sheets with which this continent is pestered. Hoping you will mention these as the reasons of my withdrawal from such a luminous though uninhabitable body as the "North Star."

I am yours truly, "The person," C. J. FERDINAND.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir:—I believe that into whatever place or society the snob introduces himself, he generally contrives to make himself unpleasantly conspicuous and disagreeable to persons of sense and good manners, and I believe further, that there is no community without its snob par excellence. At the Concert on Monday evening, one of these nuisances, a French compound of vanity, perfume and whiskers, (an apology for a "Dr.") was unnecessarily insulting to a gentleman present. The latter, considering the place and the circumstances, overlooked, as became him, the insult for the time being; but he did not fail, at the close of the performance, to express his keen appreciation of Mr. Snob's conduct. If the "Dr.'s" nose was not pulled, and his person soundly thrashed for his impertinence, it was simply because of his shaky health, which might become jeopardized by the application of a stout cane to his back. Of course no gentleman ever wantonly insults any person even by intendo; and it is not necessary to heed the insult of the pretender in broad cloth. But it may be sometimes necessary to teach your snob manners by summary means, where milder ones are of no avail.

Your obedient servant, "DO YOU KNOW WHO JACK IS?" July 7, 1868.

ON DR.—Since the murder of Detective Cullen, in Canada, the Dominion Government have been unable to find any person belonging to the regular detective force, to watch the movements, and report the conversations, of Whelan, and the other Fenian prisoners, and have written to the different Governments of the Maritime Provinces asking them to name a gentleman of acknowledged ability to act in that capacity.

Mr. "Toulat" Currie, stool-editor of the Patriot, Adjutant, and Deputy Prothorator, has been named as a gentleman who can fill the important position of pimp, spy, and general eaves-dropper, to perfection—He can obtain testimonials for ability in this line, from the late Leader of the Government, as well as other influential gentlemen who have been acquainted with his antecedents—He is suffering a little just now from sore eyes, the effects of painful and laborious duties attending Caucus meetings, &c., during the past session of the House of Assembly. Besides the regular pay of the service, he will receive two pairs of moccasins a year, and thus fitted out, he will be terrible scourge to Fenians at home and abroad! It is alleged, however, by some of his early acquaintances, that he is somewhat unfit for the regular detective service, from the fact of his not being able to recognize his brothers and sisters, even after a short absence from home.—It is suggested that this only arises from "Toulat's" ideas of "high falutin'."

Clear the track when "Toulat" gets the moccasins on!!!—COM.

SCHOOL EXAMINATIONS.

ST. JOSEPH'S SCHOOL.

It afforded us much pleasure to attend the annual Examination of the pupils of St. Joseph's School, which took place in St. Andrew's Hall, on the afternoon of Thursday last. Among those present, were His Lordship Bishop McIntyre, Very Rev. Dr. McDonald, V. G., Rev. Angus McDonald, Rector of St. Dunstan's College, Rev. Jas. McKenna, and several ladies and gentlemen who take an interest in educational affairs. The body of the Hall was well filled with the parents and friends of the pupils. Over two hundred children, neatly dressed, were seated on the platform, and were searchingly examined in spelling, reading, grammar, geography, history and arithmetic, by the Bishop, the Vicar General, the Rector, the Rev. Mr. McKenna and Mr. E. Roche. In each of the branches, satisfactory proficiency was manifested. A marked improvement over last year was observable, and the progress of the children has been such as to speak favorably of the painstaking zeal, and the high capacity for teaching, possessed by the Ladies who conduct the School. His Lordship the Bishop, in attending and participating in the Examination of St. Joseph's School, must have experienced the proud satisfaction of knowing, that all his labors and sacrifices to afford to the children of Charlottetown a superior secular education, based upon religion and morality, have not been in vain. The thought struck us, too, at the time, that if those who were so much opposed to schools like St. Joseph's, receiving state aid, were present at the Examination on Thursday, their objections would vanish. The training received at St. Joseph's, has effected a wonderful change for the better in those who attend the school, not only morally and intellectually, but even in manners and personal appearance. A convent pupil can now be recognized on the streets, by her modest demeanor and neat attire. It would be difficult to find anywhere a more healthy, better-looking, or sturdier body of children than those who occupied the platform in St. Andrew's Hall on Thursday last. In vocal music, and in the manufacture of wearing apparel, the children have been thoroughly instructed, and, indeed, the beautiful specimens of the latter which graced the walls of the Hall, were as gratifying evidences to us of the really superior practical education imparted at St. Joseph's, as any other feature of the Examination. The monotony of the exercises was relieved by the performance of pieces of music upon the Melodeon. Near the close of the Examination, a short drama was performed, which afforded much pleasure to the audience—not the less so because humility and honesty always command respect and appreciation. The Rev. Angus McDonald, and His Lordship Bishop McIntyre, briefly and appropriately addressed the pupils at the termination of the highly satisfactory and pleasing Examination—the former regretting that political exigencies and prejudice interfered to do justice to so excellent a school, and expressing the hope, that the time is not far distant when merit would command the respect and pecuniary assistance of Government; the latter complimented the pupils upon their progress in their studies during the last scholastic year, and the Ladies of the Congregation upon their disinterested labors in the cause of education, and the success which crowned them. SCHOOL EXAMINATION OF NOTRE DAME CONVENT.

