

THE DAILY EXAMINER. AUGUST 30, 1882.

THE WAR.

TO-DAY'S special despatches to THE EXAMINER give the brief account of a short battle, in which the British captured eleven guns. All along the advanced posts firing was taking place when the despatch was forwarded. Arabi still covers well his retreats, and so far, has kept himself out of traps. The light now raging may be the decisive one of the war. It will, doubtless, be the severest, and we look forward with some interest to the full accounts of the battle.

The Dublin Police Again.

THE strike has now assumed a phase which compels the Government to take repressive measures. The lessons of the strike are worth learning. Any number of men could be obtained for the force, and as men must have bread, any number of them were obtainable for very low wages. This seems to work fairly enough in easy times. But when the crisis arrives, what is more natural than that the men should strive to show their real worth? It is their only way of impressing the folly of the penny wise policy on their employers. The result may prove disastrous to the individuals themselves, but the ultimate aim cannot but be beneficial to the force. It is but another instance of the plan of vicariousness; the present suffer for the future good and development. If fair play and honest pay result from the present struggle the men may be congratulated, and the Government may learn a salutary lesson.

Gilded Discomfort.

THERE is no doubt that beauty has played an important part in the adornment of homes and of dress during the last few years. But this cultivation of the love of the beautiful has too often proved merely another name for the gratification of vanity at the cost of comfort. As soon as the element of beauty, when brought to bear on the surroundings of common life, clashes with the sterling quality of honest workmanship, and of practical value, then be sure that there is a great deal of sham and shoddy in its composition. How often it happens that personal discomfort is quite a secondary consideration to individual adornment. The love for a small and graceful shoe generally begets corns. Then notice when the mania reaches to home decoration what dreadful pranks it plays. Rugs of strange Turkish designs are strewn in unexpected places; tables and chairs gain their quality of supreme elegance at the cost of the highest fragility; the new-fangled drawing-room is to be seen, not used; the piano, or the organ, must have an imposing exterior, but the quality of the tone is a secondary consideration. All this rage for variety and external adornment gives rise to doubts in the old-fashioned mind as to whether the application of art to common life must necessarily bring about an increase of human happiness. There is but too great reason to doubt the existence of real taste wherever we see this mania, and there is every reason to suspect a vulgar display of wealth. True taste finds pleasure in things true and good, and it detests hypocrisy.

The Seat of Bacchus.

THE Toronto Globe claims that Toronto is a chosen seat of Bacchus in Canada, as that city has fifteen breweries. It has only one distillery, but that one is the largest in the Dominion and one of the largest in the world. Indeed the whole production of the distilleries in England in a recent year was 7,739,720 gallons. This Toronto concern makes about one-sixth as much as is made in all England, and to carry on operations employs about 250 men. The refuse of the distillery feeds 3,360 head of cattle, and these consume about 100,000 gallons of still daily. The capital invested in this one distillery is about $2,000,000.

Rebellion in Corea.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Aug. 28.—The steamer "Coptic," which arrived here today, brings the following advices:—Yokohama, Aug. 11.—About five o'clock in the evening of July 23rd, an organized body of insurgents took possession of the main thoroughfare in Seoul, the capital of Corea, and attacked the royal residence and headquarters of the Japanese legation. The Japanese envoy and consul escaped with about twenty followers and made their way to the palace for protection, but they found it already in possession of the rioters. They retreated to Jensen, a port fifteen miles distant, being repeatedly assailed on the way and four of the party were killed, three wounded and several are missing. The survivors reached a British surveying station in the neighborhood and sailed for Magasand. All the Japanese at Seoul have probably been slaughtered and the capital is in a state of anarchy. Of the royal inmates of the palace, the King alone was spared. The Queen was murdered. His heir and the latter's betrothed, both children, were killed by poison forcibly administered.

Obstinate King Thebaw.

The draft of the treaty negotiated between the Indian Government and the Burmese Mission has been rejected by King Thebaw, who objects to the clauses providing for the abolition of monopolies and the maintenance of an armed guard at the British Residence at Mandalay. The negotiations have finally closed, and the Burmese Mission will leave in a few days for home.

