Opening lead—six of hearts.
 Fancy plays are often practical plays. It can be right to exclude an unusual play from consideration merely because it's unusual.
 For example, take this hand which requires exceptional treatment by declarer for the contract to be made.
 West led a heart and South could see difficulties ahead. Two losers seemed certain—either a spade and a club, or two clubs.
 While it was obvious that the hearts could be established if the suit was divided 4-3, the trouble was that there would be no ready entry to dummy to cash the hearts.
 But declarer saw one ray of hope. It was clear from mthe lead, as well as the bidding, that West had no clubs. There were also strong indications that West had a large number of spades headed by the king.
 So, to take advantage of the situation and since normal play was bound to fail — South adopted a rare method of play to make the slam.
 He cashed the A-K of hearts, and on them discarded the A-Q of spades! He then ruffed a heart. With both opponents following suit, thus proving that the hearts were divided 4-3, business began to look good.
 Declarer next led a diamond to the ace and ruffed the fourth round of hearts high. This established the 10-8 as tricks. The rest was easy. South drew two more rounds of trumps and led a spade toward the jack.
 West, with only spades left, was forced to go up with the jack, and this, in turn, permitted South to discard all three of his clubs to make the slam.
 The hand indicates that some slight ingenuity applied at the right time and place can do no harm, and many occasionally do some good in a tight situation. The apparently impossible can sometimes be accomplished. Never give up!
