

Encyclical.

THE POPE ON MODERN ERROR.

It is said that the Pope, in his recently issued Encyclical, inveighs against Socialism, Communism and Nihilism, "which militate no longer secretly, but openly, against the civil state, rupturing the matrimonial tie, ignoring the rights of property, claiming everything, however legally inherited or honestly acquired, and attempting even the lives of kings. These sinister agencies spring from the reform which opened the sluice gates of scepticism, till godless governments have arisen, wherein the youth are trained to believe man's destinies are bounded for the present and without any hereafter. Hence the impatient and aggressive spirit which seeks its gratification at others' expense. Thus the natural development of reformation was indicated by previous pontiffs from Clement XII. to Pius IX. in their allocutions and encyclicals, but the church warning is more than ever required. Equality desiderated by sects is contrary to Scripture; there are distinctions between angels in heaven, a fortiori must there have been distinctions between men upon earth. When tyranny prevails then the Church shields the oppressed. When the tyrant is too strong she enjoins resignation. The Pope justifies Christian marriage and the subservience of woman to man, of child to parent, and of servant to master. Such dependence rightly observed in the State and in the family would operate on earth as it does in heaven. Poverty, of which Socialism is impatient, is corrected by the Church, which, besides her own charities, enjoins almsgiving on the rich, to whom she thus reconciles the poor. Such is the solution of the evils for which Socialism seeks a revolutionary remedy. Let, therefore, all the principalities and powers accept the Church as a safeguard of earthly and a surety of heavenly things."

Richard Hartman, of Chemnitz, "the king of the Saxon machinists," has just died at the age of sixty-nine. He began life as a tool-maker, being a journeyman in 1830. In 1837 he set up as a manufacturer of cotton-spinning machinery; in 1847 he added a locomotive factory to his establishment, and in 1855 he undertook the manufacture of mining and boring machinery, engineering tools, etc. By 1869 his workshops were fifty in number, and he employed 2,600 men. Ever restlessly striving to develop his business, Herr Hartman acquired for his productions a world-wide reputation, and his industrial activity caused him to be justly regarded in manufacturing circles as one of the wonders of the present century. In 1872 he sold his works to a joint stock company, since which time they have been known as the "Saxon Machine Factory;" but up to the time of his death he took an active interest in the affairs of the concern.
