'SHOWDOWN'

this critical stage and at the same time to make it as easy as possible for Hitler to choose peaceful negotiation.

The British press, with almost one voice, declared the time had come for a definite "showdown" relieving Europe of the tension of the last few years. Public opinion generally appeared to support this position overwhelmingly.

Cabinet Fully United

The British Cabinet was said reliably to be fully united on the stand it had taken and in circles close to the government there was said to be a complete absence of sentiment within the cabinet for any form of "appeasement" unless Germany showed a willingness to abandon her present policy.

There was talk in political quarters about a possibility that Mr. Chamberlain would reconstruct his cabinet, bringing in such "anti-appeasement" Conservatives as Winston Churchill, Anthony Eden and Alfred Duff Cooper.

But the best informed opinion was that such a reconstruction would await the actual outbreak of war—if war came—and that leaders of the Labor and Liberal opposition parties likewise would join any "war cabinet."

British merchant shipping was warned by the Admiralty to stay out of the Mediterranean, the sea which Premier Mussolini of Italy has called his "mare nostrum" (our sea.) The same warning was applied to the Baltic through which British aid to Poland might move.

Far-reaching defence regulations were decreed by the government under the virtual dictatorial powers granted it by parliament last week.

These closed military areas, restricted civil liberties and placed public utilities under new regulations.

Airplane transportation was uncertain. Trains ran only to border points.

Basis For Negotiation

The only basis for negotiation acceptable to Hitler, Berlin political quarters said, was the proposal made by President Woodrow Wilson in 1918, according to which Poland was to be given only such territory as was inhabited by Poles and free access to the sea.

(The 13th of Wilson's famous 14 points of Jan. 8, 1918, called for settlement of "an independent Polish state which would include the territories inhabited by indisputably Polish populations, which should be assured a free and assured access to the sea and whose political and economic integrity should be guaranteed by international covenant.)

The Greman argument ran that Poland got territory inhabited by more than 50 per cent Germans and that the "free access to the sea" provisions did not mean Poland should get it by a grant of territory where such would involve inclusion within, Poland of Germans. The Germans say that this free access could be provided for Poland through internationalization of the Vistula River.

Germany demands what now is Polish territory from the Baltic sea southward to between Bydgoszyz Posnan. This region right after the war, it was said, returned a majority of German votes.

In addition to these territorial claims, Germany wants Poland to bind herself to a "just treatment of minorities."

The nazi proposals would take the harbor of Gdynia from Poland but would leave that country the big provincial city of Poznan, which lies on the main railway connecting Berlin and Warsaw. The line would be drawn somewhere between Poznan and Bydgoszyz.

Defence Committee For Saint John

SAINT JOHN, N. B., Aug. 28—(CP) — Mayor D. L. MacLaren announced tonight that a committee had been organized to take all necessary precautionary measures for protection of the civilian population against any possible enemy attack.

The committe is not concerned with actual military defence but will function along lines similar to those of civilian defence groups in England.

Germans Are Hard Hit By Rationing

BERLIN, Aug. 28 —(AP) —The new German rationing law places no restriction on the amount of clothing a German woman may possess, but she must be almost down to the extremity of "not having a single thing to wear" before she may buy something new.

A woman in Germany, under the present regulations, may not buy anything new if she has:—

Two dresses.
Three sets of underwear.
Two nightshirts or pajamas.
Two petticoats.
Six pair of stockings.

Men have to get along with two suits and three shirts. But what might be more embarrassing to them is the fact that they are permitted only one stick of shaving soap for five months.

Two pair of shoes will suffice for both men and women.

Men, however, are favored by the Government in that they are permitted to possess two pair of winter gloves whereas a woman has to get along with one pair.

Improvement Noted In Economic Trend

TORONTO, Aug. 28—A substantial revival of export trade has been the chief cause of a "definitely favorable" turn taken in Canada's economic condition during the past few months, according to the August edition of the Bank of Nova Scotia Monthly Review, released today.

"Were the international situation less explosive," the review said, "it could be said with a considerable degree of assurance that Canadian business was emerging from the slump of 1937-38."

stages in full preparedness. There was progressive mobilization of troops, requisition of transportation facilities and partial evacuation of Paris.

Lighted signs were banned in the capital. Householders were told that their electricity would be cut off if they allowed light to shine out of windows or doors.

About 3,000,000 men were under arms in the French Empire.

The week-end exchange of letters between Hitler and Premier Daladier was made public at noon by the foreign ministry. It showed that France's proposal for direct negotiations between Poland and Germany had been flatly rejected by the Reich.

Originally, a responsible source said, Daladier intended to send a second letter to Hitler, but the wording of the first exchange and Berlin's publication of the texts last night 12 hours before issuance in Paris complicated the situation.

