Chester Herald and Inspector of Royal Canadian Air Force Badges.

This is the official crest of R.C.A.F. Station Summerside which was presented on Air Force Day, June 9th, to the commanding officer, W. G. D. A. Willis, D.F.C., by Air Commodore R. C. Ripley, O.B.E., S.D., assistant chief of the air staff who made the presentation on behalf of His Majesty the King and the Chief of Air Staff. The letter that accompanied the crest from Mr. J. D. Heaton-Armstrong, the Chester Herald, states: "The oak tree is indicative of the strength and growth of the Canadian Confederation of which Prince Edward Island is the cradle. Heraldic waves of water in the badge indicate the Island location. The motto, Fundamenta in Futurum, means foundations for the future."

mind Buster at a distance, but he was afraid to be within reach of Buster's great claws. "He must have been in the tree when it fell. There he is climbing along the trunk now," replied Lightfoot. "Listen to him," growled Buster Bear. "He sounds as if he didn't like his bath."

He really did sound so. He was chattering and whining and scolding. Had you been there to hear him you would have known that he was indignant. He was downright angry. He was saying so and he didn't care who heard him. He thought someone had played a trick on him, and he thought he knew who. He thought it was Paddy the Beaver and he was telling Paddy just what he thought of him. It wasn't pleasant to hear. It never is pleasant to hear angry people letting their tongues run because they have lost their tempers. Prickly Porky certainly had lost his temper. Yes, sir, he had so. "He needs another ducking," chuckled Lightfoot. "It might cool him off."

"Wool! Wool!" said Buster Bear. "What a fuss about a little bath."

Strange But True

By F. H. MacArthur

Out of every 100,000 living people in Canada and the U.S.A., 268 died of heart disease; 115 of flu and pneumonia; 112 cancer; 87 cerebral hemorrhage; 82 in accidents; 80 from nephritis; 80 from T.B.; 54 from diseases of infancy; 49 from diabetes; 24 from hardening of the arteries. These 10 causes accounted for 79 per cent of all deaths.

Who was known as the enchantress of the Nile?
Her name was Cleopatra and she committed suicide at the age of 39 after marrying her own brother and winning the love of two of the world's greatest military figures, Caesar and Mark Anthony. What a woman!

Both Greta Garbo and Charlie Chaplin once made their living lathering mugs in a barber shop. Frank Woolworth, the founder of Woolworth's five and ten cent stores and a multi-millionaire at the time of his death, used to be so poor and had met with failure so often that he had lost all faith in himself. But Frank had a mother who encouraged him by saying that some day he'd be a rich man.

"The Carrie National Trail" in the State of Kansas, was named for the saloon smashing lady who wrecked saloons with her hatchet and put the fear of the Lord into men's souls by shouting: "This is the arm of God. I have come to save you men from a drunkard's hell."

Carrie Nation was a whirlwind in petitions whose unlawful acts eventually put the 18th Amendment into the Constitution. No wonder Indiana named one of its highways in her honor!

There is always one quarter of London's vast population underground, and by underground I don't mean in cemeteries. What I refer to is the great underground honeycomb which extends in all directions a hundred feet or so below the mighty city. Not even New York or Paris are in any way comparable with the marvelous tube railways of London.

Piccadilly Circus station handles 30,000,000 passengers every year and there are other stations doing a roaring business in human traffic, day and night.

Right below the street of London runs the world's most remarkable railway. Trains come and go, discharge their loads, take on other loads, but they carry no passengers, and no drivers or train crews. Sounds fantastic, doesn't it? Yet it's true, and this Post Office (London) railway is the only one of its kind in existence.

This unique line runs from Eastern District Post Office at Whitechapel to Paddington District Post Office, a total length of 6 1/4 miles and 65 to 72 feet below street level.

How is it operated without crews? All the movements of trains are controlled from surface stations, consisting of small levers. To start a train on its journey, the operator moves a lever causing the section of track on which the engine is standing to become electrified. When it reaches a stop-station a second lever is moved and presto, the juice is cut off in that section until the train is ready to resume its journey. Every two minutes a train is dispatched in each direction and the time taken to deliver mail from a terminal station to post-offices on the route requires only 18 minutes. Think of it!

—Mrs. Carroll MacWilliams of Carleton Lot 6 and Harry MacWilliams who are busy calling on the citizens of O'Leary in connection with Canada's census.

Fifty-one students wrote Grade VIII exams at the O'Leary School on Thursday, June 7th. Supervising the students were: Inspector Merritt E. Callaghan, B. A., of Alberton, Principal William Turner and Vice-Principal Miss Pearl Craig of the O'Leary teaching staff.

Mr. Samuel H. Hewitt of San Mateo, California motored to Coleman on June 6th and will spend some time there the guest of Mr. and Mrs. W. Russel Rogers. Mrs. Hewitt (nee Miss Greta Rogers) died suddenly in San Mateo of a heart attack on May first and her remains were tenderly laid to rest in the family plot in the Brae United Church cemetery on Mother's Day, May 13th, in one of the largest funerals ever seen in Prince County with over one thousand people attending. The officiating Minister was Rev. W. G. Dickson of O'Leary who was assisted by Rev. C. O. Howlett also of O'Leary. Mr. Hewitt is receiving a welcome from his many friends who deeply sympathize with him in his sad bereavement.

Mr. J. Glen MacDougall, B.Sc., B.E., 24, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. N.W. MacDougall, Nine Mile Creek, left recently to take a position with General Electric. Mr. MacDougall, a graduate in Mechanical Engineering has had a very successful scholastic career. Entering P.W.C. in 1942, he took Normal Training in his second year, leading his class he won the college prize, also the Hon. John Richards scholarship. For the next year he taught school at Nine Mile Creek. Returning to P.W.C. he graduated with an Honorary Diploma in '47.

Anxious to continue his studies he entered Dalhousie University, remaining there for two years; he Canada to Detroit, Michigan, under the Detroit River, lies an interesting bit of engineering in the form of a tube tunnel, because this one while actually under the water was built in the open! Built in seven different sections, it was floated to the river and then laid into trenches dug at the bottom. Altogether 375,000 tons of clay had to be removed as each section was put in place. It was covered with 4 ft. of soil. This great tube tunnel carries 22 ft. roadway and has special customs arrangements at the Canadian end.

The late H. G. Wells got married to get all the happiness he could before he died. Forty years later he was in good health grinding out two full length books each year, books that set the world on fire.

The great Daniel Webster was once sued for not paying his meat bill.

Balzac, the master fiction writer, owed so much money that he jumped and fled every time the door bell was rung.

graduated in '49 with a B.Sc. degree and a Diploma in Engineering, also receiving the Walter P. Copp Memorial Engineering prize. For the next two years he studied at Nova Scotia Technical College, receiving the P.E.I. Government Scholarship. Graduating with the class of '51, he has received a two year test course in electrical engineering from General Electric.

Before leaving he was honoured by his immediate relatives and friends at the home of his aunt, Mrs. A. E. MacMillan. In the course of the evening Mrs. George McPhee, after a few timely remarks called on Mrs. Raymond Taylor to read an address, after which a gift was presented by Mr. Cheley MacDougall.

Glen, in his usual efficient, pleasant manner thanked all present for their kindness in remembering him, assuring them their gift would be a constant reminder of a pleasant evening and the folks on P. E. I. Refreshments were served by the hostess and a social evening was enjoyed by all.
