Beauty

Is desired and admired by all. Among the things which may best be done to enhance personal beauty is the daily use of Ayer's Hair Vigor. No matter what the color of the hair, this preparation gives it a lustre and pliancy that adds greatly to its charm. Should the hair be thin, harsh, dry, or turning gray, Ayer's Hair Vigor will restore the color, bring out a new growth, and render the old soft and shiny. For keeping the scalp clean, cool, and healthy, there is no better preparation in the market.

"I am free to confess that a trial of Ayer's Hair Vigor has convinced me that it is a genuine article. Its use has not only caused the hair of my wife and daughter to be Abundant and Glossy, but it has given my rather stunted mustache a respectable length and appearance."—R. Britton, Oakland, Ohio.

"My hair was coming out (without any assistance from my wife, either). I tried Ayer's Hair Vigor, using only one bottle, and I now have as fine a head of hair as any one could wish for."—R. T. Schmittou, Dickson, Tenn.

"I have used Ayer's Hair Vigor in my family for a number of years, and regard it as the best hair preparation I know of. It keeps the scalp clean, the hair soft and lively, and preserves the original color. My wife has used it for a long time with most satisfactory results."—Benjamin M. Johnson, M. D., Thomas Hill, Mo.

"My hair was becoming harsh and dry, but after using half a bottle of Ayer's Hair Vigor it grew black and glossy. I cannot express the joy and gratitude I feel."—Mabel C. Hardy, Delavan, Ill.

CARD.

There is one opinion held by Senator Sherman with which the majority of Canadians will agree. It is this: "Sir John Macdonald is undoubtedly the great man of Canada."

The School Question in Boston.

Rev. W. W. Downs, the famous Baptist minister in Boston, comes out in favor of the Catholics on the school question that is now agitating the average Bostonian, and his church is crowded every Sunday morning and evening to hear him discuss the question in what he claims is from an honest standpoint and not for money. On Sunday evening last he discoursed on the subject, "Have Catholics any rights that Protestants are bound to respect?" He took for his text: "Behold all ye that have kindled a fire that compass yourselves about with sparks; walk in the light of your fire and in the sparks ye have kindled. This shall ye have from mine hand; ye shall lie down in sorrow."—Isa. 1, 11.

The speaker proceeded as follows: God has so planned the affairs of this world that from the smallest and seemingly the most insignificant causes, the greatest effects for either good or ill are produced. In spiritual things, as among physical, an insignificant sinner or two may kindle a fire that an army of wise men cannot put out. When God speaks, and in words of rebuke, says to those who have caused the mischief, "Walk in the light of your fire, and in the sparks ye have kindled. This shall ye have from mine hand, ye shall lie down in sorrow."

The attempt to stir up bad feeling between Protestants and Catholics has never yet produced anything better than hate, persecution and bloodshed. This surely is not a brood to be desired, nor is that community to be envied in which such birds of evil are hatched. "Behold how great a matter a little fire kindleth." This whole community is suddenly thrown into religious disorder; men who have on a score of bloody fields risked life and limb in defence of our common country, are now being repaid for their illustrious services by being branded as enemies to the flag and traitors to American institutions—men who have been elevated to positions of honor and trust by the ballots of their fellow-citizens, now find themselves bitterly assailed as unworthy of the confidence placed in them, and "deserving only to be flung out in disgrace" and men of repute as ministers, scholars and citizens are all at once held up to public scorn as being either traitors to great principles or densely ignorant. And why should such a fire be kindled and its sparks sent whirling in all directions by tongue and by press? Why should the constitutional rights of some 10,000,000 of our fellow-citizens to worship God according to the dictates of their own consciences be invaded, their religion ridiculed, their doctrines misrepresented and their happiness menaced?

Catholics have certain constitutional rights which Protestants are bound to respect, and any attempt to deprive them of these rights or to in any way invade them is a crime.

Pray tell us what doctrines are believed in by the Catholics to-day that were not also believed in by Chief Justice Taney Court of the United States? Or that were not also believed in and venerated by the illustrious Charles O'Connor, that bright and shining light of the New York bar? To hurt the feelings, hold up to the public ridicule, brand as idolatrous or in any other way to molest or interfere with any subject of the commonwealth because of its religious belief or sentiment is a very plain infringement of his constitutional rights—the kindling of a fire whose sparks may breed a terribly disastrous conflagration by and by that only rivers of blood can put out.

Another constitutional right that Catholics have, and which Protestants are bound to respect, is the right to be respected in any public office to which the votes of a free people have elected them.

If this present unjustifiable cause is persisted in, some persons in the end will lie down, as the text says, in a bed of sorrows, which is very much like lying down in a bed of thorns.

At the conclusion of his address the rev. gentleman was loudly cheered.

Policeman in Trouble.

A New York policeman has obtained an unpleasant notoriety through arresting two ladies who were going home late from a mission service. The mission in question is open at all hours and services are held until after midnight. The ladies, a Mrs. Resseigne and her daughter, were hurrying along a not very inviting street, and stopped to give a ticket for a week's lodging to an unemployed laborer who had just applied to the mission for help. The policeman, who is charged with being drunk, came along at this juncture and, refusing to listen to any expostulations or explanations, hurried hysterical prisoners off to the station house. The Sergeant in charge at once released them, but that has not ended the incident, and there is trouble ahead for the bobby. It is a case which illustrates the necessity for a policeman possessing more qualifications than that of height and muscular force. The officer demands the exercise of great tact and discretion, and only intelligent men are able to navigate through the perils which constantly beset the law's myrmidons.

