Chinese Views Stressed By Chou During Interview

Chinese views on Indochina and other world problems are emphasized in this interview with the Chinese premier, Chou En-lai. The writer, now in China, is a former Polish diplomat. He writes for the New Statesman of London and Nouvelle Observateur of Paris.

By K. S. KAROL. Copyright 1965 By K. S. Karol PEKING (AP) — If the Americans are not content with threatening gestures and really want to provoke a wider conflict, then the Chinese and Russian people will close ranks. This was Premier Chou En-lai talking about the situation in Viet Nam. Continuing in this vein in a 2½-hour interview, he declared:

"That is the truth. Remember that and you will see that his story will bear it out. That is why (president) Johnson, who is dancing on the tight rope of war and doesn't know how to turn about, is risking some surprises."

Chou emphasized the last phrase, but did not say what he meant by it. "The United States is in the process of extending its aggression," Chou declared. "It is sending marines to South Viet Nam and in a single month it has bombed the democratic republic of Viet Nam (Communist North Viet Nam) six times. QUOTES PROVERB Nam into negotiations by intensifying the war. As the old Chinese proverb says, they are trying to go to the north while heading their horses to the south."

Asked whether he thought the United States might be stepping up operations to save face before negotiations begin, Chou replied half astonished, half indignant:

"Saving face" A brigand who has committed an armed robbery—can he save face by committing a second or a third? How many crimes are required before America's face is, as you put it, saved?

"In my view, the best way this bandit can save his face is by giving back the property he has stolen. The best way the Americans can save face is by withdrawing their forces from South Viet Nam and by renouncing the right they claim to carry the war into the north."

Chou said that American aggression against the democratic republic of Viet Nam is aggression against the socialist (Communist) camp in its entirety. "This being so, all of us have the duty to help the national liberation front of South Viet Nam and the democratic republic of Viet Nam in accordance with the international engagements we have undertaken. For the second time, I tried to put up the case for negotiations, reminding Chou that in both Indochina and Algeria France had intensified its military operations preceding peace talks. Chou rejected the comparison.

France has learned the lessons of colonial wars," he said. "She knows they can't be won. That is why, each time I meet my French friends, I ask them: 'Why can't you persuade your American friends to learn from experience?' And each time I speak to my American friends I ask 'Why aren't you capable of producing a de Gaulle?'"

Asked about the ideological dispute with the Soviet Union and China's refusal to attend the March 1 meeting of Communist parties in Moscow, Chou replied:

"When (Nikita) Khrushchev was in power, two such conferences took place. President Mao Tse-tung himself took part in the first at Moscow in 1957 and President Liu Shao-chi in 1960. The declarations published at the end of these two conferences were not at all bad. . . . WENT HIS WAY"

"But this did not prevent Khrushchev from going on his old way and treating the declarations with contempt. Chou noted the March 1 meeting of Communist parties was set by Khrushchev for last Dec. 15, and after his fall in October "we put our new hopes in the new Soviet leaders."

When he went to Moscow in November for the anniversary of the Russian revolution, Chou said, "I advised the Soviet leaders not to hold the Dec. 15 meeting on the grounds that this would be a gathering of splinters."

"Khrushchev having fallen, wouldn't it be a simple matter to cancel it?" he continued. "But here the question of 'saving face,' as you put it, arose: They were determined to harvest the legacy of Khrushchev and they therefore had their March 1 meeting."

Chou was asked what he thought of President de Gaulle's plan for the United States, the Soviet Union, Britain, France and China, to meet and discuss the reform of the United Nations.

NOT INTERESTED "But China has nothing to do with the UN," Chou replied. "It is true, that China is not at all interested in the UN. For 15 years this organization, manipulated by the United States, frustrated China's legitimate rights. . . . Why cannot one envisage founding another UN that might be as revolutionary? That is what I said recently in Peking at a banquet for Mr. Subandrio, Indonesia's foreign minister. Elsewhere, China has put forward a positive formula — that is, that the UN rectify its mistakes and submit to a radical reorganization."

As for peaceful coexistence, Chou said: "To ask China to coexist peacefully with the United States while the latter maintains military bases around China and occupies the Chinese territory of Formosa, obviously, that is impossible."

Air Canada Gets Link To Bermuda

OTTAWA (CP)—Air Canada has been granted a scheduled flight link between Halifax and Bermuda. Transport Minister Pickersgill has announced. He said he had received word from the United Kingdom government before rising in the Commons. He expressed great gratification to the United Kingdom government for its permission.

He was asked by Gerald A. Regan (L-Halifax) when the service would start and whether the type of plane used on the run would be able to carry Nova Scotia lobster to the Atlantic island.

Mr. Pickersgill said Air Canada had assured him the service would be put into effect as quickly as possible. He did not know what type of plane would be scheduled on the run.

Dominion Oilcloth Shares Acquired

MONTREAL (CP)—Canadian-Italian interests affiliated with the Montreal holding company, Metrocan Ltd., have purchased a large share-block in Dominion Oilcloth and Linnoleum Co. Ltd., Metrocan said here.

The purchase involved 180,000 shares or nearly 24 per cent of the equity of Dominion Oilcloth Dominion, a Montreal-based company, specializes in production of vinyl flooring.

Total cost of the shares was about $7,000,000. Purchase was made from the Nairn family in Britain, who control the major British linooleum group, Nairn and Williamson Holdings Ltd., Metrocan said.

Reason for the sales was not revealed. However, the Nairn interests have held 210,000 shares of Dominion Oilcloth since 1920 and will continue to hold 30,000 shares, Metrocan said.

Buyers of the share-block were not specifically named, but they and Metrocan are controlled by a European company, Exploration Investment Trust.

The buyers have interests in real estate, construction, hotel, shoe-manufacturing and vehicle-leasing in Canada.

They are allied with real estate and other interests in the United States and Mexico. North American assets are in excess of $20,000,000, one of which is the Chantecler Hotel in Ste. Adele, Que., 40 miles northwest of Montreal, Metrocan said.

A check at the hotel showed the premises are owned by a firm known as Chantecler Hotel Co.

Air-To-Air Missile Weapons May Be Used On Destroyers

OTTAWA (CP)—The navy is considering arming its proposed new helicopter-carrying destroyers with air-to-air missiles.

The Commons defence committee was told the Sparrow missile, used by the United States Air Force, is being studied as a possible weapon for the four new ships, the first of which is due to be started by the end of next year.

The subject of the missiles arose as the committee heard a detailed report on the navy's shipbuilding program from commander J. A. Charles, director-general of force development, and Commander S. M. Davis, director-general of ships.

Defence Minister Hellyer said while the Sparrow missile was being considered, no final decision has yet been reached.

Commander Charles said the Sparrow system, if adopted, would be attached to the ship's three-inch gun mountings and would cost an estimated $10,000,000 for the four ships.

sonar for submarine detection, and an asroc missile system. Commander Davis said the first ship is being converted at the naval dockyard because "there are many problems yet to be worked out in a prototype vessel and by carrying out this work in the dockyard we have the opportunity to produce for the following ships more comprehensive and accurate drawings for tender purposes."

The others will be converted in private shipyards beginning in 1967. The final one is due for completion in September, 1970.

An $8,000,000 improvement and refit program for the aircraft Carrier Bonaventure will begin in April, 1966, and be completed 18 months late.

The first of two operational support ships will be under construction by July, 1966, and completed in June, 1969. The second will begin in November, 1968, and be completed in June, 1971. They will cost $36,000,000.
