PARIS, June 28—(AP)—The Agence France-Presse today quoted a North Korean communique which referred to forces "placed at the disposition" of the North Koreans. There was no elaboration. The phrase might imply that some of the forces in the North Korean army were not Korean.

Jury Finds Verdict of Death By Misadventure

A verdict of "Death by misadventure" was brought in by the jury at the conclusion of the inquest into the death of Mr. James J. Trainor of Johnston's River, at the City Hall last evening. The body of the late Mr. Trainor was taken from the water near the Prince Street wharf early Tuesday morning by City Police and firemen. Coroner J. D. MacGuigan read the results of the autopsy by Dr. Harold Shaw which stated that a very small amount of alcohol had been found in the stomach, and a little water in the lung. Death was pronounced as due to drowning. A number of witnesses were called, and questioned in turn by Coroner MacGuigan. Mr. J. F. Nicholson of the Attorney General's department, and members of the jury. Frank Doyle of Charlottetown told of finding the body while on a tour of the wharves, one of his duties at Bruce Stewart & Co. Ltd. He called the caretaker from the ferry wharf to watch while he went for the police. He stated that the body was partially afloat and amongst debris, so that he had difficulty at first discerning exactly what it was. It was brought out in questioning that the deceased had at one time been a miner, and that his lungs and chest were abnormally developed. This, it was stated, accounted for the fact that there was sufficient air in the lungs to keep the body afloat. Frank Trainor, cousin of the deceased, and with whom the late Mr. Trainor had been living for the past two years, stated that he had not seen the deceased since Sunday at supper time. His wife had told him on Monday, the 28th of June, that deceased had gone to visit his brother, a short distance up the road, shortly after breakfast, but that they noticed the next morning that he had not returned. He stated that deceased had been into Charlottetown the previous Friday and had been drinking at that time. The next witness called was Joseph Trainor, the brother whom deceased had left to visit. He told of giving the late Mr. Trainor fifty-five dollars which he had been keeping for him. Another cousin, William F. Trainor, stated that he had driven deceased into Charlottetown about noon, and had waited and driven him back to Johnston's River. He said that deceased had shown him approximately thirty dollars which he had in his possession, and a bottle of liquor. Towards evening deceased had endeavored to persuade him to drive him back to Charlottetown but he had refused to do so. Joseph Trainor Jr., nephew, told the court that he had seen the late Mr. Trainor walking past his home in the direction of Charlottetown at approximately 8:30 Monday evening. Sergeant Larry MacInnis of the City Police force stated that he had answered the call to the wharf, and that the body was neatly dressed, with a pint bottle of liquor in the pocket of the jacket. There was no money in the wallet

A.I.C. Report On Opportunities For Employment

"Employment opportunities for the 1950 classes of agricultural graduates in commercial fields have been fair, but it is evident that there is not the demand that existed in the past few years," states the report of the Agricultural Institute of Canada, presented by chairman R. K. Bennett at the Institute conference yesterday. "The large number of graduates have had to search more for positions than at any time during found on the body, and no marks of violence or bruises were discernible. After deliberating for approximately half an hour, the verdict of "Death by misadventure" was read by jury foreman Mr. B. W. Patterson. Other members were W. Reardon, A. B. Burns, M. W. Forsythe, Louis Diamond, E. C. MacKay and Mark Hagan.
