WATCH FOR INDONESIAN BUILDUP MOVEMENTS

An Indian Gurkha, left, and a Royal Ulster Rifleman keeps watch from a sandbagged dugout at a border post on Malaysian Borneo frontier with Indonesia, only 300 yards away. The post, manned by 25 men, is believed to be faced by some 3,000 Indonesian troops.

Rotary Club Sponsorship Of Play To Stimulate Interest In 'Centre'

A group of local amateur players, the Circle Theatre Workshop, will present "I Remember Mama" March 2 at Confederation Centre Theatre.

By sponsoring the play the Rotary Club hopes to promote interest in the Confederation Theatre. Mr. Tweedy said Rotary will solicit the help of other service clubs in this production making it a co-operative effort and in return will offer service to future worthwhile projects of other organizations.

Such a production by amateurs is proof that the Confederation Centre Theatre is available to all companies that can get the backing to cover the cost of production providing, of course, it reaches a certain standard.

During the Christmas holidays the following college students worked on the set designs for the big night: Lynn Manning, Nora Scates, Nelcha Laphorne, Jimmy MacNutt, Ian Millar, Foster Millar and Erskine Smith. The students were given complete supremacy at the Confederation Centre workshop where they made such things as a large buffet and an old kitchen stove. It was explained that it is much easier to make these things than it is to bring them in from somewhere else.

In order to encourage local amateur groups, the theatre has special rates for such productions. A one night performance can be staged by an amateur group at a cost of $150 whereas for a professional group the cost would be higher. Mr. Tweedy stated that he considered this price very fair as the cost of lighting, heating and staff of the theatre for one night would in his estimation, reach or even exceed the fee for amateurs.

Through this type of work the Circle Theatre Workshop hopes to interest young people in the theatre from the angle of set design. Gordon Tweedy says the Rotary Club will take charge of the sale of tickets, the advertising and the promotion of the play which will be at 7.30 on the evening of March 2.
