ANTIGONISH, N.S., July 31—(CP)—Msgr. M. M. Coady, Canada's giant of adult education, was presented today with a bound symposium of tributes from American individuals and groups.

Stooped and gray from a recent illness, the Catholic Monsignor was without words as he received the collection from Benson Y. Landis, research secretary of the Federal Council Churches of Christ, a Protestant organization.

It was an example of gratitude to the 70-year-old priest, teacher, orator, philosopher and author whose plan for economic co-operation and social betterment made him famous far beyond Canada's boundaries.

The volume, brainchild of E.R. Bowen of the Co-operative League of the United States, included signatures from virtually all American co-operative, adult education, rural life, agriculture and university groups.

He retired as director of extension for St. Francis Xavier University here early this year.

Conference On Education Concluded

The conference of Ministers of Education and their Deputies from the four Atlantic Provinces, which began on Wednesday evening, was closed yesterday at the Charlottetown Hotel, Dr. J. W. Brittain, Minister of Education for New Brunswick acted as chairman.

The purpose of the conference was to exchange views on matters of common interest in the field of education. One problem which received careful consideration was that of the increasing cost of providing education for the deaf and blind.

A second topic which received attention was that of the variation in the number of grades required for the completion of High School. The present policy and the views of the several Provinces were discussed fully and should be helpful to all concerned.

Other matters receiving attention were curriculum revision, text book costs and teacher supply. Before adjournment, the opinion was expressed that the conference had been a most helpful one and that consideration should be given to holding similar meetings in the near future.

Escaped Monkey Is Recaptured

WOODSTOCK, N. B., July 31—(CP)—Love couldn't find a way but curiously recaptured an escaped prisoner here.

Jocko, a monkey employed by a traveling show, is back at work after three days of liberty during which he gave several spectacular displays of free-style gymnastics on local rooftops.

Yesterday his mate was brought out to try to lure him back to the family hearth. Jocko pretended he didn't know her at all. Today his roving eye was taken by the shiny gadget of a plumbing shop.

When he slipped in for a closer look, someone slammed the window behind him and threw a blanket over his head. It was curtains for Jocko's freedom.

Transport Minister

Continued from page 1 emphasis was placed by the speakers on the necessity for the extension of the runways at the airport as the development of the Maritime Central Airways has been restricted because of the inadequacy of existing facilities. It was pointed out that the future economical development of the Province is restrained because of the fact that the larger aircraft of world-girdling lines cannot land here.

Mayor Stewart stressed that the people here had no objections to the development of the St. Lawrence Seaway project, expected to be so helpful to the Central Provinces, but did expand on the need for agricultural development here which would be aided by the proposed airport improvements.

Hon. Mr. Chevrier in speaking to the meeting was particularly emphatic on the subject of the operation of the Maritime Central Airways by Mr. Carl Burke who founded the company. He said it was now the third largest independent operator of aircraft in Canada. The speaker said his department had done much in the past to assist the company and would continue to do everything possible in the future.

The Federal Transport Minister is scheduled to leave here this morning as change in plans forced the hasty meeting held last night and compelled him to return to the Capital from his brief tour of the Maritime Provinces.

Nationalist

Dr. Liu not withdrawing from the Red Cross itself, he felt the conference had been a failure. The conference also heard from Paul Ruegger, president of the I. C. R. C., a strong rejoinder to yesterday's attacks upon the body he heads. The attacks had "strained the patience of the delegates to the utmost."

He outlined the traditional position of the I. C. R. C. as "the guardian of Red Cross principles." Those who have attacked the Red Cross "have left no stone unturned in trying to oppose the work of the Red Cross," and have tried to split it by attacking, "one by one, the component parts of the Red Cross to destroy it."

In movies, interviews and letters from prisoners of war of the charges the Soviet bloc has made against the "foreign aggressor" in Korea.

The conference showed no interest in the offer. The Chinese delegation so far had made no effort physically to bring such information before delegates, despite extensive mimeographing and other facilities, and has been difficult to approach by the press.

