By TRACY ADRIAN Real and fake fur combine to look cozy for younger sisters. Made of soft pile fabric, it will be cozy and warm on the bitterest winter days. The topper is simple - breast-

MARY HAWORTH

Power Struggle Invites Growth Of Hostilities

Dear Mary Haworth: I am very worried about my sister and her husband. They have been married for nine years and have two children, the eldest, age 7.

My brother-in-law is a registered pharmacist with a nice income. He owns two pharmacies and works in one. They have a lovely house and a brand new station wagon. But they don't get along very well.

In spite of their emotional conflicts, however, it seems they intend to stay together. And I believe they are expecting another child. But they are always arguing and a couple of years ago he told her that he would have divorced her already if it weren't for the children.

What can I do to help her get along better with him? She needs him, and she needs more love from him, instead of his barking at her all the time. It isn't good for the children with the eldest child already has emotional problems because of the parents' arguing.

I know she loves him but she doesn't show affection for him as she goes to church where she sings in the choir, and takes the

Lots of wives take that track; and are largely self-deceived about their motivation. Going on the theory that they are "spending themselves on behalf of family and or special children," actually their implicit purpose in every human contact is to feather

WOMEN'S ORGANIZATIONS Kensington-Indian R. WI Pack Christmas Boxes

KENSINGTON: The December meeting of the Kensington-Indian R. WI Pack Christmas Boxes was held at the home of Mrs. Stewart Durr, Kensington Tuesday evening, December 10. 15 members attended.

The president, Mrs. John Arsenault, opened the meeting with the league prayer and prayer for the Pope.

In the absence of the secretary, Mrs. Wilbert Lawless was appointed to act in that capacity. Roll call was answered with a Christmas gift for mutual patients at the Hospital. The president reported that all the cholecholids had been sold and the money would be used to help defray expenses of the national convention to be held in Chicago.

The treasurer, Mrs. Leo Hughes reported that the sum of $107.75 had been realized from the Remembrance Day supper, and $21.85 from a card party held at the home of Mrs. John Arsenault.

The education committee, Mrs. Leslie G. Ramsay read an article from the league magazine regarding two national scholarships to be given in their next year.

David Clark arrived in Charlotte on Friday and will spend two weeks with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Clark, North River Road.

Home for Christmas with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hansen, Longworth Avenue, are Grete Hansen, St. Lambert, and Raymond Hansen, his wife and family from New Glasgow, N.S.

Mr. and Mrs. W.R. Gallinger and son John of Springfield, Mass., arrived Friday to spend the Christmas holidays with Mrs. Gallinger's mother, Mrs. G. M. Gilman, 615 Broad Street, Charlotte.

Barbara Stewart, RN, of Montreal, is a holiday guest of her parents, Hon. J. David and Mrs. Stewart, Kensington party at the Charlottesville Hotel Saturday evening.

Mrs. J.C. Montgomery, West Street, entertained recently at a mixed bridge.

Holidaying with her parents, Mrs. and Mrs. W. King, Kingston, is their daughter, Karen, from Dalhousie University in Halifax.

Students from Mt. Allison who are at home for the winter holidays include Gerdie M. A. their own nest, and to their own glory, and like it.

Any man up against that kind of pressure in marriage (all the more disturbing if he is masked as piety) is bound to feel threatened, angered and resistant.

When things reach this impasse, we have a fair approximation of your sister's situation. I think at which point, the suffering wife who irately wants help will seek a good psychologist's guidance. You can help your sister step after other types of intervention won't help at all.
