

Double Ring Ceremony Unites Popular Couple

St. Patrick's Church, Fort Augustus, was the scene of a very pretty wedding on June 7, 1958, when Florence Mary, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Grimes, Waterville, was united in holy bonds of matrimony with William Benedict, son of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Griffin, Charlottetown. Rev. T.P. Butler performed the double ring ceremony and celebrated the nuptial mass. The bride entering the church on the arm of her father, was very beautiful in a gown of pure silk organza full skirted with a delicate bow trailing the long row of hand sewn buttons. The tight fitted bodice had a Sabrina neckline formed through the use of hand clipped imported Chantilly lace highlighted by the portrait use of pearl and paillette embroidery. She wore a shoulder length illusion veil and carried a cascade of red roses. The matron of honor Mrs. John McKenna and bridesmaid, Miss Lillian Quinn wore identical gowns of cristalette in colors of pink and turquoise respectively, with matching hats and mitts. They carried nosegays of pink and white carnations. Mr. Vincent Griffin, brother of the groom, was best man. The ushers were Charles Chandler and John McKenna. The bride's mother chose for her daughter's wedding a silk print dress, topped with a blue duster with white accessories. Her corsage was of white carnations. The groom's mother wore a two piece dress of beige and coral with matching accessories. Her corsage was also of carnations. Following the ceremony a reception was held at the Charlottetown Hotel for sixty five guests. The bride's table was centred with a three tier wedding cake. The toast to the bride was proposed by Rev. T.P. Butler and was fittingly responded to by the groom. Amid the well wishes of friends the bride and groom left on a honeymoon trip to Niagara Falls and Boston. The bride chose for travelling a light tweed suit with white and blue accessories and a corsage of red carnations. Upon their return the happy couple will reside in Charlottetown. Prior to her wedding the bride was tendered a miscellaneous shower at the home of Miss Lillian Quinn and Mrs. Lea Carragher, and by Mrs. Chester Walsh and Mrs. John Grimes at her home in Waterville at which she received many beautiful and useful gifts.—Photo by Craswell.

MacDonald-Edwards Marriage Is Solemnized

Saint Dunstan's Basilica, Charlottetown, was the setting June 14, 1958, for the wedding of Vera Edwards and George P. MacDonald. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Clarence Roche. The bride was given in marriage by her grandfather, Mr. Joseph MacDonald. Very pretty and dainty, the bride was gowned in a pink lace dress over satin with a full ballerina length skirt, and matching jacket. The finger-tip veil was held in place by a coronet of pink flowers decorated with rhinestones. Her bouquet was yellow roses. The bridesmaid, Miss Joan McAlister, wore a turquoise color net dress over satin, ballerina length with a headress of turquoise color flowers. The best man was Melvin Burns. Mrs. Edwards, mother of the bride, wore a navy blue dress, yellow hat and accessories. Her corsage was yellow roses. Mrs. William MacDonald, mother of the groom, wore a navy blue suit, navy and white hat. Her corsage was white carnations. The bride's grandmother, Mrs. Joseph MacDonald, wore a rose-color linen dress and white hat. Her corsage was white carnations. After the wedding ceremony a wedding breakfast was held at the home of the groom's parents. Later a buffet supper reception was held at the bride's home. At this reception a singsong was enjoyed and also dancing. After a short trip to Moncton, Mr. and Mrs. MacDonald took up residence in Charlottetown.

DOUCETTE CONNOLLY
Saint Cecilia's Church, Toronto, was the setting at 9 a.m. on May 17, 1958, for the wedding of Mary Shea Connolly and Raymond Joseph Doucette. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. Connolly and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Remi Doucette. The wedding reception was held at the Pickfair Rest. Photo by Park Lane Studio, Toronto.

MARY HAWORTH

Can't Respect Such A Fellow

Dear Mary Haworth: I have been trying for years to get up enough nerve to write to you; and finally, here goes: "How can two persons, married for a number of years, who have nothing in common, find a little happiness?"