Pelletier as first officer, is expected to carry 100 cords of pulpwood to Chandler, Que., for the Canadian-Anglo Pulp Co. 13 Injured When Ceiling Collapses

AUSTIN, Tex., July 31—(AP)—A big section of plaster ceiling collapsed in the Old Queen Theatre today, injuring 13 of a young audience that had come to see a Tarzan thriller.

Three were hurt seriously. Police said a tragedy was averted only because the theatre had not had time to get a full crowd.

The ceiling fell six minutes after the theatre began its first show of the day. Panic-stricken youngsters—most of them 6 to 15—rushed from the theatre. Three children had to be dug out.

Mr. Alfred Saxon, ticket seller, said approximately 125 persons had entered the theatre when a section of ceiling approximately 30 by 40 feet pulled loose near the centre of the building.

Children ran screaming from the theatre, crying "The roof fell in."

Duck Hunting

J. M. MacLennan of the Canadian Wildlife Service said the breeding population of waterfowl in Saskatchewan is larger this year than in any other. Surveys indicated a 25 per cent increase in Manitoba, Alberta and British Columbia.

The population in Western Canada was about the same as a year ago. He declined to estimate Canada's over-all waterfowl population.

Mr. MacLennan said there is justification for lengthening the seasons in Western Canada and increasing the bag limit in Saskatchewan.

Saskatchewan will have a 69-day open season compared with 69 last year. The daily bag limit will be increased to 10 from eight.

The Manitoba season will be extended to 56 1-2 days from 51 1-2; Alberta to 67 days from 60 and British Columbia to 66 days from 60.

The daily bag limit for ducks in Manitoba, Alberta and British Columbia will remain at eight. In other provinces not more than seven ducks may be taken in one day. No more than five geese may be taken daily in any province.

Hunters in Labrador and residents of the Northwest Territories and the Yukon may take 25 ducks a day.

The Northwest Territories will have a 45-day season, the shortest for any part of Canada but unchanged from last year. The Yukon, with 61 days, will have the same length of season as in 1951. Newfoundland will have 55 days and the Maritime Provinces, Quebec and Ontario 57 days.

Hips Emphasized In Latest Styles

LONDON—(Reuters)—A slender tube-like silhouette, broken by huge sashes swathed around the hips and dropping from large knots in loose panels, was featured in recent fashion shows.

Almost every after-six dress, as well as many daytime dresses, shown today by Matelli had his hip-draped effect, ending either in a large knot or a floppy bow suggesting the Victorian bustle.

A black-velvet, ray dress with applied lace motifs had the ends of which swept round the hips to form a flying panel at the side. A long bare-top black velvet evening dress was swathed in violet gauze, which poked out in front and formed a real bustle at the centre back.

Hardy Ames, who made many of the suits and day dresses which the Queen, as Princess Elizabeth, wore during her Canadian tour last year, also concentrated interest on the hips in the suits for which he is famous.

To an otherwise slim silhouette—even pleated skirts fell flat and straight—he gave a rounded hip line by means of stiffened jacket basques and large standaway pockets.

He also took original action with the waistline, introducing a new high effect.

The Christian Church Parsonage, New Glasgow, P.E.I., was the scene of a quiet wedding on Monday, June 30th, when Agnes Rollings, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edison Rollings, South Rustico, was united in marriage to Gerald Stewart Stevenson, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Stevenson of South Rustico. The ceremony was performed by Rev. M. Watterworth, under a prettily decorated altar.

The bride was becomingly attired in a dress of orchid marquisette over nylon with white accessories.

Following the ceremony the wedding party motored to Sandy's Restaurant, Marshfield, where a sumptuous dinner was served, after which the bride and groom

Canadian Pleads Innocent of Murder Of Korean Woman

WITH THE CANADIANS IN KOREA, July 30—(Delayed)—Leo Mowers, 24, of Sillery, Quebec, pleaded innocent today to a charge of murdering a Korean housewife.

Two Korean women and a Korean youth were called to give evidence when the trial opened today. They were unable to identify Mowers as either of the two soldiers who entered a house in the village of Shin Shan Rye, May 18 and killed the woman, Mrs. Lee Eye Ho.

Mowers is a member of the 1st Battalion, Princess Patricia's Light Infantry.

Another Canadian soldier, Pte. Kenneth Carleton of St. John's, Nfld., is alleged to have been Mowers' accomplice and will be tried later on a similar charge.

