72-Year-Old Stove Is Still Going Strong

Once more an old kitchen stove enters into the picture. This one is a Waterloo and has reached the grand old age of 72 years. Mrs. Jane MacFarlane, or "Aunt Jane" as she is known to her many friends, who is 82 years old and Lower Montague's oldest resident, is the proud possessor of this stove. This Waterloo stove is in wonderful condition and has stood the test of time remarkably well. It has not had repairs of any great extent in all these years. "Aunt Jane" does all her own housework and all her cooking is done on this stove, and she reports the best results and wouldn't wish for better. Mrs. MacFarlane was born in Lower Montague in 1870 and is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Sandy Campbell. One brother, Alex Campbell, is residing in Lower Montague. She is very active for her age, and immensely enjoys a game of cards with her friends. Quite often she entertains them, and keeps them interested with tales and stories of the old times during the early settlement of Lower Montague. On April 2nd she celebrated her 82nd birthday, at which time she was visited by a number of her friends and was presented with a beautiful potted plant as a token of their esteem and friendship.

The WEEK at S. D. U.

Excitement on the campus this week has centred about two of our leading student organizations, the Students' Union and the Dramatic Society. The Students' Union is in the news because this has been election week for the 1951-52 officers of that organization. The Dramatic Society has come to the fore because as the result of long hours of hard work, the society's feature production of the year has become a reality.

Well, last Sunday evening, we found out who would be candidates for president, vice-president, and secretary in this year's Student Union elections. After all the nominations were posted, seven candidates had offered for the three positions.

There were two nominations for the presidency: Walter Reid of Hope River and George Cameron of Wellington. For the vice-presidency there were also two nominations: John Mullally of Souris and Floyd MacGaugh of Bear River. Three nominations for the secretaryship promised to make this vote a really close one. Those offering were Stan Mooney of Iona, Cody Myers of Hope River, and Bill McNeely of Charlottetown.

Monday and Tuesday were comparatively quiet days, although all candidates were hard at work preparing for the pre-election rally on Wednesday. A few rumors were circulated about the campus, but there was nothing in them that created any excitement among the voters. Wednesday, the day of the big rally, brought the enthusiasm out into the open, with the result that speculation was rampant. A large number of students assembled to hear the candidates and their campaign managers express their views on the election, to consider their platforms, and in general, to learn why these particular men were running.

Unlike many election campaigns, there were no long-winded speeches, no rash promises, and no name-calling. Indeed, if we were to describe the attitude of the candidates throughout the whole campaign, we should say it was one of common sense and sincerity. At the rally, each candidate stated briefly the reason for running, promised his best efforts if elected, expressed his appreciation for the honor of being nominated, and urged all voters to exercise their right to vote in the most reasonable manner possible.

There was an air of uncertainty as both candidates and electorate left the hall. It was evident that the appeal by all candidates for a clean campaign and a conscientious casting of ballots had impressed all present. This was one election that would be decided without any high pressure tactics or bribery and by the common sense of the electorate.

Poor weather on Friday did nothing to prevent a large turnout at the poll. Voting ceased at 5:00 p.m. and the returning officers retired to count the ballots. In the evening, the students again assembled, this time to hear the results. Some were amazed, some were disappointed, others were elated; but all accepted the majority very graciously.

The "Week" is proud to introduce the chief officers of next year's Students' Union to its readers. They are all "great men." President, George Cameron; vice-president, John Mullally. Because there was no clear-cut majority, another vote for secretary is required.

When Elmer "Skinny" MacPhee learned that the Dramatic Society would present its play in Souris for its first performance in the Provincials, all he could say was: "They could not have picked a better place to find out how good it is. And, besides, in what other place could the debut be made?"

Nether "Skinny" nor anyone else on the campus, be that as it may, have any doubts concerning the quality of the presentation or the success it will achieve. The cast, under the direction of Rev. E.J. Roche, has spent many days in preparing for this production as have the executive of the society, stage manager, advertising men, and director.

The play itself is a drama dealing with the problem of racial prejudice in the southern United States. It is a stirring presentation which should appeal especially to the people of Prince Edward Island, who have always been known to appreciate a just cause.

It may be felt by some that a play which brings out the deeply rooted prejudice that still exists in some parts of the States has no significance to us who have never experienced intolerance of this kind. That is not so. We may not isolate ourselves from this kind of evil, for we do not know when we shall be confronted with it ourselves. We can learn a great deal from a play of this kind about the nature of prejudice and the terrible consequences that follow from it. Next week the play will be pre-
