

"I did not think that you'd be so hard with me," as the shark said when he bit the anchor.

What is that that belongs to yourself, and yet is used by everybody else more than yourself?

Your name.

What is the difference between water and whisky?

Men slip on the former when it is frozen, and on the latter when it is not frozen.

A Miss Joy hearing it stated that a "thing of beauty is a joy forever," emphatically declared that she was glad she was not a thing of beauty, because she did not wish to remain a Joy forever.

A stump speaker exclaimed, "I know no North, no South, no West, fellow-citizens!"

"Then," exclaimed an old farmer in the crowd, "it's a time you went to school and learnt your jography."

An old man, when reading the lives of the ante-deluvian patriarchs, declared he "wouldn't have lived in those days for all the world, as a man stood a chance of having the tooth-ache for more'n five hundred years."

Pretty girl to Charles—Charles, how far is it around the world? Isn't it twenty four thousand miles?

Charles, (who adores pretty girl, and puts both arms around her)—That is all a mistake, my love; it's only about twenty four inches.

She was all the world to him.

DREAMS.—To dream of policemen is a sure sign of the "blues." To dream you are a monkey, is to say the least, suggestive. To dream your head is being "punched," and on waking discover that such is not the case, is lucky—for you. To dream you have eloped with a wicked female ghost is a sure sign you have taken bad spirits (the over night.) If a "gentleman of the press" dreams of donkeys it is a "necdyrtorial" vision.

A gentleman, when walking with a lady, stumbled and fell. On his resuming his perpendicular, the lady remarked "She was sorry for his unfortunate fall."

"I didn't hurt my fore-paws," said he; "I only barked my knee."

"What do you mean by a cat and dog life?" said a husband to his angry wife.

"Look at Carlo and Kitty asleep on the hearth rug together; I wish men lived half as peacefully with their wives."

"Stop," said the lady, "tie them together and see how they will agree."

An indignant farmer, thus polished off the New York Tribune, and the newspaper fraternity generally, for venturing to tender an occasional advice:

"City fools that live on such food as intelligent farmers would give to their swine, set themselves up as solomons, yet don't know enough to know that they are infernal dam fools." It is a universal practice for newspaper reporters, correspondents, editors and professional aristocrats to treat the Honest & laboring class, with sneers, & sarcasm, they write and talk as if the farmer knew nothing. Such imbeciles know no more about farming than my dog does about preaching."

Mrs. Jenkins was in the habit of saying "I say," to almost every sentence to which she gave utterance. On one occasion she rang the bell for her foot-man, and on his entering she said, "I say, James, I have been to Mrs. Thompson's and heard say that you said that I am in the habit of saying 'I say' to almost every word I say. Now, if I do say 'I say' to every word I say; it does not become you to say that I say 'I say' to every word I say, James."

A farmer living at Mount Music, near Macroom, Ireland, wished to have a dog registered, sent the following valuable description of the beautiful animal to the clerk of the petty sessions for the Macroom district:—

"He has a black back and sides with black hind thighs brown very near to the paws the breast white all along up to the mouth white nose white belly a black head but a little of the nose and a white stripe from the nose to the middle of the forehead curved with stripe about the neck and the tips of the tail was a pretty tall dog."

Two gentlemen were walking together in Paris. "I will engage," said one to the other, "to give the man before me a good kicking, and yet he shall not be angry." He did as he had undertaken to do. The stranger turned round and looked astonished. "I beg your pardon sir," said the kicker, "I took you for the Duke de la Tremouille." The Duke was very handsome—the man was very plain; he was gratified by the mistake under which he believed he had suffered, shook himself, smiled, bowed, and went on his way.

Customer—A slight mourning hat-band, if you please?

Fashionable Hatter.—What relation, sir?

Customer—Wife's uncle.

Hatter—Favorite uncle, sir?

Customer—Um—well—yes.

Hatter—Mentioned in the will, sir?

Customer—No such luck!

Hatter, to his clerk, briskly—Couple o' inches, Tim.

By one decisive argument.

Tom gained his lovely Kate's consent To fix the bridal day.

"Why in such haste, dear Tom, to wed? I shall not change my mind," she said;

"But then," says he, "I may."

The French are a cheerful race, and find a joke in things where no other people think of looking for one. A short time since, a steamboat explosion on the lower Mississippi blew a Frenchman's better-half into the bushes and eternity, whereupon the bereaved husband exclaimed, "Farewell, my much e-steamed wife!"

When is 'till like a thief? When it is taken up.

The brightest lie.—Juven-ile

FLORICULTURAL.

FLOWER GARDENS.