Mowers' defence counsel is Maj. C. H. Johnson of Ottawa.

The court heard testimony that Mowers and Carleton left their unit early May 18 to pick up a radio. A soldier said he drove them to a camp and waited for them. They returned carrying a sack and he let them out about five miles down the road.

Choi Chul Harp, one of the Korean women witnesses, said two women were drunk and one fired shots into the floor of her house. Asked if she could see either of them in court, she stated around and replied "no."

Yon Hee, the other woman, said a tall soldier chased her and another woman out of her house. She saw a short soldier playing with her child as she ran out. She, too, could not identify either of the soldiers.

Pak Won Sik, the Korean youth, said he saw the two soldiers in his village but could not identify them in court.

The case was adjourned until tomorrow (July 31).

IN MEMORIAM

MRS. LOYD INMAN

On Sunday, July 20th, the many relatives and friends of Mrs. Lloyd Inman were saddened to learn of her passing in the Charlottetown Hospital. For several months she had been ill and despite the loving care of dear ones and the tender ministrations of nurses and doctors, she gradually became worse until God called her to that dear land of rest where sickness and pain are unknown.

Mrs. Inman, formerly Elyna Howland, was the daughter of Mrs. Philip Howatt and the late Mr. Howatt and was born in Cape Traverse in 1910. She attended school there and later moved to Borden where she married Lloyd Inman and they had since resided in Borden.

She was a faithful adherent of the Church of Scotland at Cape Traverse and throughout her life exemplified the teachings of her church. During her illness, which she bore with Christian fortitude and resignation, she was never heard to complain and when she knew she must leave this earthly tabernacle, she went to meet her Saviour gladly and with complete trust in her salvation.

Of a gentle, kindly personality, she endeared herself to all who knew her. In the home, where she will be so sorely missed, she was ever a true and loving wife, and in the community, where she was highly esteemed, she was a quiet, hospitable friend and neighbour.

Besides her sorrowing husband there are left to mourn her mother, Mrs. Philip Howatt, Cape Traverse, and the following sisters and brothers: (Thelma) Mrs. Snowball Allen, Cape Tormentine, N. B.; Claude Howatt of Cape Traverse; (Marjorie) Mrs. Irving MacDonald, Borden; Clinton Howatt, Borden; (Laura) Mrs. George MacWilliams, Bedouin; (Janet) Mrs. Gerald Baxter, Toronto; and Rena, Cape Traverse.

Her funeral was held on Tuesday, July 22nd, with a short service at her home, followed by service in the Church of Scotland, Cape Traverse, conducted by her pastor, Rev. J. H. Bishop, assisted by Rev. W. G. Killam of Tryon Baptist Church.

The hymns sung were Psalm 23, "The Lord Is My Shepherd," and Paraphrase 43, "Glorious Must Hear My Voice." No music. The text was from Psalm 46:1. God our Refuge and our Strength, a very present help in trouble.

Interment was in the Church of Scotland cemetery, Cape Traverse, at the grave of the late Mrs. MacWilliams, Snowball, Allen, Norman MacWilliams, and D.A. MacCannell.

All of us are acquainted with the popular story of the groundhog coming out of hibernation on the second of February. If he sees his shadow, he goes back to his den for another sleep, and we have six weeks more of winter. The story is a myth. The truth of the matter is that the groundhog sometimes emerges from his winter quarters the first week in February, providing the weather is warm and fine.

Canadian Poet And Writer Dies

ST. ALEXANDRE DE KAMOURASSKA, Que., July 31—(CP)—Charles E. Harpe, French-speaking Canadian poet and writer, died last night as the curtain fell on an historical page he had written.

Actors taking part in the scenic drama, staged in connection with celebrations marking the centenary of this lower St.-Lawrence village, found the 43-year-old writer unconscious in the wings of the theatre. A physician pronounced him dead.

Mr. Harpe was the author of a page play performed annually at St. Jean Port Joli, in neighboring L'Islet County.

His work was well known through the lower St. Lawrence regions.

Among his books are "Le Jongleur Aux Etolles" and "Les Oiseaux Dans La Brume."
