Bristol and Vicinity. Mr. Len Ryan and daughter were business visitors to the city on Tuesday afternoon. Friends are pleased to learn that Mr. Maurice Martell will be released from the Charlottetown Hospital this week after a stay of several weeks. It is regretted that Mrs. John Lapierre has entered the P. E. Island Hospital for a serious operation. All hope she will soon be restored to health. Mr. Charlie Mosher was a business visitor to the city on Tuesday. Like many others he is getting ready for the fishing and at present is building a new boat for his own use. Rev. Phalen McKenna P. P. was in the city for a short time Tuesday afternoon when he visited the different sick people from this vicinity who are patients in the two hospitals. Two lovely trophies have been donated to the bowling club here by the friendly jeweller, Mr. J. R. Williams, Charlottetown. One of these gold figures will be presented to the winner of the ladies high single and the other to the men's high single. They are something entirely new, all gold mounted on a fine stand and well worthy of a supreme try. Friends of Mrs. Ambrose Barry will be sorry to learn that her condition in the Charlottetown Hospital is very serious. Well along in the sunset of life, Mrs. Barry had the misfortune to fall in her home a short time ago breaking her hip. This fine old lady will be missed from this vicinity. Her husband who was blind for many years has passed on. Sorrow has struck twice in the same family here within a few days of each other. Last week the passing of Mrs. George Baker in the P. E. Island Hospital was announced and a few hours later Mr. Baker, who was very ill for several months, passed away at his home unaware of the death of his wife. A fisherman all his life, Mr. Baker moved here from Nova Scotia. Mr. H. S. McEwen, merchant here is making many changes in the old store operated for many years by his late father. The store when finished will be shortened up to half its former length. The back section will be used as a back warehouse. The former shed style warehouse will be torn down and a new style front with two large windows will be erected on the store. The former porch will be torn away and the building wired for electric power.

JACOBY ON Canasta For Beginners — 7 In our last lesson we watched a hand of Canasta through the first play. West made that first play, and it is now North's turn to act. As it happens, North has a red three among his eleven cards. He doesn't need to look too closely at the rest of his cards, since his first step is to put that red three down on the table and draw the top card of the stock to replace it. In doing so he has followed a general rule of Canasta. Whenever you find a red three in your hand you must put it down on the table at your first opportunity. If it is dealt you, the time to put it down is at your first turn to play. If you draw a red three from the stock, you put it down then and there. The red threes have nothing to do with the play; they are simply bonus cards. You get a bonus of 100 points for each red three put down by your side. If your side puts down all of the red threes in the pack, you get 800 points for those four red threes. Those bonuses are scored only if you manage to meld something or other before the hand ends. If the hand ends before you have melded the red threes count against you instead of for you. In other words, you would be minus 100 points for each red three, or minus 800 points for all four of them. Now for one special word of warning on this point: If anybody tells you that you need a canasta to get credit for your red threes, don't listen to him. There is no such rule and there never has been such a rule. I get hundreds of questions a week on that point alone! If you look hard enough, you will find people who follow all sorts of strange rules; but ninety-nine players out of a hundred stick to the official rules. Those are the rules I discuss in this column. Save these simple installments. If you're a beginner, you'll soon be able to profit from the tips given in the second part of each article. If you're an experienced player, save the first half to teach the game to others. For Experienced Players — 7 At the beginning of a hand you must often decide quickly, and without seeming to be thinking about it, whether or not to take the discard pile. If it becomes obvious that you are considering the discard, your opponent will know something important about the cards that you hold. For example, you might be the dealer at the beginning of a game, with these cards in your hand: A-K-10-9-8-6-5-5-2. The