New Fisheries Proposal Made To Washington

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada has made a new proposal to the United States for an exclusive fishing zone along the Canadian East and West coasts, the Commons was told.

External Affairs Minister Martin said he made some progress on the issue in talks Friday and Saturday with U.S. State Secretary Dean Rusk in Washington.

A reply was awaited from the U.S. on the proposal, which he did not spell out. Legislation was passed by Parliament in 1964 to establish a 12-mile exclusive fishing zone and closing off all bays and straits to foreign fishing vessels. But the law has not been applied pending negotiations with the U.S. and European countries holding historic fishing rights in Canadian waters.

Mr. Martin said the negotiations with the European countries also are still in progress. He was replying to former Fisheries Minister J. Angus MacLean (PC-Que.)

Chief Claims Conditions Poor For Indians In Que.

By DAN BJARNASON TORONTO (CP) — An Ontario Indian chief says Canadian Indians have more trouble and hardship in Quebec than in any other province.

Chief Wilmer Nadjewan, chief of the Cape Croker here, said in an interview Monday that Quebec Indians have poor communication with provincial government officials and have difficulty getting anyone to take a sympathetic interest in their problems.

He declined to cite specific problems or incidents, but added: "Through acquaintances and friends I have talked to in Quebec, I believe conditions to be poor for Indians there."

When asked whether relations with the government had not improved since the election of the Lesage government in 1960, Chief Nadjewan replied: "People in a government may change, but attitudes don't."

Chief Nadjewan was in Toronto to attend the formal launching of Tillicum, the centennial project of the Canadian Home and School and Parent-Teacher Federation.

Tillicum, Chinook or friendship, seeks to promote understanding and spur interest in the education of Indian children.

CIVIL RIGHTS UNLIKELY Chief Nadjewan, 44, sees little likelihood of a civil rights type movement for Indians getting underway in Canada similar to the one organized by Negroes in the United States.

It's not in the nature of Indians to protest in picket lines or participate in passive resistance, he said. They are not fatalistic. But they do consider themselves to be part of nature although not its servant.

Indians must "develop a new sense of values" before they can overcome their apathy and improve their lot, he said.

Indians, like other people, should be able to choose for themselves what type of lives they wish to lead, he said.

"If an Indian can integrate into urban middle class life and is happy—then in his case this is a good thing. On the other hand some Indians could never adjust to life off the reservation and it would be cruel to tell him he should move."

Reserves are neither good nor bad in concept, Chief Nadjewan said.

"It all depends on the individual's wants. You can't make a general rule about what's good or bad for an Indian."

Editors In Rhodesia Are Praised

LONDON (Reuters) — Commonwealth press chiefs have praised Rhodesian newspaper editors who have been defying Rhodesia's censorship regulations under threat of heavy penalties.

A statement Tuesday from the council of the Commonwealth Press Union, representing publishers and newspapers in all Commonwealth countries, described the regulations as tyrannical and expressed grave concern at severe restrictions imposed on the press by Rhodesia's white-minority regime which broke away from Britain.

"The curtailment of the liberty of the press is equally objectionable whether ordered by an undisputed authority or by one whose powers are subject to political or judicial challenge," the statement said.

Regulations issued recently in Salisbury forbade newspapers to leave blank spaces to show where they have been censored or to tell their readers they have been censored. So far no action has been taken against newspapers defying the ban.

HOPE ENDS FOR TRAWLER

The trawler Blue Mist II, out of Grand Bank, Nfld., is the object of a large-scale air and sea search in the eastern Gulf of St. Lawrence. Seen here tied up at a berth, she disappeared over the weekend with 17 men aboard. Winds were high and temperatures low and it is feared she was

OBITUARY

MRS. OLIVER D. NUNN

Inserted by the family. There passed away suddenly on December 3rd, 1965, at the Prince Edward Island Hospital, Mrs. Oliver Nunn, 91 Highland Ave., Charlottetown, dear mother of Vesta, Mrs. Melville Horne, Riverview, New Brunswick; Vera, Mrs. Sterling Rodd, Charlottetown; and Reginald A. Nunn, Galt, Ontario.

She was the former Mildred Jean Shaw, born at Brackley Point, February 1st, 1880, the daughter of the late Albert and Martha (MacEwen) Shaw.

Surviving are a sister Emma; Mrs. Lemuel Horne, North Milton; and a brother Everett, Charlottetown.

Also surviving are seven grandchildren and three great grandchildren, who will fondly treasure her memory.

Mrs. Nunn was a resident of North Winsloe from the time of her marriage until the death of her husband, the late Oliver Nunn, in 1956. Since then she had resided with her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Sterling Rodd, Charlottetown.

A dear and devoted mother and sister, her passing has left an aching void in the hearts of her family, and a keen sense of loss to many, as her kind, interest in others and delightful sense of humour won her a wide circle of friends.

The funeral, largely attended, was held December 5th from the Cutcliffe Funeral Home. Her pastor, Rev. John G.E. Ball, of Trinity United Church, of which she was a faithful member, conducted the service. Hymns sung were "The Lord's My Shepherd" and "Abide With Me".

Palbearers were Ira Auld, Heber Horne, Fenton MacLure, Arnett Shaw, Albert Smith, Albert Youlker. Interment was in Sherwood Cemetery.

Life! we have been long together. Through pleasant and through cloudy weather; 'Tis hard to part when friends are dear; Perhaps 'twill cost a sigh, a tear; Then steal away, give little warning. Choose thine own time. Say not "Good-night", but in some brighter clime Bid me "Good-morning".

Research Program Suggested On English - French Markets

TORONTO (CP) — Canadian business should sponsor a massive scientific study of the buying habits of French- and English-speaking Canadians, Yves Bourassa, Montreal advertising executive, said Tuesday.

He told a conference on French-Canadian marketing, sponsored by the Advertising and Sales Club of Toronto, that too many decisions now are made on instinctive impressions, not knowledge.

Mr. Bourassa, president of Bourassa, Gagnon and Associates Inc., said the Canadian Manufacturers' Association or the Association of Canadian Advertisers should underwrite the study through universities.

ASKS THREE QUESTIONS Speaking in English, he posed three questions as examples of the basic type of information needed by Canadian business, but not now available.

—Are French-Canadians more responsive to soft sell than to hard sell and, if so, why?"

—"Should the same media be selected automatically for English and for French Canada?"

—"Should the same tools apply for promotions in French-Canada as in English-Canada?"

"This I submit is the true way of getting to know the Canadian consumers or users.

DIFFERENCES UNHEEDED In Canada, millions of dollars are spent each year in marketing research, often "without true recognition of our two major segments."

"Hypotheses are formulated about the English segment of the Canadian market, and verified through field surveys conducted among both segments with the use of questionnaires prepared in English and simply translated word for word into French.

"How many marketing research people bother to check whether the hypotheses they formulate apply to French-Canada as well as to English-Canada, whether or not they are verifying impressions or opinions that trupp reflect the people of French-Canada as well as those of English-Canada?"

The conference noted that the French-speaking market in Canada now makes up one-third of the population, with a personal income last year of $9,500,000,000.
