

Stresses Need For Atlantic House In London, England

That establishment in London of Atlantic House is more important than ever, and even urgent, in the opinion of Mr. James S. Bryant, Director of the Atlantic Provinces Economic Council, who recently returned from England. Mr. Bryant listed several important reasons for having such a centre chief of which is that the provinces not now represented in London suffers a great disadvantage. He said that at present five Canadian provinces had representation and he found among them "more of a spirit of co-operation than rivalry".

JAMES S. BRYANT

As specific recommendations for an Atlantic House operation he listed: to provide an Atlantic Provinces information centre for Great Britain and Europe for the businessmen of these countries; this office would attract and influence new industries to set up in the Atlantic Provinces and would assist European business. It would co-operate with Federal agencies in promoting emigration from Europe and specifically in selecting those with the skills and qualifications required here. It would promote tourism in the Atlantic Provinces. It also would assist in the export of Great Britain and Europe products of the Atlantic Provinces and assist its importers to obtain and best products. It would also be a centre for persons wishing to visit Canada and assist those from Atlantic Provinces in Great Britain on business.

He also specifically stated the proposed House should be located in the Piccadilly Circus area close to Canada House and the House of other provinces now represented. He felt it could be operated on a budget of between $40,000 and $50,000 a year and said "this amount divided among the participating provinces would, in my opinion, be a ridiculously small price to pay for representation in Europe".

Decrease Noted In Freight Ferried

A decrease in both imports and exports for last month compared to March 1956 is noted in the carloads ferried on the C. N. R. Borden-Cape Tormentine route according to figures released by the office of the Superintendent. Carloads coming to the Province dropped 264 while those shipped out were down 436 from the 1,837 of a year ago.

Almost the entire decrease in potatoes and turnips, while flour and feed and gas and oils contributed largely to the lower number of imports. The principle imports, with 1956 figures in brackets, were autos 68 (73); coal 120 (133); flour and feed 106 (169); fertilizer 16 (76); gas and oils 79 (181); lumber 10 (15); machinery 22 (18); meats 17 (15); sugar 12 (16); canned 9 (18); building material 17 (5). Principal exports were: butter and cheese 5 (4); eggs 5 (2); livestock 81 (98); meats 19 (29); potatoes 1065 (1418); turnips 71 (132); roughwood 5 (20).

Mr. Mitton urged his hearers to be utterly dedicated to the service of Jesus Christ. "The chief concern of the consecrated Christian," he said, "is to seek first the Kingdom of God; everything else is incidental and subordinate to this one overwhelming purpose."

PLAN SOUNDLY
"I firmly believe that as long as we maintain confidence in spite of international tensions, we can look ahead to a bright future. We think positively about our opportunities. If we adopt this attitude then we will not sit back, but we will plan ahead and we will plan soundly. We have a tremendous future open to us if we are alert and take the right course of action. And in this connection I would like to issue a word of caution.

P. E. I. Hospital Learns Dr. Brown Leaving Province

The regular monthly meeting of the Prince Edward Island Hospital Trustees was held on the 9th instant. The chairman Dr. J. W. MacKenzie presided. Besides the other Trustees in attendance, Mr. F. A. S. Jones, president of the P.E.I. Hospital Men's Association, was present representing his organization.

The Board was notified of the retirement from the Medical Staff due to imminent departure from the Province of Dr. D. R. Brown, F.A.C.S., F.R.C.S. The Trustees recorded their regret at the loss to the Hospital and the community in the departure of this outstanding and popular surgeon. An expression of such regret was directed to be sent to Dr. Brown. It was reported that Dr. L. S. Cox was appointed to succeed Dr. R. G. Lea to represent the Hospital Medical Staff on the Provincial Laboratory Council.

The very unsatisfactory situation regarding visitors to hospital patients was brought before the Board by the medical staff. It was emphasized that people were visiting patients in numbers, at times, and in circumstances, that in some cases tended seriously to imperil the health of the patient. It was urged that the general welfare of the patients required some definite action by the Board to remedy the situation. The Board took the matter for re-consideration as to what steps should be taken to deal with the problem. The Senior Ladies Aid report was given by Mrs. G. H. Buntain and it was noted that the annual Fashion Show then being put on by the Junior Ladies Aid promised to be a complete success.

prosperity we have a tendency to become complacent. Prosperity brings with it certain problems which we must cope. These "problems of prosperity" if you will, are a challenge to us in the Chamber of Commerce movement. What are some of these problems? They are such things as inflationary pressures, how to keep down our costs, how to expand trade in the face of growing competition from abroad, high taxes, how to preserve our economic freedoms, the threat of big government.