other three players draw from the stock and make their discards without melding. When your turn comes, there are four cards in the discard pile, of which the top card is a five. Should you meld the sixes and the fives with your deuce, taking the discard pile? Or should you look unconcerned and wait until the pile gets bigger? If you meld, you will pick up four cards, meld seven, and discard one. After your discard you will have only seven cards in your hand. If you were sure that you would get the discard pile at your next turn, you would naturally pass this pile up. There are, however, no guarantees. If you decide to draw from the stock, either opponent may take the pile before you get another chance at it. Most fine players would take the pile in this situation. They would be happier if the pile contained more than four cards. They would refuse the pile if it contained fewer than four cards. Girl Guide News. The Brownies with the largest SMILE. The 8th Pack (Basilia) had the Brownie Smile all ready to greet the Field Secretary on her visit Friday evening, they even knew where to keep it too, pretty smart Brownies. We worked and played like all good Brownies do. It is a very large Pack of Fairies, Elves, Pixies, Imps, Sprights, and Little People and we all danced around the Toadstool, baby Owl must have been hiding because we couldn't find him at all. All the Brownies joined in finding the Fairy Gold and just loved the new way to find it. We did knots for a while and the following Brownies passed the Reef like magic, Alice Noonan, Shirley Flynn, Margaret Hughes, Paula Noonan, Mary McCabe, Ruth Brown, Annette MacQuaid, Virginia MacDougall, Matilda MacQuaid, Agnes MacDonald, Joan Phillips, Virginia MacMacQuaid, Marilyn Doyle, Carol Clayton and Marie MacQuaid. This was the first step towards the Golden Bar and with the magic ropes led behind by the Field Secretary they will soon be passing the other knots too. A talk on those wicked little germs that attack us at times and the harm they can do was listened to very intently especially when the Brownies saw a picture of the squiggly squirming germs. Cleanliness was emphasized and other points of the Health test for Brownies. Games were played including the Dusky Bluebells but as it is such a large Pack we were all very hot and "dusky" Bluebells by the time the last Bluebell was mastered. We had a quiet period before going home with all the Brownies grouped around for a story but even then the Brownies wanted to do some more work. That's the real Brownie spirit and how all meetings should end, with looking forward to joy and more accomplishments the next time. Central Royalty Brownies. Our Central Royalty Brownies had a real gala meeting on Wednesday afternoon with members of the W. I. and many parents present to watch the presentation of Badges. The result of much work by the Brownies and Brown and Tawny Owl. The guests also added to the fun by very kindly donating cookies and apples. Brown Owl also treated the Brownies to a pickaninny scramble. Badges presented were six Golden Hands, the highest a Brownie can receive and it means a First Class one and Wings when flying up to Guides. The proud Golden Hands were Marilyn Carr, Phyllis MacMillan, Marie Roper, Carol MacDonald, Susan Morrison, Lillian Warren, Golden Bars, Betty Roper, Roberta MacDonald, Artist Badge, Anne Carr, Toy Makers, Anne Carr, Marion Nichol, Dianne Buchanan, Writers, Margaret Perry, Annie L. MacLean, Knitters, Anne Carr, Margaret Perry, Marion Nichol, Skaters, Marion Clark, and Minstrel also for Marion, Signalers, M. Perry, Susan Morrison and L. Warren, Needlework, Marion Nichol and Dianne Buchanan. I am sure that Brown Owl, Mrs. Osborne must be very proud indeed of all her Brownies who have worked so hard to attain all those badges. Congratulations to all of the Brownies for such splendid results of the year's work. IN MEMORIAM EDWARD W. A life-long resident of Morell, he always gave unsparingly of his support in every way to the church and to every worth-while community project. OTTAWA, March 24 — (CP)—Finance Minister Abbott announced in the Commons he expects a taxation agreement will be signed shortly with the new Province of Newfoundland. He was replying to W. J. Browne (PC—St. John's West). Mr. Abbott said the latest information he had was that "we are on the eve of completing an agreement." There still are some technical details to be worked out. Conclusion of the agreement will mean that only Ontario and Quebec will remain outside of agreement with the Federal Government. Most of the agreements were signed in 1947.
