Will Discuss Federation In Caribbean Area

LONDON (CP)—Colonial Secretary Alan Lennox-Boyd today opened a conference on the political future of Britain's Caribbean colonies. The talks are expected to lead to a West Indian federation possibly next year, and ultimately to the birth of a new nation within the Commonwealth.
Under the chairmanship of Lennox-Boyd, 16 delegates from the scattered colonies will try to clean up all major outstanding issues in the way of federation. Their chief problems appear to be how to pay for the complicated machinery of federation and where to establish the federal capital.
In general, the delegates have accepted the idea of federation. In some cases, they are eager for it, and one observer suggests this Jamaica's chief minister, Norman Manley, has suggested that since most West Indian islands are on the threshold of individual self-government, the federation should begin with self governing powers.
FAVORS SLOWER UNION
But Britain views the evolution of the federal territory into a dominion as something that should be attempted overnight.
"When the financial consequences of this kind of haste—the withdrawal of certain support by the treasury—are brought home to Mr. Manley, he may well feel it inexpedient to urge the point," says The Daily Telegraph.
As it is, the discussions are not expected to be easy. Financial considerations are complex, and there will be long talks on how the colonies will be taxed to get £350,000 a year for federal administration expenses and £1,500,000 to build a federal capital.
Represented at the conference, which is expected to last two to three weeks, will be Jamaica, Trinidad and Tobago, Barbados, the Leeward Islands of Antigua, Montserrat, St. Christopher, Nevis and Anguilla, and the Windward Islands of Dominica, Grenada, St. Lucia and St. Vincent.
Only today's opening ceremony will be open to the press.

Says Madam Consumer Could Be Smarter With Her Dollars

MONTREAL (CP) — A male watchdog of business morals says Mrs. Consumer could—and should—be a lot smarter about spending her money.
President Claude Root of the Better Business Bureau of Montreal, Inc., says it isn't always easy to protect consumers against their own "folly and hasty judgment."
Often Mrs. Shopper is "neither right—nor even fair nor honest," he adds.
He warned in a recent address on ethical advertising that "another purge seems imperative" to eliminate misleading advertising but suggested that women with their industry-driving dollars have some responsibility.
"Our assumption is that 96 per cent of business has honest intent," he was addressing the Quebec

English-language branch of the Canadian Association of Consumers. He suggested the organization appoint a small consumer panel to learn what to watch for, criticize intelligently and lend a hand in supplementing the bureau's efforts to make sure that goods always come up to the standards claimed for them.
MAY SIGNED "BLIND"
Too often, Mr. Root said, Mrs. Consumer feels she is legally entitled to change her mind after a purchase. Sometimes she signs sales contracts without checking them and fails to realize that there is nothing to prevent "overcharging" in most commodities.
She may fall for personal appeals, fail to check the reputation of businessmen, be trapped into so-called "free" offers and take at face value claims of "lowest prices in town" and the like.

New Bridge At Murray River

The new bridge, replacing the former narrow one, is 115 feet long, 24-foot roadway and 5 foot sidewalk. The span of this bridge is considerably shorter than the 200 feet of the former one owing to the building out of the approaches at both ends. It has a crossroad pile understructure, steel girders and cement top.
The new bridge removes a hazardous bottleneck existing with the former one, and will do much to speed traffic not only within the community but also on all transportation moving north and south, particularly from the whole county to the Wood Islands Ferry.

N.S. C.C.F. Party Tells Strategy

HALIFAX (CP) — The provincial CCF party said Monday it will fight for more benefits from mineral resources during the forthcoming session of the Nova Scotia legislature.
A party statement said the CCF would ask for higher royalties on unprocessed minerals being exported from the province because "some of the mineral wealth... is being taken out at an alarming rate with little or no benefit to the people of Nova Scotia."
The statement quoted provincial CCF leader Michael Macdonald as saying this subject would become an issue during the next provincial election.
The "drop-in-the-bucket" royalties imposed on gypsum "amount almost to a giveaway of one of our most plentiful and valuable resources."

Pope Outlines Catholic Views On Labor Relations

VATICAN CITY Reuters — The Pope Saturday outlined the Roman Catholic Church's views on human relations in industry to 200 Western European industrialists, labor union leaders and social scientists at the first international meeting ever held to study means of improving these relations in Europe.
He told them that the Catholic church believe employers and workers should "under each other mutual service" and added that work causes employers to have an "engagement" toward the workers "because it requires of the workers the better part of their time and their energies."
"It is not therefore simply a worker who is hired and whose work is bought," he said. "It is a man, a member of the human society, who collaborates for the good of this society in the industry in question."
"Each man represents a transcendent and absolute value, because the author of human nature has given him an immortal soul."

Fancy Dress Carnival Held At Montague Rink Last Night

A large crowd attended the annual carnival sponsored by the Nursery Club of the Kings County Hospital held at the Montague rink last night.
Not only the little kiddies, but the grownups as well were dressed in all sorts of outlandish costumes to add interest and color to this ever-popular carnival. The task of the judges was a difficult one, to choose the best from the many excellent ones, a task not at all lessened by the many original costumes which were difficult to classify. Altogether it was perhaps the most successful carnival held here.
The results of the judging are as follows:
Girls under 8 years — 1. Lois Wannamaker, Valentine; 2. Joanne and Janice White, Dutch twins.
Boys under 8 years — 1. Bruce Wannamaker, Pumpkin Head; 2. Ken Campbell and Cecil Fraser, babies.
Girls 8-12 — 1. Patsy Sinclair, scarecrow; 2. Marion Clark, Queen of Hearts.
Boys 8-12 — 1. Donald Hennigar, duck hunter; 2. Arthur Hewitt, Davy Crockett.
Boys 13-16 — 1. George Beck, inside-out.
Teenage girls — 1. Ethel Irving and Devona Hewitt, ghosts.
Teenage boys — 1. John MacKinnon, Aunt Jemima.
Women — 1. Mrs. Peter Sinclair and Mrs. James Cudmore, Grandmas and Grandpas retiring; 2. Ruth MacLeod, Indian princess.
Most original — Olga Hennigar, pop bottle.
Best pair under 12 years — Elaine and Ken Docherty, King and Queen of Hearts.
Winner of the door prize, Richard Collings.
Judges, Mrs. Archie Hume, Mrs. Lloyd Marshall, Mrs. Ethan Stewart.

Spokesmen For Auto, Steel Industries Clash At Hearing

OTTAWA (CP) — Spokesmen for auto and steel industries clashed before the tariff board Monday as the board opened a detailed study of the steel industry's requests for higher tariffs.
James Dykes of Toronto, manager of the Canadian Automobile Chamber of Commerce, suggested the steel industry wants higher tariffs to force the entire Canadian community to bear the cost of high wages to steel workers and so avoid the difficulties of strikes and plant shutdowns.
Harry E. Stipe of Hamilton, general sales manager of the Steel Company of Canada, immediately denied the charge.
Harry Weisglass of Toronto, spokesman for the United Steelworkers of America (U.S.W.A.), interjected that the steel industry, without higher tariffs, is able and should pay as high a wage to Canadian steel workers as that paid to steel workers in the United States.
But, if the steel industry needs subsidies to give its workers living standards equal to those of American workers, the subsidies should be borne by the entire country.
QUESTIONS ARGUMENT
To this, F. J. Ledue, tariff board vice-chairman, asked why U.S. standards had to be brought into the situation.
"I'm a Canadian," he said. "Why go to the U.S?"
Mr. Weisglass said there is LONDON (CP) — More than 2,700 new schools were built in Britain between 1945 and October, 1955, say education officials.
