THE DAILY EXAMINER.

APRIL 4. 1893.

No Analogy.

THERE is no analogy between the case mentioned by the Patriot and the case of our Dominion officials. The British Parliament may, of course, make regulations in respect to the conduct of British officials. The Dominion Parliament may do the same in respect to Dominion officials. If the Dominion Parliament were to enact that Dominion officials, hereafter to be appointed, shall not possess the franchise or take any part in politics, it would be acting within its right. More than that, the officials of the future would have no cause to complain, for their loss of franchise would be conditional upon their acceptance of office. But such an enactment would be widely different from that which is proposed by the Peters' Combination. It is proposed by Mr. Peters to take away from the Dominion officials a right which they already possess, in open and flagrant violation of the principle "Once a voter always a voter." It is proposed to deprive the Dominion officials of a privilege which they hold and have exercised. It is proposed to rob them of one of their dearest civil rights. By whom is this outrage to be perpetrated? Not by the Dominion Parliament, which has the right to regulate the conduct of Dominion officials, but by the Provincial Legislature, which has over them no control at all! Mr. Peters has, in his private capacity, as much right to impose restrictions upon the actions of the servants of the Lieutenant-Governor or the Administrator of the Government, as he has, in his public capacity, to impose restrictions upon the actions of the public servants of the Dominion of Canada. The rascality of the proposed confiscation will be the more clearly seen by reversing the positions. Suppose that the Dominion Parliament were to enact that all the Provincial officials in all the Provinces of Canada should be disfranchised,—suppose that Sir Oliver Mowat, Mr. Blair, Mr. Fielding and all the other Provincial Premiers and all their subordinate officials were to be robbed of all their votes by an act of the Dominion Parliament, would not Mr. Peters be one of the first to "cry havoc and let slip the dogs of war"—would not the whole country exclaim against the act of spoliation and robbery which had been committed? Yet, it will be admitted, the Dominion Parliament has as much right to disfranchise Provincial officials as the Pro-Legislature has to disfranchise Dominion officials.

Too Much Honor.

THE Pioneer says that "Ferguson is again to the front." Not content with "running" the Opposition in the Legislature, promoting and conducting all the indignation meetings held throughout the country, editing THE EXAMINER, keeping an eye upon the Stock Farm, managing his own business, and continually badgering Premier Peters, Mr. Ferguson has, according to the Pioneer, taken the esteemed Superintendent of the P. E Island Railway by the throat—literally "compelled Unsworth to allow him to canvass the employes." More than that, "Ferguson again approaches Unsworth and compels him to head the (officials') petition." Extraordinary man—"that man Ferguson." The railway men dare not disobey him. "Even Unsworth was forced to be party to a conspiracy against which his whole nature must have revolted." We entertain the highest respect for Mr. Ferguson's character and ability. But we incline to the opinion that the Pioneer does him too much honor. What are the facts? Mr. Peters and his fellow confiscators contended that the railway men and other Government officials wanted to be disfranchised,—and the officials' reply to that statement is the petition and protest which has been laid before the Legislature. The attempt of the Pioneer to get the Government out of its fix, while it shouts "Ferguson did it," "Ferguson again to the front," is perhaps praiseworthy from the party point of view. But it won't do. Mr. Ferguson is an active and energetic man. But the Pioneer puts too severe a strain upon the credulity of the people when it asks them to believe that he is able to compel the Dominion officials to do that against which "their nature must have revolted." The petition and protest of the officials is the most natural as it is the most proper thing in the world—and the Pioneer's declaration that Mr. Ferguson compelled them to sign it is merely insulting. As to Mr. Unsworth, he is a gentleman, resident in Charlottetown and owning property here. He does not wish to be levelled down to the political condition of a Russian serf, and he has the British manliness to say so. If he be a Liberal—as the Pioneer asserts—he cannot but abhor, on principle, the retrograde and high Tory legislation which has been brought forward by Mr. Premier Peters.

—If our esteemed correspondent "Shawmut" will but refer to the article which he criticises, he will see that THE EXAMINER did not propose to "give up" breeding the trotter but to engage more largely in the production of first-class carriage and saddle horses.

Provincial Legislature.

House of Assembly.

