FARM TO LET AT ROYALTY.
To let "Milford Farm" on the North River Road, about a mile from the city, at present in the occupation of the Widow of the late George Thorne. It comprises about 29 acres of land in a high state of cultivation, fronts on the North River Shore. There is a good one and a half story farm house with outbuildings and a large stable and barn, and a tool house on the premises. Possession given, if required latter end of November. These premises are well adapted for a butcher and pasture farm. Rent $200.00 a year. For further particulars apply to.

Bethlehem.
Cradled all lowly
Behold the Saviour Child
AB eing holy,
In dwelling rude and wild,
Ne'er yet was regal State
Of monarch proud and great
Who grasped a nation's fate.
So glorious as the manger bed of Bethlehem.

No longer scrow as without hope
O earth! a brighter morrow
Dawned with that infant's birth!
Our sins were great and sore
But these the Saviour bore,
And God was wroth no more,
His own Son was the Child that lay in Bethlehem.
Babe weak and wailing
In lowly village stall
Thy glory veiling.
Thou can'st to die for all!

The sacrifice is done
The world's atonement won
Till time its course hath run
O Jesus Saviour! morning Star of Bethlehem
O Star of Bethlehem!
Hallelujah! Hallelujah! Amen.

Our Place and Duty.
All that we need to know as to our place in life is that it is where God has sent us, and that he still wants us there. All that we need to know as to our present duty is that it is what is needed to be done just then, and that we have it to do. What will come of it all, we cannot yet know. Whether we are to be here always, or to go elsewhere very soon, it is not for us to know or to say. God may see that it is important for us to do or to endure in our present limited sphere for a very long time; or, He may have a larger and a more attractive sphere elsewhere, just ahead. Of one thing we may be sure, God will not call us to a broader field unless we are doing the best we can where we are. He gives us now the very best spot in all the universe, as He sees it, for our highest present welfare and usefulness. If we are not willing to accept His ordering in this thing, we are not likely to do better, or even as well, anywhere else of which He knows. Contentment is of one's spirit, not of one's possessions or surroundings.—Canadian Churchman.

Remarkable Influence of a Famous Hymn.

An exchange says that a remarkable fact has recently come to light in connection with Miss Charlotte Elliot's famous hymn, "Just as I am." When its authoress died, there were found in one of her boxes more than a thousand letters which she had received thanking her for the light and blessing received by the writers from this hymn.
They had doubtless been, to her a source of joy and praise to God; but her diffident and retiring nature restrained her from any but the most general references to what she had written.

Every Year.

Yes, the shades of life are shifting
Every year;
An we are seaward drifting
Every year;
Old places changing fret us,
The living more forget us,
There are fewer to regret us,
Every year.
But the truer life draws nigher
Every year;
And its morning star climbs higher
Every year;
Earth's hold on us grows slighter,
And the heavy burden lighter,
And the dawn immortal brighter,
Every year. —Selected.

The Useful Needle.

How little notice is ever taken of you in the world! said a Pin to a Needle. "You are always about your work, slipping in and out so softly, but never stopping to be praised. When a pretty dress is finished, who thinks of the needle that sewed it? Even the holes which you make are so small that they close up directly behind you."
"I'm content to be useful," said the Needle, "I do not ask to be praised. I do not remain in my work, it is true, but I leave behind me a thread which shows that my course has not been in vain."
Moral.—So let us quietly pass through life, doing our duty as we go, remembered for some good work left behind, but we ourselves have departed.

"My name, and my place, and my tomb all forgotten,
The brief phase of life well and patiently run;
So let me pass away, peacefully, silently,
Only remembered by what I have done."

Up the Hill is Into the Light.

How hard the way is? cried one toiling along up the hill path in deep shadow. "Isn't there a pleasanter way round? Must we go straight up?"
"Yes, we must go straight up," was the answer of the elder companion. "There is no easier way. Up the hill is into the light."
Many a time pleasure-seekers and treasure seekers find themselves toiling along in the dusky shadows up a steep path. They are thwarted, hindered, hampered, in the press of life; out up the hill is into the light.
At the end of life's long ascent "the city lieth four-square;" in "the mount of the Lord it shall be seen," and "the sun shall no more go down."

Better Than a Romance

The Christmas Farmer's Advocate, of London Ont., a copy of which we have just received, is a graphic revelation of the agricultural progress of Canada during the past fifty years, and of its capacities as a food producer for the British Empire. The articles reviewing these and other subjects read equal to romance, but, like the half hundred engravings illustrating its 72 beautiful pages, they are the faithful portrayal of realities in every part of Canada, from the humble home of the settler to the mansions of those who have risen to a competence. Our old contemporary modestly says little or nothing about its own 33 years service on behalf of the farmers' advancement, which, in the opinion of many best competent to judge, has been probably the most effective for good of all agencies.