Some old-fashioned farmers have a notion that flower gardens are of no use, and that the time spent upon them is wasted. They are not willing to allow the land to be used for such a purpose, and much less to furnish the manure for it, or a man to dig it up and prepare it. In such cases the wife or the girls manage by hook or crook to have a few herbaceous plants, and possibly a few annual in front of the house, on each side of the walk leading to the front door. A few roots of some old worn out variety of phlox, an old red pony, a spirea or two, some poppies, and a few other such old style flowers. Now we believe in flower gardens to some extent, and should to a much greater if our purse would only admit of it. We should no more think of bringing up our children without teaching them to cultivate and admire flowers than we should without sending them to the day or Sabbath School. What is more pure and beautiful than the fresh opening blossoms, with their bright petals coloured as no mortal can colour or imitate! How they remind us of the Infinite Giver of all good, the Being who created them all! They draw our minds off for a time from the hard cares and duties of every-day life, and lift our thoughts up to the contemplation of the beautiful in nature. These flowers are emblems of purity and innocence; they bloom and fade, and seem to die, but they perform their mission, for some one is made happier and better by them. How many sick and languishing ones, tossed on beds of pain, have been cheered and encouraged by receiving a bouquet of choice flowers from some kind friend. They cheer the passer by, and fill the air with their grateful fragrance; they are gifts of affection from friend to friend; they are used to adorn the bride and to strew the pathway of happy ones to the bridal altar; they are the last sad offerings to our sainted dead. Who does not remember in years gone by the flowerplot were bloomed the flowers so tenderly cultivated by a mother's hand. The fragrance of the lilacs, a good old-fashioned flower, seems to come back to us in our day-dreams, and we almost wish ourselves young again that we might live over the happy childhood days. Who has not seen the little child jump with delight at the sight of a brilliant red poppy or tulip, and with joy grasp the dandelion or cowslip blossom offered to it. We believe God has given us eyes to enjoy seeing, and souls capable of appreciating the beautiful in nature, and that it was intended we should cultivate and enjoy flowers. We don't believe there were merely fruits and vegetables in Eden, but that there were some flowers, and that our mother Eve, and without doubt Adam, enjoyed them while they remained there. The ladies are usually more fond of flowers than the men, and have more time to cultivate them, and to them we say go on, and have a good garden this year and every year. If you have not good plants, buy a few, and then as they increase you can exchange with some of your neighbors, and in time you will get a good collection. Have some flowering shrubs. Send to the seed store for seeds of some annuals. Have a garden; let the girls take care of it, and the boys too; enlist them in the work. Brush up the walks, have the fences put up, and make everything look tidy and neat. Have a fragrant honeysuckle near the windows, that in the summer evenings it may fill the air with its fragrance. Do all that we have advised, and much more if possible; and the little humming-birds will come morning and evening, and sip the nectar from the flowers; the bees will hum their thanks to you, while your own soul will be enlarged and made better by the effort to cultivate the flowers.

"Flowers," says a great writer "are not trifles, as one might know, if he would only think how much pains God has taken with them everywhere; not one bearing the mark of brush or pencil."

Mrs. S. A. Allen's PREPARATIONS FOR THE HAIR.

Mrs. S. A. Allen's World's Hair Restorer

is suited to both young and old. It strengthens the Hair, prevents its falling or turning grey, and imparts to it a beautiful glossy appearance. It never fails to RESTORE GRAY HAIR TO ITS ORIGINAL YOUTHFUL COLOR.

It is NOT A DYE, but acts directly upon the roots of the Hair, giving them the natural nourishment required, producing the same vitality and luxuriant quantity as in youth. It will restore it on bald places, requires no previous preparation of the hair, and is easily applied by one's self. One bottle will usually last for a year, as after the hair is once restored, occasional applications once in three months will insure against grey hairs to the most advanced age.

The Restorer Reproduces and the Hair Dressing Cultivates and Beautifies. Principal Sales Office, 198 Greenwich Street, New York City. August 1, 1867.

Mrs. S. A. Allen's World's Hair Dressing or ZYLOBALSAMUM is essential to use with the Restorer, but the Hair Dressing alone often restores, and never fails to invigorate, beautify and refresh the Hair, rendering it soft, silky and glossy, and disposing it to remain in any desired position.

FOR LADIES AND CHILDREN, whose hair requires frequent dressing, it has no equal. No glossy tresses complete without it. The rich glossy appearance imparted is truly wonderful. It cleanses the Hair, removes all dandruff, and imparts to it a most delightful fragrance. It will prevent the Hair from falling out, and is the most economical and valuable Hair Dressing known. Millions of bottles sold every year.

FARMERS EVERYWHERE ATTENTION!

THE time of Crotch-harrows, wooden Flails and wooden Ploughs have passed away forever! These things are replaced by newer and better inventions.

A THRESHING MACHINE will enable you to get your grain ready for market early in the season and at one quarter the cost of the old method!

With a good and cheap FANNERS you can raise the wind at any time!

THE subscriber in view of these facts, which must have become patent to everybody, feels that he is no longer justified in "hiding his light under a bushel," but let the farmers of this Island know that they need not be without labor-saving machinery on their farms when he is around.

Last year he sold twenty Threshing Machines, and is prepared to manufacture any number of them to order.

In that period he also sold twelve sets of Farmers, and has now on hand twenty sets the same, of different styles and prices.

Horse-rakes, Ploughs, Harrows, and in fact every kind of implement used on a farm—short of a mowing machine—is made by him.

His work is too well known to need puffing at his hands.

If you need anything in his line, just come along or send to him at his manufactory on Union Street, Summerside, and you will have your wants attended to.
