Clarence Schuman Was Highly Esteemed

Mr. William Gillespie of the Charlottetown report, Dr. Schuman's son Don and Mr. James Pendergast of Charlottetown were in Kennington on May 8 attending the funeral of the late Mr. Clarence Schuman at the Kennington United Church. Mr. Schuman came to Prince Edward Island 30 years ago from Belfast, Maine, and was widely known as an outstanding fitter and driver of race horses. Race horses owned by Dr. Seaman and Wellington MacNeill, Charlottetown, Captain Samuel Grady, Summerside, and G. H. Brookings, Kennington, were among those trained by the late Mr. Schuman. He was forced to give up his chosen work seven years ago, when he became ill with a heart condition. From that time until his death he lived quietly at Kennington with his wife, the former Miss Arsenault of Summerside, sponsored by the Inkeepers at the Vocational School in Charlottetown on June 1st. The course to be employed this summer is the tourist catering field, and some 50 girls have registered for instruction. COMMITTEES A committee consisting of Vaughn Groom, W. Mutch, Ralph Balderson, and A.B. LePage was named to contact the Provincial Department of Highways regarding improvements in P.E.I. Highway Signs and Markings, and plans for re-surfacing Route 1 from Summerside to Charlottetown. A second committee of Gordon Shaw, Rauld Raymond, and Ed McCallum was then appointed to contact both the Provincial Government and National Parks Branch with a view to have the road section from Brackley to North Rustico completed next year in lieu of the planned intention of re-surfacing the Cavendish area first. Hon. Elsie Inman, R. Gordon Shaw, A.B. LePage, and the Secretary-Treasurer, A.W. Gaudet, were nominated as P.E.I. directors for 1957-58 to the Hotel Association of Canada. A resolution of sympathy was approved to be forwarded to the family of the late L.J. MacDonald of Charlottetown, formerly C.N.R. District Passenger Agent here. Announcements were made at the annual meetings of the Hotel Association of Canada and the Canadian Tourist Association, the former at St. Adele, P.Q. June 6-9th next, and the latter at Ottawa, Ontario, October 22nd-25th, 1957.

and three children, David, Alan and Elizabeth, who survive him. His excellent character and the expert knowledge applied in the pursuit of his calling, won for him the high esteem of all who knew him, and especially those with whom he worked.

Eldon

Continued from page 1 they managed their stage movements. "Very natural, quite good, no blocking," he said. The adjudicator had high praise for the "irector of the winning entry," "The Princess Chooses A Kitty." "She deserves a lot of credit for bringing this group together and carrying out all the work involved," he said. In addition the adjudicator declared that the community of Eldon were "extremely fortunate in possessing a resident pianist of such accomplishment. The unison speaking was quite good" the adjudicator said, adding that actors on stage should show enjoyment, so that the audience could also enjoy their efforts. Conviction Confirmed In Fine Paper Combines Case

By BERNARD DUFRESNE Canadian Press Staff Writer OTTAWA (CP)—A price-fixing combine is illegal whether or not it is detrimental to the public, the Supreme Court of Canada said Monday. Seven judges of the court concurred in this view in their reasons for a judgment confirming the conviction of seven manufacturers and 21 merchants on charges of conspiring to unduly prevent or lessen competition in the production, manufacture, purchase, production, sale, transportation and supply of fine papers. The federal government had charged that the conspiracy was carried on in Ontario, Quebec and other parts of Canada during the 1933-1932 period. A key issue in the case was the question as to whether a combine falls under the federal ban when, as claimed by the companies, it is not detrimental to the public interest. The Supreme Court judges said it does, thus sustaining the view of the government's anti-combine prosecutors. The court's ruling may mean that the government is closer to a decision as to whether it should launch prosecution on combines. Breweries Ltd. Justice Minister had been sold in advance. Sellout Crowds For Dominion Drama Festival In Edmonton EDMONTON (CP)—An all-male cast from Medicine Hat took the stage Tuesday night for their presentation of Stalag 17, second of the eight productions in the week-long Dominion Drama Festival. All but a few of the 2,700 seats in the huge new Jubilee Auditorium had been sold in advance. By curtain time, a full house was expected. The first-night performance of Anastasia by the Vancouver Little Theatre Association drew an audience of 2,000. A much smaller house is expected for this afternoon's production in American prisoners-of-war Don Devan and Edmund Trycinski. It was dramatized later by actor Jose Ferrer. MEN WON SEVEN AWARDS The cast of 21 men teamed in the Alberta regional festival last February to win five of the seven awards offered for competition. It won the best play and best visual production awards, while Mr. Allergoth was named best director, Garry Mitchell as Setton best actor, and John Komanchuk as Stosh the best supporting actor. Ronald Speight, adjudicator in the Dominion finals, warned the Medicine Hat and other six groups after Anastasia Monday night that