SUMMARY OF PROCEEDINGS.

MONDAY, April 3.

Dr. Jenkins submitted a bill to amend the Charlottetown Incorporation Act. The bill was read a first time.

The bill to regulate the sale of opium and other drugs was read a third time and passed.

The bill to incorporate the Murray Harbor North Dairying Company was read a third time and passed.

The bill to incorporate the New Perth Hall Company was read a third time and passed.

The bill to incorprate the Dunk River Cheese Factory Company was read a third time and passed.

Banquet to Judge McLeod.

MEMBERS of the Legislature united, last evening—united cordially—to do honor to Judge McLeod, and to express their high appreciation of his good qualities. The Leader of the Government presided, with the guest of the evening, Hon. D Gordon and Mr. Rogers on his right, and Mr. Speaker McLellan, Lt.-Col. Irving and Hon. Mr. Kickham on his left. The Leader of the Opposition acted as Vice Chairman. Honorable gentlemen were not ranged opposite and against each other as usual; but the strongest opponents in the Legislature were seated close together and occupied in mutually pleasing conversation, while they partook of the choicest viands—including strawberries and cream—that could be procured by Mine Host of the Hotel Davies. To see the editor of the Patriot seated in the midst of the best and strongest Liberal-Conservatives in the country, and apparently enjoying it, one would almost be persuaded that Millenial Day had dawned. Great, indeed, must be the bon homie of Judge McLeod, seeing that the desire to do honor to him could be productive of such results. As to the good things provided by Mr. and Mrs. Davies, it is sufficient to quote the following

The following is a list of the toasts with those who spoke to them:

TOASTS.

1. The Queen.
2. The Governor-General—Hon. Mr. Gordon.
3. The President of the United States—Dr. J. T. Jenkins, Hon. D. Farquharson.
4. The Lieutenant-Governor — Mr. D. Rogers, Hon. Mr. Kickham.
5. The Administrator of the Government—Hon. Mr. McLellan.
6. The Parliament of Canada—Hon. Mr. Sinclair, Hon. Mr. Campbell.
7. The Legislature of the Province—Hon. B. Rogers, Mr. Bell, Mr. McKay.
8. Our Guest, proposed by Mr. Bentley and seconded by Hon. F. Peters—Judge McLeod.
9. The Bench and Bar—Mr. Warburton, Mr. H. C. Macdonald.
10. The Press—Mr. Laird, Mr. Cotton.
11. The Ladies—Mr. Underhay, Hon. Mr. Richards.
12. The Officials of the House—Mr. McNeil
13. The Agricultural Interests of P. E. Island—Mr. Shaw and Mr. Scrimegeour.
14. Our Artisans—Hon. Mr. McMillan, Mr McKay.
15. Our Host and Hostess—Mr. J. J. Davies.

On the whole, the speeches were above the standard of such occasions. Judge McLeod acknowledged, in fitting terms, the great and unexpected honor, which had been done him Grits and Tories all agreed to speak good of the country, of each other, and especially of the esteemed guest of the evening. Great credit is due to the committee of management whose kindly efforts resulted so satisfactorily to all concerned.

Personal.

Mr. W. H. Batt returned from England to-day.

Captain W. H. Barnard has the thanks of THE EXAMINER late Port of Spain, Trinidad, papers.

Mr. John Trainor, for several years in the employ of James Patton & Co., left last evening for Chicago. He will be joined in Moncton by Mr. P. A. McIntyre, who for many years past has been in the employ of Dodd & Rogers, and who leaves here for Chicago this evening. Both young men have many friends in Charlottetown, by whom their departure is regretted. THE EXAMINER wishes them success in their new home.

Special sale of mats, rugs, etc.—To morrow (Wednesday) we will offer 100 mats at a bargain. This lot must be cleared to make room for others expected here in a few days. Come one, come all and see what we can do for you in the house furnishings line.—James Paton & Co.

TELEGRAPHIC NEWS.

SPECIAL DESPATCHES TO THE EXAMINER.

A Dangerous Derilict.

BOSTON, April 4.

Captain Lampe, of the steamer George Dumois, from Gibraltar, reports that on March 28th, in lat. 26 north, lon. 74 west, he passed the wreck of a three-masted schooner, her decks painted black, apparently 300 tons register, directly in the track of vessels and a dangerous obstruction to navigation.