Telegraphic from the Seat of War.

LONDON, Aug. 28. A despatch from Ismailia says that Mah-moud Teheony examined at headquarters reports that much suffering and insubordination prevail in the Egyptian army. The difficulty of dragging supplies over the deep sand is very great; but few miles can be made daily. The weather is somewhat cooler and the health of the troops is excellent. The glare on the sands at noon is terrible.

A despatch to the Times from Ismailia says an officer has arrived here from the Governor of the district between Suakia and Massowah, on his way to the Khedive to declare his loyalty.

The Mohammedan High Priest held a meeting here at which several influential natives were present. The Priests abjured them to remain loyal to Arabi Pacha. The native Governor has ordered their arrest.

The Telegraph's Alexandria correspondent says: We captured a spy and handed him over to the native authorities, who tortured him with thumb screws and ordered him to be shot. He said Arabi had only a strong regiment of artillery, 20,000 cavalry and a few infantry in front of us. Signaling has been proceeding during the past few nights with Arabi but we are unable to discover who is sending the signals.

The Times' Alexandria correspondent telegraphs: Abdel Russak and four other staff officers escaped from Arabi. They were well received by the Khedive. It appears that they have been some time in communication with the Khedive, though members of General Stone's army. They were entrusted by Arabi with the defence of Tel el Kebir, but abstained from making earthworks. They escaped and went to De Lesseps and asked his assistance to get away. De Lesseps tried to dissuade them, accusing them of want of patriotism. They finally sought Rear-Admiral Heskings, who forwarded them to Alexandria.

The Times' Port Said despatch of yesterday says the steamer Calypso arrived on Saturday with 150 Turkish troops and moored inside the inner harbor, when the Monarch at once sent two armed boats, covered with a Gatling gun from the Monarch, to learn their errand. The Turks stated that they were the annual relief for Turkish garrisons at some fort on the Red Sea. During the night armed boats from the British fleet cruised around with orders to prevent the Turks from landing. The Calypso entered the Canal on Sunday morning, a steam pinnace from the Hecla accompanying her with orders to prevent disembarkation of the troops.

The Times' Ismailia correspondent says the rebel position at Tel el Kebir is very strong. There is an entrenchment right across and on both sides of the railway. The position is flanked on each side by water. Our losses Tuesday were about 50 killed and wounded, of which the cavalry lost 20 or 30 from heavy shell fire and from charging a squad of infantry. Our total force in Ismailia district, under Wolsely, is about 11,000 men, 2,500 horses and 27 guns.

The Court Circular says the Queen is greatly gratified by Wolsely's success, and has heard by telegraph with thankfulness of the Duke of Connaught's safety.

ALEXANDRIA, Aug. 28. It is stated that the British intend to cut two dykes near Meks, so as to flood a portion of the dry bed of Lake Mareotis and prevent any attack from that side.

The garrison of Meks was re-inforced to-day, in consequence of the Bedonins having formed a camp on the opposite shore of Lake Mareotis.

Nothing was done at Rameleh to-day. It is thought that the last shell from a 7-inch gun, yesterday, disabled the large gun of Arabi Pacha's battery. Arabi Pacha is reported to be at Saliehah.

PORT SAID, Aug. 28. The transport Bolivar, with commissary stores, and the Oxenholme, with royal engineers and pontoons and field telegraph, entered the canal on Sunday.

ISMAILIA, Aug. 28. When the mounted infantry charged to Mahsah, Sir Henry Havelock Allan showing the way, the enemy dashed into the lake and swam for safety. They were plied with our rifle bullets as they dived and floundered.

THE Chief, Big Bear. Big Bear, the Indian chief of whom much of the mischief-making among the tribes of the North-West has been attributed, sends a message to the Battleford Herald denying the soft impeachment. He claims that he is, and always has been, the friend of the white man, and that he never loses an opportunity of showing, by his actions, that such is the case. When stolen horses are brought to his camp, he always takes them to the police; but he is sorry that many times when their own horses had been stolen the police have not only refused to help them, but have hidden them make up their losses by stealing from others. He thinks this is bad advice, and is given because the whites want to have them killed off. He says he has always resisted the seductive inducement offered by American traders, Louis Riel and others to foment trouble, and he would like to receive due credit therefor.