Now, it was asserted in authoritative quarters, it is "virtually impossible" to find a common meeting ground between Paris and Berlin.

Loretta Young, Richard Greene Head Excellent Cast of Thrilling New Hit At Capitol Theatre, Summerside

With the glorious tradition of the Blue Grass country as its background and the famed Kentucky Derby as its spectacular climax, "Kentucky," a 20th Century-Fox production which has been photographed in brilliant Technicolor, opened yesterday at the Capitol Theatre with Loretta Young and Richard Greene heading a fine cast.

The outbreak of the Civil War forms what might almost be termed a prologue to the story; it established a fued between the houses of Dillon and Goodwin which continues through all the years that follow, up to the present time. Then Jack Dillon, played by Richard Greene returns from an eight-year stay in England and falls in love with Sally Goodwin (Loretta Young.)

Lovely Loretta Young has never been better and it almost seems that the role of Sally Goodwin was conceived with her in mind. Richard Greene is splendid as Jack Dillon while Walter Brennan does the finest bit of acting in his career. Douglas Dumbrille, Karen Morley and Moromi Olsen, along with the remainder of the cast, are excellent. David Butler directed from a screen play by Lamar Trotti and John Taintor Foote. The latter also wrote the original story, "The Look of Eagles," from which Kentucky" was adapted. Daryl F. Zanuck was in charge of production with Gene Markey associate producer.

GOVERNMENT

did not come to his east block office during the day but remained at his home where he was receiving constant advices of the progress of events.

Erich Windels, Consul General for Germany, advised the Prime Minister this morning that the latter's message to Hitler Friday, urging him to seek a peaceful solution to the Polish problem, had been placed in the German leader's hands Saturday. Hitler had not replied directly nor had President Mosciki of Poland to whom an identical message was sent.

May Summon Parliament

All was in readiness for calling Parliament if the need arises. Dr. Arthur Beauchesne, clerk of the House of Commons, had advised sessional employees to be ready to report for duty on short notice, and Major Milton Gregg, V. C., Sergeant-at-Arms in the House of Commons, was returning from a holiday to be ready for duty if the need arose.

It was reported here Premier Hepburn of Ontario was expected to come to Ottawa to confer with Defence Minister Mackenzie on the coordination of efforts to guard public and other properties against sabotage, and that Premier Duplessis of Quebec might join in the conference.

A flood of communications continued to pour into the Prime Minister's office and to the defence department offering advice of every conceivable variety, some criticism and many offers for service.

Outstanding among the communications was an offer from Lt. Col. Rodolphe Girard, former officer commanding the Hull Regiment, offering to raise a French-Canadian regiment for service overseas. He was advised the present mobilization was sufficient for the present but his offer would be considered if circumstances rendered such larger effort necessary.

Only major announcement today was that relating to control of shipping, this synchronizing with similar steps adopted in Great Britain with relation to British shipping.

Control for the moment is exercised only in relation to the physical operation of ships, with the naval service empowered to prescribe to ship captains the routes to be followed, where they are to moor and other details relating to safety of vessels and the convenience of the Government.

Wanted Indian Recovers From Bullet Wounds

ARCOLA, Sask., Aug. 28 —(CP)—Nelson Sammy, young Mountain Reserve Indian wanted for the slaying of his wife and her parents, is recovering in hospital from bullet wounds suffered in a fatal midnight gun battle with Constable W. E. Rhodeniser of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police.

The 28-year-old officer from Farmington, N S., was killed Saturday night when a posse searching for the Indian crossed Sammy's path in the thick brush country near Carlyle, Sask. Rhodeniser was the fourth victim of the Indian, said by police to have killed his 35-year-old wife and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Chewack, Friday night.

The Indian has a bullet wound in the shoulder, apparently inflicted during the gun-fight which climaxed a 24-hour manhunt led by Rhodeniser's trained police dog "Tell," Sammy's left thoracic cavity still is filled with blood and his left lung is collapsed.

Constable Rhodeniser's body was sent to the Maritimes by rail today and the funeral service will be held at Farmington. He joined the "Mounties" five years ago and had served at Yorkton and Canora during the past four years he spent in Saskatchewan.

When the rifle-fire ceased, Sammy's unconscious form was lifted from the thicket and he was removed to hospital. The officer's body was taken to Carlyle, 120 miles southeast of Regina.

Mrs. Sammy was shot at the supper table in her Reserve home. Neighbors said they saw Sammy drive away on his bicycle afterward. He carried a rifle and they told police he said he still had ammunition left and was going to do away with himself.

Police said the Chewacks were killed after Mrs. Sammy.