The fine papers group was convicted in 1954 by Mr. Justice W.F. Spence of the Supreme Court of Ontario. He fined it a total of $242,000 and issued a restraining order against further violations of anti-combine legislation. At the time the group controlled 90 per cent of the fine paper industry. The Ontario Court of Appeal modified the conviction, by striking out of the charge the words "manufacture" and "production." But the Supreme Court of Canada restored them. Meanwhile, the Ontario Court of Appeal has withheld its decision on an appeal against the sentence, pending the Supreme Court's judgment. The manufacturers involved are: Howard Smith Paper Mills, Ltd., Rolland Paper Co. Ltd., Canada Paper Co., all of Montreal; Provincial Paper Co., and Don Valley Paper Co. Ltd., both of Toronto; E. B. Eddy Co., Hull, Que., and Alliance Paper Mills Ltd., Merritt, Ont. REJECTED CLAIMS All judges who heard the appeal last autumn rejected, either directly or by concurring in reasons of those who had, the companies' claim there was no offence because there was no public detriment as a result of the combines. Lawyers had argued that any conspiracy "was a conspiracy to hold down prices." "Conspiracy is a crime in itself," wrote Mr. Justice Robert Taschereau in his reasons for judgment. "The public is entitled to the benefit of free competition, and the prohibitions of the (anti-combine) act cannot be evaded by good motives." "It is my strong view that traders, manufacturers and producers cannot, as the law now stands, monopolize a substantial part of the markets of the country in given industries, to promote their own business interests, and then set themselves up a public benefactor, by saying to the courts that the conspiracy was organized in order to achieve the stabilization of prices and production." INJURY TO PUBLIC Mr. Justice R. L. Kellock said the law starts with the premise that the preventing or lessening of competition is in itself an injury to the public. "It is not concerned with public injury or public benefit from any other standpoint," he said. Chief Justice Patrick Kerwin and Justices I. C. Rand and Gerald Faulx concurred. Mr. Justice J. R. Cartwright, with the concurrence of Mr. Justice C. H. Locke, said that agreements to prevent or lessen competition become criminal when the participants become free to operate virtually unaffected by the influence of competition. "In other words," he said, "once it is established that there is an agreement to carry the prevention or lessening of competition to the point mentioned, injury to the public interest is conclusively presumed and the parties to the agreement are liable to be convicted of the offence..."

LET'S TALK IT OVER

Teaching Is Teaching, Even The Technique Of Driving

Below are excerpts from a statement by H.R. Chauncey, president of the Canadian Automobile Association. "Trained drivers in the United States last year had less than one-half the accidents of untrained drivers, and sustained less than one-third the deaths—it is time we did something about teaching our youngsters how to drive, the one way to safety that has proved effective—entreaties and warnings by the Canadian Automobile Association, our magazines, newspapers, radios and TV stations do little good—95 per cent of our high school graduates drive a car as soon as they are eligible for a license, with what results is a matter of almost sickening head-line monotony—we must prepare them while they are still in school—unfortunately all efforts to get such a program under way have been resisted on the score that the curriculum is overcrowded." "If we had a room overcrowded with furniture, and someone presented us with a new piece, we wouldn't relegate it to the attic without first looking over carefully the furniture that was now in the room. Would this new piece serve a better purpose than something already there? A sort of "survival of the fittest" test. To some educators studying something that smacks of the practical is anathema, even if it should happen to save lives. "So little for the mind," they deplore, and proceed to feed the mind without letting the hands in on the banquet, which is a good trick if you can manage it. We believe in the Biblical warning: "What will it profit a man if he gain the whole world and lose his soul," but we also believe in something else that might be phrased like this: "What will it profit a man if he absorb all the culture of the universe and lose his life in an automobile accident due to inadequate training. LEARN HYGIENE After all, we do have health readers in our schools. We believe in teaching children the principles of hygiene. And nothing is worse for the health than going through a windshield at sixty miles an hour. Eschewing cigarettes, getting balanced meals, and going through daily calisthenics will do little for you in such an emergency. As usual, Mr. In-between seems to hold all the trump cards in this situation. There are extremists who believe that as long as you learn a trade and have your hands educated so that you can do things you are close to a finished product. And there are those who would transform you into a Shakespeare-quoting star - gazer, absolutely helpless in a practical emergency. Neither of these can be called the product of a well - rounded education. Head, heart and hand must all be given due attention.