Piles! Piles! Itching Piles!

SYMPTOMS.—Moisture; intense itching and stinging; moist at night; worse by scratching. If allowed to continue tumors form, which often bleed and ulcerate, becoming very sore. SWAYNE'S OINTMENT stops the itching and bleeding, heals ulcerations, and in most cases remove the tumors. All druggists, or by mail, for 50 cents. Dr. Swayne & Son, Philadelphia. oct 12 6m dw

Strange Coins.

TOKENS OF VALUE COLLECTED FROM FAR CORNERS OF THE EARTH.

In a bag lie various uncoined symbols of value. Here are the silver lumps, bullet-shaped, called "tekal," current in Siam; and the white cowrie shells used in Africa; and the rings of gold and silver which are common currency of Nubia; and the pieces of iron named "hashhash," like semicircular knives, used in Kordofan; and bits of coarse cotton, called "fredgat," which are equivalent to 60 pieces of "hashhash"; and the beads and blocks of salt used in Abyssinia; and the fish hook money, made of pieces of silver wire, still current in China.

"Don't overlook this tenpenny bank token," says Mr. Avery. "It's Irish."

The Irish coins mostly resemble the English. Those of Henry VIII. have the arms of England and the Irish harp crowned between the initials of Henry and his queens. Then comes the Ormoude money, having its weight stamped in Irish numerals. But the most remarkable Irish coins are the pieces named "gun money," struck out of cannon melted down by James II. before the last struggle for his forfeited throne. There is also a crown in white metal with the king on horseback. This last is scarce, but the specimens of the "gun money" are common.

"Here," continues Mr. Avery, "is a specimen of the constitutional currency of France. It is a son of 1792, showing the head of Louis XVI., with the inscription, 'La loi, le roi, la nation.'"

It is of bell metal, made during the revolution from the bells of demolished churches. It jingles out of the bag with a 5 franc piece of "Napoleon, Empereur" and "Dieu protege la France" on the edge and a piece of 5 lire marked "Napoleon imperatore e re," with "Dio protege l'Italia" on the edge. The Italian coin shows the conqueror in the flush of his conquests; the French coin blings him under the shadow of Waterloo. In the one he is serene and proud; in the other his face is full of care.

Then Mr. Avery opens another bag. The coins that tumble out are "joes" and half-joes of Brazil, Bolivian dollars, with the bust of Bolivar, and the motto "Libre par la Constitution," doubloons of the Argentine Republic from the mint of Rioja, medals celebrating the independence of Chili in 1817, Spanish dollars cut into "bits" for use in the West Indies; copper coins of Petion, Loyer and other rulers of Hayti; a 10-livres piece from Mauritius, the home of Paul and Virginia; a coin of the American Colonization society of Liberia, showing a negro welcoming the arrival of a vessel; Arabic coins marked with the date of the hejira (A. D. 587) and of the Sultan's reign; macutas from Guinea; a pistareen of Ferdinands of Spain; seige pieces, or necessity money, struck during the incursion of Napoleon into Spain; guilders from Zealand; stivers from Holland; crowns from Belgium; a brass counter from China with a square hole in the centre; a pseudo of Pope Pius VII.; a bajocco of Pope Pius IX.; a gold mohur from Calcutta; a pagoda of the East India Company; a Turkish piastre; a Bank of England dollar; a Tuscan florin; a Russian rouble.

The following telegram was sent to J. F. Dunn, of Ocala, Fla., who is now in New York, on the report that he had been killed by a runaway horse: "Report says you are dead. Is it true?"

Catarrh is in the blood. No cure for this loathsome and dangerous disease is possible until the poison is thoroughly eradicated from the system. For this purpose Ayer's Sarsaparilla is the best and most economical medicine. Price $1. Six bottles, $5. Worth $5 a bottle.

Talmage figures that a year in olden times was less than a month now-a-days, and that none of the old men were above 80 or 85 when they passed away. He can't see why nor how the laws of nature should or have been altered.

When the hair shows signs of falling, begin at once to use Ayer's Hair Vigor. This preparation strengthens the scalp, promotes the growth of new hair, restores the natural color to gray and faded hair, and renders it soft, pliant and glossy.

The amount of strength exercised in an ordinary hand-shake is eleven pounds, but if you owe the other chap borrowed money and hope to stand him off, the estimate runs as high as sixty-six pounds.

My stock of Boots, Shoes, Rubbers, Overshoes, Felt Boots, Over-socks, Slippers, &c., is now complete, and is better assorted, larger and cheaper than ever. Please call and examine—R. K. JOSEPH, (Borcham's Old Stand). oct 9 eod wy tf

Roller skating is just now all the rage in Australia, and the American trade in skates there is great. The original skate factory started by Henley in Indiana is the only one of twenty-seven that remain in the United States. Henley had been a wood sawyer, but taking up the idea of roller skating, improved the invention, and made $250,000 in two years in the manufacture of skates.
