Upsets Feature Play In Maritime Golf Tourney

DARTMOUTH, N. S., Aug. 5 (CP)—Roy Morrison, a free-swinging schoolteacher from Moncton, N. B., today shot a three-over-par 71 to consolidate his lead at the end of the second day of the Maritime golf championships here.

Continuing the brilliant form he displayed Monday in winning the medal play Morrison knocked out Bill Beer of Charlottetown and Eric Coulter, Dartmouth, N. S., to gain the quarter final.

Nova Scotia champion Eddie Crowell, Halifax, playing sensational golf, defeated A. W. Carter, Dartmouth, one up after a battle in the second round of championship play.

It was a day of upsets. Lorne Smith, another tournament favorite, went down to defeat two and one at the hands of Lou Beatty, Woodstock, N. B., former New Brunswick-Prince Edward Island Willingdon Cup member. Beatty, who also eliminated Jim Chase of Dartmouth, meets Crowell tomorrow.

In professional play, Halifax's Kaz Zabezski shot a 70 for a two-round total of 141, in second place are Pete Shymko, Truro, and Bob Sandow, New Glasgow.

Marcel Desjardins, of Sydney's Langan Club, away out of usual form, lagged with a 78 for a total of 156. He's in fourth place.

Laurie Nightingale, an unheralded Halifax shotmaker, disposed of pre-tournament favourite Ralph Harley, Moncton, three and two in a startling upset. Nightingale later eliminated Ray LeHurey of Truro to gain the quarter-finals.

In other matches R. J. Foley, Dartmouth, defeated Bob (Lugs) Rae and Harold Morash. Rex Joudrey, Dartmouth, also won two matches, defeating Graham Murray, Dartmouth and W. Hutchinson, Woodstock. Clarence O'Hearn ousted Ed Levy and R. P. Foley, Dartmouth.

Mrs. Bishop had been seeded third. Later Stacey, playing with Mary Chipman, Halifax, another junior star, trounced the second-seeded women's doubles team of Mrs. Evtst Bishop and Mrs. Clyde Myers, Halifax, 6-4, 6-2.

The men's singles favorites all scored wins to reach the quarter-final. Syd Bartlett, Bill Pope, of Halifax; Dr. Phil Cole, Hubbards, Gordon Hughes, Windsor, Fred Fennell, Montreal, and Bob Bedard, Sherbrooke, Que., all won their matches easily. # Ring Reminiscences

— Fights and Fighters —
(By James Fendergast)

There is a legend among old timers that germ polluted river water will cleanse and purify itself in a few miles of its course. I would be skeptical. Four large rivers, the Hootalingua, Pelly, Stewart and Klondike come into the Yukon on the right bank. The high water mark comes early in July when the snow melts in the mountains at the sources of the tributaries. The river runs about 26 feet higher for a week or ten days during its flood time.

Discovery Of The Klondike
In the 1880's and early 1890's the rich place diggings of California and the Cariboo and Cassiar districts of British Columbia were getting pretty well worked out, and gold seeking adventurers looked to more remote places. The general consensus among prospectors was that there was gold in Alaska, but only the most venturesome and resourceful could consider the trip into the inhospitable and comparatively unknown land. It was supposed to be almost inaccessible, except by making the long trip up the Pacific coast and through Bering Strait to the mouth of the Yukon.

The Chilcot and White Passes from Skagway across the Pacific "divide" to the headwaters of the Yukon were known only to the Indians and a few Whites at that time, nevertheless bold and ambitious spirits were converging toward what turned out to be the Eldorado of the century. Some of those intrepid explorers made the long trip around Alaska and up the Yukon, a distance of about three thousand miles as early as 1864.

They were landed from steamers at St. Michaels and proceeded up the Yukon by river steamboats operated by the A. C. Company (Alaska Commercial). They would be dropped off at the mouth of any tributary river or creek that looked promising. No doubt, they prospected many tributaries, but hadn't gotten as far as the confluence of the Klondike and Yukon before the spirit of exploration is inherent in many humans. They have a burning desire to explore hitherto inaccessible territory, climb mountains, etc. It is the same all-consuming spirit which animated Lief Ericson, Columbus, Marco Polo, Balboa and others in the middle ages and in the latter centuries, Sir John Franklin, Livingstone, Stanley, Humboldt, De La Salle and others of the same inclination. Western and Northern Canada was explored by the great Scotchmen of the Hudson Bay Co., McKenzie, Fraser, Thompson Douglas and others. Their memories are perpetuated in the names of our great Northern and Western rivers.

The boldest and bravest Argonauts began gravitating toward the hypothetical Golconda. Some forty or fifty places miners had located at Harly Mile, the name of the camp at the junction of the Forty Mile river with the Yukon. It is fifty five miles below Dawson. Forty miles below Fort McQuestin, a Hudson Bay Trading post.

They were "rocking" on the bars formed by the river during the spring freshets. They were all making a good "grubstake." A rocker is a contraption very much like an old time rocker, cradle being moved back and forth by hand by means of a vertical stick in the center. It is much faster and far less monotonous than "panning". Forty Mile is in Canadian territory. There was a recording office for claims and a Mounted Police Post.

The "Mounties" were always on hand.