This number contains the most complete survey ever given of the Dominion Experimental Farm System and the Ontario Agricultural College. There are sketches of German Agriculture, by Prof. Shuttleworth; the English Country Gentleman by Richard Gibson; Reminiscences, by William Miller; Agricultural Education by Rev. Prin Bryce; starting right on a Prairie Farm by Supt B. Ford; and Canada's Resources, by the Dominion Statistician; any one of which is alone worth the price (50 cents) of the number, which is being supplied gratis to new subscribers for 1899 at the old rate of $1.00 per year. The design on the front cover represents Canada as the Empires Rising Hope, and the poem, "The Path of the Yeoman," by Mr. Elliot, and John Bull's Christmas dinner, by J. W. Bengough, "Rambles on Farming," by Frank Stockton, are among the many features that will catch the popular fancy in this splendid issue of the Advocate, which not only be a benefit, but a surprise and delight to its readers.

Heroic Act and Noble Death

LONDON, Dec 28.—Captain T. E. Thomas of the steamer Ching-Ping, writing under date Macao, says:—
"I regret to inform you of Dr. Murphy's sad but gallant and noble death, caused by a heroic and successful attempt in saving the life of a Chinese child who fell out of its mother's arms into a heavy sea."
"Dr. Murphy without hesitation at once plunged in after it, but owing to the severe exertions he underwent before we could pick him up (being two hours in a very heavy sea), he fell into a dead faint from which he never recovered. This was between Canton and Hong Kong."
Dr. Murphy was formerly in Zanzibar, and left only in July for America, via Hong Kong. The whereabouts of the relatives is unknown.

HUMAN SACRIFICES

On the Altar of Diabetes. Saved by Dodd's Kidney Pills, Only.

Hardly a family in the country is free from Diabetes. Great thirst, failing sight, numbness in the thighs, bleeding gums, swollen ankles, emaciation, nervousness, pale or turbid urine, loss of sexual power, decaying teeth, pains in the loins or small of the back, are all positive signs that Diabetes is in the system.
Do you know how it ends? IN DEATH. A premature, horrible, agonized, pitiful death. The victim has no peace, no ease in life. His days are filled with tortures. His nights are waking dreams of agony. He longs to die, yet fears the terrors of his end. He lies, a bloated, fetid, repulsive mass of corruption. That is the only end of unchecked Diabetes. Dodd's Kidney Pills will cure it. They drive it out of the system thoroughly, create new, clean blood, rebuild the diseased kidneys, and restore robust health.

SEED WHEAT
A Letter From Geo. Carter & Co

As pioneers in Seed Wheat importation and the largest dealers in this article ever since 1882, we may be permitted to say a few words on this subject. We believe that the use of imported wheat has largely increased the crop in this Province in the past years, although superior cultivation has materially assisted, and we further think that the comparative misuse of imported seed the past two years, together with the very extensive use of the White Chaff variety, (of which for many years scarcely any has been imported) has caused the blight of the past season to be much worse than it would otherwise have been. We do not think, however, that any grain known, imported or otherwise, could have entirely escaped the blight of the past season, and the light crops should not be considered as evidence of exhaustion in the seed stock generally of this Province.

The season was exceptional and the conditions were such that rust could not fail to develop. Those conditions were fogs, heavy dews, calm weather and a scalding sun, and the results were rust and blight, on both oats and wheat, the strongest kinds suffering least, as always happens in all cases in epidemic, whether among vegetables or animals.

The point to consider now is whether either wheat or oats, the growth of the past season and of good germinating quality, is fit for seed. We say it is. Of course badly shrivelled grain should not be sown, but seed of good growing quality will be quite safe, and if the next season is a good one such seed, under good cultivation, will produce good crops. If history repeats itself, and it generally does, we may expect the very opposite conditions in the season, and consequently good crops.

We do not lose sight, however, of the fact that many farmers have this year no seed wheat fit to sow, and that those who have enough will still want to sow some imported seed, and hence we are procuring seed wheat from Manitoba and Ontario of the very best quality obtainable. Our Manitoba seed is all of the No. 1 grade, the highest quality of wheat grown in the world. This seed will be for sale in good time at our Seed Store in the city and by leading merchants in every important business centre of the province. We expect to have a sufficient stock to fill all orders, and will sell at lowest prices consistent with supplying a first-class article. We have now four thousand bushels of our Seed Wheat in stock and on the way, and more to follow.

Terrible Texan Tragedy.

TEXARKANA, TEXAS, Dec. 28.—Near Fouke, Ark., eighteen miles from here, two men named McKnight and Pirquin quarrelled and fought over a wagon trade. McKnight fired a revolver at Pirquin, but did not wound him. Pirquin, who stood near, easily died in a few minutes, but while life lasted he drew a revolver and shot into McKnight's house, killing an eight-year-old daughter of McKnight's and seriously injuring a younger daughter. McKnight was arrested.
