"PAGAN LOVE SONG" AT CAPITOL

—The sight of comely Esther Williams clad in a pareu (Tahitian version of a sarong), swimming against the Technicolor backgrounds of a lush tropical isle, alone is worth the price of admission to "Pagan Love Song," M-G-M's latest musical romance, now at the Capitol Theatre. Add to that the singing prowess of Howard Keel, who made an auspicious film debut as the hero of "Annie Get Your Gun" and who now lends his fresh personality and fine singing voice to a hit parade of new songs by Harry Warren and Arthur Freed, and you have an idea of the entertainment delights of this diverting new tuner.

Flying Farmer Turns Plane Into Ambulance

Mr. John Burgoyne, Fountain Road, is a patient in the Prince County Hospital where on Saturday last he underwent an operation for acute appendicitis.

Mr. Burgoyne undoubtedly owes his life to the ready assistance of Mr. Eilon Woodside, the "Flying Farmer" who came to the rescue with his plane and flew him from his home near New London to Summerside when it was found by his doctor that Mr. Burgoyne would not live unless operated upon immediately. All roads were blocked with snow and the only possible transportation was by air. Mr. Woodside was able to get the patient to the Summerside harbor in eight minutes and he was then taken by car to the Prince County Hospital where the emergency operation was immediately performed. Yesterday his condition was reported as very satisfactory.—S.
