Urgent Need Is Reported For New Drug In TB Fight

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian Tuberculosis Association said here there is urgent need for a new drug to fight TB bacteria which have become resistant to present drugs.

It told the royal commission on health services that drug-resistant bacteria have become one of the greatest problems in the struggle against tuberculosis.

"We may be in for trouble unless we discover a new drug," said Dr. C.A. Wicks, association president, underlining the need for "continual study and research."

Dr. Wicks expressed concern about what he termed the "complacency and indifference" of the public towards TB.

"Some people say it is under control. It is only under control to a degree."

DON'T MEET STANDARD

Not one province in Canada measured up to the World Health Organization's case-rate yardstick for determining whether an area has TB under control.

The same note of warning ran through the association's formal brief to the commission.

While there had been a spectacular fall in the TB death rate in Canada—to 4.6 per thousand of population in 1960 from 44.4 in 1947—the number of cases declined far less markedly.

In 1960 there were 6,574 first admissions to hospitals and sanatoria and 3,063 readmissions. Ten years earlier there were 9,440 new cases and 4,484 readmissions.

Dr. C.W.L. Jeanes, executive assistant to the TB association's management committee, said the public's "complacency" with regard to chest x-rays is shown in the fact that advanced cases, are continually being discovered in the country's sanatoria.

Elmsdale Jr. Farmers Plan Meet

ELMSDALE — The Elmsdale and District Junior Farmers recently met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert McAssey. The president called the meeting to order and the minutes were read and approved.

The Junior Farmers decided to hold a potato meeting in Elmsdale School, and also to have a social evening on March 26.

Mr. McAssey moved, and Dale McKenna seconded, that all bills of the group be paid. The treasurer reported $30.20 on hand.

A social period and lunch followed the meeting. The next meeting will be held April 5 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Weldon Rennies.

Musial's Hit Good For Win

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Stan (The Man) Musial, going through the exhibition baseball grind for the first time, cracked a two-run double to cap a four-run uprising in the first inning as St. Louis Cardinals beat Philadelphia Phillies 4-3 Friday for their sixth straight victory.

Continuing his fine pre-season efforts, the 41-year-old Cardinal great, who has announced that he will retire after the 1962 campaign, drove in the winning run with his blow at St. Petersburg. The victory kept St. Louis atop the National League standings with a 9-4 record.

In other games, Milwaukee edged New York Yankees 3-2 in 10 innings at Brandenton; Cleveland whipped Los Angeles 4-1 at Tucson; San Francisco nipped Chicago's Cubs 3-2 at Vero Beach; Minnesota defeated Chicago White Sox 6-1 at Sarasota, and Houston overcame Boston 8-5 in 10 innings at Scottsdale.

The Kansas City-Washington and Pittsburgh - Cincinnati games were cancelled due to rain and Detroit - Baltimore was postponed for the same reason.

OFFICIAL GETS LOST

Lack Of Road Signs Tourists Complain

By RALPH CAMERON
Guardian-Patriot Staff Writer

SIGNS, signs and more signs!

It is the lack of them on highways and byways of the province that sparks many comments by tourists.

Particular complaints centre around lack of markings at crossroads, lack of signs pointing to motels or other tourist accommodations and lack of place name signs.

As one traveller put it: "What is the use of telling me how to get some place when I don't know where I am when I get there?"

Practically all mentions of crossroads signs involve the fact that travellers want to know where each road goes and how far it is to the villages reached on that road.

VILLAGE SIGNS

What they would like to see are signs naming each village as they come to it.

The great desire of many motorists, both Islanders and visitors, to have better road markings was brought out in the recent contest sponsored by the P.E.I. Tourist Association.

One writer said: "there should be an immediate and intensive program to mark each and every Island locality, place of interest, historic site, etc., no matter how small, with an appropriate sign. These should be distinctive and uniform throughout the Island."

Another noted: "There are not anywhere near enough contour signs (those warning of curves, hills, etc.) nor are directions to given areas well enough marked. We found ourselves several times on wrong roads."

Again: "Roads are excellently marked in even back rural areas in New Brunswick and routes and place names conspicuously placed. Exits and entrances to side roads are marked well in advance on highways as well as at the point of division."

SAVE FRUSTRATION

Telling phrases used pointed out that better signs would save drivers time and frustration; local people may not need signs but visitors do; and the plaintive question: "Why don't I ever know where I am on the Island?"

Recently the P. E. I. Tourist Committee of the Atlantic Provinces Economic Council recommended to the tourist association that it "encourage more uniformity as to the signs naming towns. Also that the association aid in establishment of a better and more workable relationship between the tourist operators and the department of highways regarding road signs and directional markers necessary for the successful operation of their tourist business."

OFFICIAL 'LOST'

Several operators have voiced complaints regarding removal of their directional signs by department employees and it is reported that a top level government official recently got lost trying to find his way to "Woodleigh," home of the famous miniature castles and other buildings, in Burlington.

Since at least 10 of the letters received by the association in its contest dealt directly with the question of lack of signs it would seem the problem is one which should be attacked immediately by both the industry and government.

Wide Expansion Is Urged In Gov't Economic Planning

REGINA (CP)—A broad extension of Ottawa's economic planning and control was urged Friday in a Saskatchewan government brief to the royal Commission on banking and finance.

"Canada is not using with sufficient vigor or imagination—nor selectively enough — the arsenal of the tax, expenditure and monetary policies available," said the DDF government. It proposed these ways of putting the arsenal to better use:

1. More "prompting and direction" of various financial institutions by federal authorities —including extension of the Bank of Canada's sphere of influence beyond the chartered banks to all major institutions important in the investment-fund picture.

2. Legislative changes to remove any ground for "ambiguity" over the federal government's responsibility for the central bank: "it is neither feasible nor desirable to regard a central bank as autonomous" as Finance Minister Fleming regarded it last year.

3. Revaluation of tariff policy, lowering walls which "have tended to produce a structirng of industry not suited to Canadian markets; lower tariffs would tend to stimulate growth in economic regions most in need of it.

4. Federal leadership toward uniformity in laws against securities frauds, or federal legislation if necessary to end "laxity" in this field which has tended to damage Canada's international reputation and made it hard to get capital in legitimate, respectable ways.

5. New laws requiring interest rates to be clearly stated in varous lending and borrowing contracts — rates now "either hidden or stated in misleading fashion" not only by small-loan and sales - finance companies, but in some cases by some chartered banks.

6. Increased investment in provincial and municipal bonds, either through more federal regulation of portfolio management by investors and through tax incentives; this could reduce the amounts for private industry "but we would not concede that this implies a lower rate of economic growth."

7. More federal grants or loans, or both, to provinces and municipalities, with the extra payments financed either by increasing federal taxes or by federal borrowing, or with or without an increase in the money supply; or federal subsidies on provincial-municipal interest costs.