The annual Examination of the Pupils of the Convent of Notre Dame, took place at St. Andrew's Hall, on Monday morning, at 9 o'clock. No cards were necessary for attendance. The spacious hall was decorated with laurels, fir and evergreens. The walls were surrounded with ingenious devices in wool work, tapestry and water colors,—the work of the young scholars; and from the ceiling, a triangular pendant laden with crowns of merit, and encircling the Gold Medal—destined for one whose general good conduct and amiability of temper endeared herself to her preceptors. The room was filled to its utmost capacity with the parents and relations of the students, the students of St. Dunstan's College, and the general public. One part of the building was galleried and platformed for the accommodation of the scholars. Over one hundred of whom were present, attended in white. The purity of the habiliments, the varied dresses of the lady visitors, the sable adornments of the good sisters, the decorations of the place, had an effect which must only be seen to have an appreciation of it. At ten o'clock, His Lordship the Bishop of Charlottetown, the Very Rev. Dr. McDonald, accompanied by other clergymen and ladies, among the latter being the Hon. Joseph Wrightman, James Warburton, &c., &c., entered and occupied seats near the platform, which were set apart for their accommodation. Three pianos, at one of which Madame St. Edith presided, and at the others the children of the music classes alternately sat. The performance opened with "The Ladies' Reception March." Miss Swabey then delivered an introductory address. The junior class, first and second divisions, were then drawn up before the Examiners, His Lordship, Very Rev. Dr. McDonald, V. G., and the Rev. Angus McDonald, Rector of St. Dunstan's College. They acquitted themselves very creditably in spelling and grammar, reading, vocabulary and geography, and received, as did each of the other classes, a hearty mark of applause from the auditory. In the elements of philosophy, the answering of this class was very good indeed. "The Coxing Polka" was then performed with much clat by children, whose proficiency on the piano was worthy of the fingers and training of ladies of more mature age. After a short interval, during which the assemblage, both lay and clerical, were profuse in their remarks of approbation, "Bravo," was then struck up and its twirling variations were delightful to the ear. This terminated the first part of the performance, in which the scholars of the junior class played so conspicuous and creditable a part. The senior classes number very few young ladies who have glided far in their teens, though the ordeal in literary and scholastic acquirements were almost severe. In the reading of French, their recent approximated perfection as much as youthful linguists could have been expected. They were so conversant with their text books on the History of Rome, that they could give the identical phraseology of the authors. They were as familiarly acquainted with the history of England as they were with the Elements of Logic, Science, Zoology and Botany. Miss C. Aldous and Miss S. Watson played sweetly "Vivo la Canada" and "Harp Eolienne." In fact, the proceedings connected with the Examination were pronounced a decided success. Those who have been present at Examinations of this kind in other schools, must have been forcibly struck with the accuracy of the answers, and not one question met with failure in answering. The children of minor Educational institutions generally fail in impressing the Examiners with the ideas that they comprehend the value of their studies. Here, however, such a contrast was obvious, particularly in the reading. They modulated the voice, observed the punctuation, and fell not into the elocutionary powers of the young. Before the National Anthem was performed, in which the entire assemblage joined, and which terminated the proceedings, His Lordship addressed the children as follows:

"My dear young friends, I congratulate you on the efficiency you have each and all displayed this morning. I would wish to say a few impressive words to you, particularly as you are on the point of closing up your scholastic exercises this term. Last winter we had the pleasure of being present, and presiding at your Examination, and, during February, we were also pleased to be eye witnesses of the progress you had made in these studies. During the course of the year we have also found frequent opportunities of seeing your assiduity to your studies. In February last there were no prizes distributed, but floral offerings were awarded to those who were successful, and notwithstanding the severity of the winter, we are pleased to see that the floral stems have budded, and turned into roses. We see to-day a number of crowns to be distributed to those who merit the honors. We are only too happy to be present on such occasions as these, and to have our friends around us to encourage you, my children, on in the paths of science and virtue. You will return home to your parents very soon, and glad then with your presence. Your acquaintances, little sisters and brothers, will expect to see in you the practice of these lessons of virtue which you have learnt during the past year. I feel certain you will realize to the utmost their most sanguine anticipations. Your kind parents and guardians who have sent you here, deserve your gratitude and love, and more particularly those who have tried to impress on your minds those lessons of learning and virtue. I shall always be happy to visit your scholastic exhibitions and will likewise look with fondness to meeting you during vacation. But those who have not yet finished their course of studies, I shall expect to see in the fall. Those who have now concluded their course with the good Nuns, will be pleased to meet hereafter at exhibitions like this."

THE CONCERT.

In the evening, in the same apartment, a musical entertainment was given, during which the prizes merited by the pupils, were distributed. Amongst those present were His Lordship the Bishop, and his parochial clergy, Hon. Joseph Whiteham, Hon. James Warburton, Hon. D. Brennan, Hon. P. Walker, D. O. M. Reddin, Esq., W. R. Watson, Esq., Dr. Hobbick, J. C. Crokell, Esq., Editor Halifax Reporter, Harry Green, Esq., and a large show of the elite of the city and suburbs. The performance opened with the "Grand March," aided by performers on the piano, harmonium, violin and cornet. Our space precludes us from giving to the public a full account of the concert, let it suffice to say that the public present were delighted at the efforts of the performers, and will not soon cease to forget the rich treat afforded by the talents of Madame St. Edith and the Misses Watson, Misses Scammon, Aldous, &c., &c., and last, though not least, the gentlemen performers, Messrs. Vincombe and Galbraith.