"Above and beyond anything else we need in this country a dedication to a clearly defined economic philosophy. Canada's growth in the past and Canada's development in the future must be based on the belief that the basic aim of public policy is the maintenance of personal freedom. The aim of economic policy which includes full employment, high standards of living, improved working conditions, widened economic opportunity and a reasonable measure of social security must not be divorced from the maintenance of liberty. The success of Canadian economic development will be measured against our success or failure in the safeguarding of personal freedom.

PERSONAL FREEDOM
When I speak of freedom of enterprise I am speaking of a concept which imposes on the individual the duty to be enterprising, and in so doing, to maintain a high standard of ethics in the community and to contribute to the common welfare. In this atmosphere the consumer is free to make his own choice as to how, where and when he will spend his income. We believe he is the best judge of his own interest. In this atmosphere producers tend to strive to seek out new consumers and satisfy old ones more economically.

"Now, of course, a nation of 15 million people just hasn't got the savings to finance development on such a huge scale as is underway in Canada today. Thus I am always surprised when I hear comments expressed over the influx of foreign capital (mainly American). Foreign investments in Canada reached a new peak by the end of 1955 rising to about $13.5 billion. Almost half of the outside capital invested in Canada during the present century has come in since the end of World War II, the greater part of it after 1948. United States investment in Canada now exceeds ten billion dollars, has accounted for the greater part of the increase — and is by far the largest amount of U.S. capital invested in any one country. There also has been a considerable capital inflow from Britain and other overseas countries."
Most Canadians, realize and understand that all this capital is put to constructive use, that it is accompanied by enterprise and technical know-how; and that it helps in speeding up the economic development of our country. More and more Canadians are being given a chance to buy stock in American branch plants in this country and also more Canadians are being placed in management positions. These are developments which we must continue to encourage.

U.S. MARKET
"I know that you in the Atlantic Provinces are particularly interested in the U.S. fish market. I know you must have been encouraged by President Eisenhower's rejection of tariff increases in ground fish fillets. This is one of the problems which has been before the Canada-U.S. Committee jointly maintained by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States and the Canadian Chamber, and at a recent meeting I have heard the vigorous arguments put up by Canadian businessmen in favor of expanding opportunities for fish sales in the United States in the face of threats to limit them. Here is one example of how the Canadian Chamber keeps on top of trade developments and does everything possible to protect Canadian interests."

"The important factor in maintaining and increasing foreign markets is, of course, keeping our prices in line with those of our international competitors, and one of my own duties is to place stress in this country on greater productivity."
"In the light of the inflationary pressures it should be recognized that government expenditures should be kept at the lowest possible level. At a time when monetary restraint is limiting the operations of some businesses, it is of the utmost importance that the government of Canada should set an example not only by conducting its affairs in an efficient and economical manner but also by resisting pressures for added outlays."

"In the budget recently brought down, business generally is disappointed that there was not greater recognition of the fact that the present levels of taxation are too high for a developing country. Taxation is an index of the government's control over the individual. It is indeed significant that today the total tax revenues of all governments, measured as a percentage of national income, are now higher than they were during the war when we were fighting for survival.

MORE THINKING
"The Gordon report has got us thinking and talking and planning about our future as never before. It has brought out a good deal of new information through the medium of briefs presented to it. Information which we did not have gathered together before in one place and as far as the Maritime provinces are concerned, the report has come right out and recognized that you have some special problems in the Atlantic provinces. Consequently, other parts of Canada have been made aware of these problems, and it is up to all of us, no matter where we make our living in this great country to do what we can to help you meet, and overcome these problems."

President Dupuis was introduced by William Hayward, Vice President C.C. of C. for P.E. Island and thanked for his address by M. Alban Farmer, Q.C., National Director. The meeting was presided over by R. Earl Taylor, President of the Charlottetown Board of Trade.