Scout Officer To Visit Charlottetown

Sir Percy, deputy commissioner of Imperial Headquarters of the Boy Scouts Association, was born at Rushmere, Ipswich, on April 22, 1870, a son of the late R. G. Everett, J. P. He was educated at Queen Elizabeth's School, Ipswich, and Trinity College, Cambridge university. In 1896 he married Rita, daughter of the late Matthew Clay of South Shields, and they have one son and one daughter.

He is joint managing director of C. Arthur Pearson Limited. For many years he was editor-in-chief for the publishing firm, and it is said that few editors have accepted and published so distinguished a list of first books. Among his "discoveries" are Ethel M. Dell, A.S.M. Hutchinson, Cutcliffe Hyne, Baroness Orczy, Ruby M. Ayers, Sheila Kaye Smith and others almost equally as well-known.

Sir Percy has long been chairman of the Eastman Dental Clinic of the Royal Free Hospital, said to be the finest institution of its kind in England; and is a member of the hospital's governing committee. For many years he has been chairman of the Plaistow Maternity Hospital which is able to boast of having brought 5,000 babies into the world in a single year and with the lowest maternal mortality on record.

He is vice-president of the Camping Club of Great Britain, of which Lord Baden-Powell is president.

In his own community of Elstree, which is known as the British Hollywood, he is a member of the parish Council, chairman of the Bushey Hospital, and a member of the Elstree and British International Films Fire Brigade.

Mentioned in the English "bible" of contract bridge, Crane on Bridge, he is recognized as one of England's authorities on the game.

If not the originator, he certainly helped to popularize, the quiz type of article, an idea now much in vogue for radio programs. Some years ago he contributed a series of problems to Royal Magazine under the pen name of Mr. X.

He is the president of the London Crime Club, of which it has been said that few bodies have a more distinguished membership. He is a member of the Authors' and the Savage clubs of London.

But of his many diverse interests, it is scouting which is dearest to his heart. Since Lord Baden-Powell's semi-retirement, he has helped to fill the busy public role previously filled by the World Chief Scout.

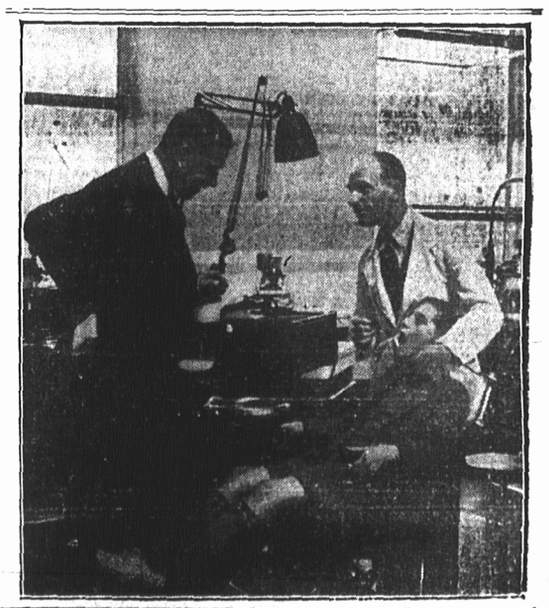
Sir Percy is the only surviving member of the staff of Scoutmaster Baden-Powell's historic experimental Scout camp on Brownsea Island in 1907.

He was directly concerned with working out the organization of the movement after its inception. The system of county Scout organizations used in Britain today is modelled on one Sir Percy worked out for his home county of Hertfordshire in the early days. He was the prime mover in the acquisition during the last four or five years of several large national camp sites for Scouting in Great Britain, and he is known as "the champion opener" of Boy Scout and Girl Guide headquarters, his total to date being well over 100.

Besides being deputy commissioner of the Scouts, he is chairman of the Imperial Headquarters finance committee; is honorary treasurer of the Girl Guides Association; and is treasurer of Roland House. In 1936 he represented Lord Baden-Powell at the Australian Scout Corroboree.

Lady Everett is active in the Girl Guide movement. Their son, Lieutenant Commadner Varley Everett, was a Scout before entering the navy. Their daughter, Miss Winn Everett, is a physician and surgeon of note.

Sir Percy Winn Everett, Kt., M.A., F. S. S.



Sir Percy Everett, deputy commissioner of the Imperial Headquarters, Boy Scouts Association, is shown above with his bicycle. He was one of the early cycling enthusiasts of Great Britain and established a long-distance wheeling record of 217 miles in 24 hours. He is still a member of the Cylists' Touring Club of Great Britain. During his college days he was a champion "Miler" and was captain of several school cricket teams.

In the smaller picture Sir Percy Everett is seen discussing some detail work with the superintendent of the famous Eastman Dental Clinic of the Royal Free Hospital, London, of which Sir Percy is Chairman. Some 60,000 children receive free treatment at this institution every year. This larger picture shows a busy day at the clinic which is the largest of its kind in the world.