My husband and I just do not like anything the same. We both have jobs, and spend our vacations separately, because we never can agree about where to go.

I like people and the type of vacation resort where there would be lots of dancing and other activity. Herbert (my husband) doesn't dance and is very self-conscious with people. And, unfortunately, when he gets self-conscious, I get sick to my stomach at him.

Please understand, I do love people, and can bring anyone out of a shell—but him. On the rare occasions when we go out together I ignore him completely—and I honestly don't want to; but he is such a bore.

WON'T PARTICIPATE
If we dine together in a public place, all he can say is: "Don't laugh too loudly! Don't talk too much! Sit like a lady! Don't drink too much!" If we have guests at home, I have to entertain them. He won't participate in any games.

I am not the nicest person; but I have to respect a man before I can like him. And unfortunately I don't respect a man who can't hold a conversation in the company of other people. I have had my friends say to me: "You don't even know he is in the room. He always goes into a corner by himself."

If I am at fault I would like to know it. But what more can a person do than try? Whenever I suggest that we visit friends, he complains that he doesn't feel well. Yet I am always ready to meet anyone he wants me to, whether or not I feel well. Please comment on our difficulties. A.P.

Dear A.P.: It appears that you and your husband are ashamed of each other in public. Which suggests that neither one of you is secure in his own esteem.

Each of you is on the defensive, unconsciously, against "what people may think of me." Hence it becomes unduly important "what people may think" of the person you're married to. Why? The reason is, because you "identify" with your spouse—and assume that he (or she) is as unattractive to others, as you feel that you personally are. Thus you resent him (or her) as a supposed drag on your social life.

At heart, each is uneasily self-rejecting, due to a deeply ingrained conviction that people regard you in a belittling way, if they take notice at all. This conviction contributes to, and in turn is supported by, a chronic experience of social failure. I gather, it seems that Herbert reacts one way to this emotional distress, whereas you react in a different way. Evidently he has a defeatist bias—a willingness to settle for being a social outcast, and let it go at that, rather than struggle for approval, and maybe fall on his face, thereby letting the world know that he cares. His neurotic safeguard against perpetual wounds to his pride is simply to wear a mask of stoic indifference to social opinion.

Your reaction is more aggressive, but no less anxious. You strain compulsively for at least a semblance of acceptance by persons encountered here and there—which a comfortably self-respecting person wouldn't do. Thus, your neurotic exertions grate on Herbert's nerves, and cause him to feel embarrassed for both of you—just as his signs of social incompetence keep your inferiority feelings on edge.

So when you gouge at each other's shortcomings, it is a case of the pot calling the kettle black. I think you made an unfortunate alliance in getting married; but perhaps neither of you could do any better, taking into account your ingrained handicaps. To improve the relationship, each must humbly recognize the need to improve himself, and get expert help in retraining his own social reflexes and emotional attitudes.—M.H.

PALMER ROAD C.W.L.

The monthly meeting of the Palmer Road, Sub-division of the C.W.L. was held in the church vestry on June 15th. Seventeen members were in attendance. The president opened the meeting with the recital of the League Prayer. The minutes of the previous meeting were read by the secretary approved and signed by the president. The treasurer gave her report which showed a balance of cash on hand of $85.32.

Correspondence included a letter to the president from Mrs. Raymond Smith, Resolutions Convener, and a letter from Sister Mary Eugene, C.S.M. executive director of the Prince County Catholic Welfare Agency for a donation received.

It was moved and seconded that the date of meetings be changed from the third Sunday of the month to the Sunday following the First Friday. It was also moved and seconded that from now on to have a mass said for any deceased member or relative.

It was decided to hold a Bingo in the Parish Hall on the 8th of July, prizes to be donated by the members. Five members paid their annual fees, and the Secretary was authorized to send same for the paid-up members to Ottawa and Charlottetown.

Meeting adjourned by members reading the Act of Consecration.