Fatal Fire.

VIENNA, April 4.

Ninety houses in Klein, Pocahtarn, on the Danube, were burned yesterday. Fifteen dead bodies were removed from the ruins and twelve more are known to be under the ashes.

Conservative Nomination.

REGAUD, April 4.

At the Conservative Convention here yesterday, J. A. Chevrier was nominated to contest Vaudreuil for the House of Commons.

At The Lyceum.

EASTER CLOSING OF MISS RUSSELL'S SCHOOL FOR GIRLS.

If the Lyceum was not filled to the doors last night, those who could have been there but were absent, have most to regret. The cry against Charlottetown entertainments is always their sameness, and it is unfortunate that when, as last night, something out of the ordinary and of merit is presented, our people do not turn out en masse to enjoy it. The goodly audience which listened with delight to the two cantatas performed by Miss Russell's pupils, enjoyed an evening of pleasure and profit. Remembering that the performers were nearly all little Misses or children, and that the class of music was of no mean order, the greatest praise must be deservedly given to all. No one was conspicuous for her faults. All gave evidence of careful training, and many excelled. In the "Garden of Singing Flowers," Mr. J. Lewis, as the man in the moon, carried off the palm in his happy local hits, and the pretty, melodious cantata was brought to a close by a chorus, during the singing of which colored lights were thrown upon the performers with good effect. Miss Enid McLean was the next attraction, and in her recitation held the audience in rapt attention and evoked a hearty demonstration of favor. The second part of the programme consisted of "The Dress Rehearsal," performed for the first time here and performed well." Miss Russell acted the part of the olden time school principal with becoming dignity and was ably supported by Miss Winnie Cotton as a teacher of elocution (who had once performed the role of Juliet) by Miss Annie Hyndman, as French governess, and by the Misses Earle and Miss Stewart who played their parts of Cindrella and her sisters with much spirit and vigor. Miss Carrie Hall as Fairy God Mother and Miss Beatrice Hall as the Prince were not excelled by their companions in the performance of their parts, while the former sang her principal song in a sweet voice with gracefulness. Miss Annie Hyndman's song "What Is Love" was undoubtedly the gem of the piece, and was, of course, encored by the appreciative audience, who were also much pleased with the excellent animated trio of the disputing sisters. Sarah Ann enlivened matters by her frequent allusions to things edible, and the whole play sparkled with wit and amusing situations throughout. Everything went smoothly and the evening was an emphatic success. Mr. Earle, it is needless to say, was master of the situation at the piano, and with Miss Russel shares fullest praise for the creditable production of last evening. If there was one fault to be found it was that the dialogue was not always as well heard as could have been desired; but this would appear to be as much the fault of the acoustics of the place as of the performers. Next time, ladies, speak more deliberately and louder, for your reputation is now secured, and your next appearance in public will be hailed with delight.

Address and Presentation.

A number of the friends of Mr. Peter McIntyre, for many years book-keeper at Messrs. Dodd & Rogers, have presented him, on the eve of his departure from the Province, with a gold watch chain and the following

ADDRESS:

To MR. PETER MCINTYRE, City.

DEAR SIR,—Learning that you are soon to leave this Province to make your home in a distant land, we, the undersigned, feel that we cannot allow you to depart from amongst us without giving expression to our high appreciation of you as a fellow boarder, a citizen and a gentleman.

Having had many opportunities during a number of years past of forming an opinion of you, we desire to say that, under the many phases of life in which we have seen you, we have always found you the same,—cheerful, courteous and obliging,—and we fell that in your departure from the land of your birth Prince Edward Island will lose one of its most upright and honorable sons.

With your capabilities and unsullied character, which you carry away with you, we doubt not you will continue to give a good account of yourself in the land of your adoption, wherever it may be.

In now wishing you God-speed, we desire to say that, while we feel sure that the business house with which you have been so long and so honorably connected must suffer a loss in parting with your services here, the house which may secure your services abroad will be fortunate indeed.

We ask your acceptance of the accompanying small token of our esteem, coupled with our best wishes for your future welfare.