MONEY MADE WITH SMALL CAPITAL. The Mutual Co-operative Funds are established and paying handsome monthly dividends. Fund W has given great satisfaction to its shareholders and returned during the past thirteen months many times the original investment. It is managed and operated by the established Commission House of Flemming & Merriam, Chicago, with uniform success. TELEGRAPHIC NEWS.

A Battle at Kassasin.

Eleven Guns Captured.

Arabi on the Field.

Governor of Alexandria Poisoned.

A Big Battle Going On

Special to the Examiner.

ALEXANDRIA, Aug. 30. Arabs attacked the British positions at Kassasin between Maxima and Tel-el-Kebir on Monday night. The fighting was long and continued, our men firing steadily and surely. The enemy were repulsed with heavy loss, the full particulars of which have not yet arrived. Our own losses were eight killed and sixty-one wounded. Eleven guns were also captured. Arabi was on the field during the action, and was riding from part to part, urging his men forward.

Toulba Pacha, formerly Governor of Alexandria, has succumbed to the ordinary Eastern method of getting rid of persons—namely that of poisoning.

A large force of Egyptians is now approaching the advanced British lines. The British forces are being hurriedly sent up to the front, and the call has sounded for the attack. One of the most decisive battles of the campaign is expected, and it is expected to be one of the severest. Firing began from the outposts at dark on Monday evening, and was carried on briskly by both parties in the fray. The fight covers a great deal of ground, and it is difficult at present, to get fuller particulars.

The Greek Meets Turk—Siberian Plague in Russia—The Rebellion in Corea—Illness of Prince Leopold and of the Archbishop of Canterbury.

Special Despatch to the Examiner.

LONDON, Aug. 30. Severe fighting has occurred between the Turkish and the Grecian troops along the Greek frontier.

The Siberian plague is raging to a fearful extent among the peasantry of Russia. The uncle of the King is leader of the rebels in Corea. He has seized the throne by force, and has a large number of adherents.

Prince Leopold is announced as being seriously ill from the effects of hemorrhage. The worst symptoms in the illness of the Archbishop of Canterbury have abated, and now hopes are entertained of his recovery.

The Police Trouble in Ireland.

Special Despatch to the Examiner.

DUBLIN, Aug. 30. The Constabulary question in Ireland has reached a crisis. The demoralization among the men is extreme, and it is rumored that the Government will stop telegrams between the members of the force.

Murder of a Noted Kafir.

Special Despatch to the Examiner.

LONDON, Aug. 30. News has been received here that Scoconi the noted Kafir Chief, has been treacherously murdered.

The Murder near Ottawa

Special Despatch to the Examiner.

MONTREAL, Aug. 30. The Coroner's Jury, which sat on the murder case of McAffery, who was murdered near Ottawa, found Maria [Spearmen] guilty of murder. There is some little sympathy with the murderer on account of the condition of the woman. She says that McAffery is the father of the expected child, and that the hearing of the intended marriage of McAffery with another woman maddened her to commit the fearful deed.

GENERAL CABLE NEWS.

LONDON, Aug. 28. The Archbishop of Canterbury is suffering from fever accompanied by congestion of the lungs. The latest bulletin says he remains in much the same state, but has had some quiet sleep and has not lost ground.

LONDON, Aug. 28. Great fears are entertained regarding the condition of the Archbishop of Canterbury, in consequence of his continued serious prostration.

LIMERICK, Aug. 28. The constabulary held a meeting on Saturday, at the police barracks, most of the constables deserting their beats to attend. Telegrams were forwarded to the other towns asking their support. A memorial was forwarded to Earl Spencer, to which a reply is awaited.

There have been thirty resignations from the constabulary in consequence of the dismissal of five sub-constables. The inspector general made an attempt to address the men who resigned, but they refused to listen to him. The city is without the usual police on the beat to-night.

The dismissed constables were loudly cheered as they quitted the barracks. The funeral of Charles J. Kickham, the Fenian, took place yesterday. Ten thousand persons accompanied the remains from his late residence at Black Rock to King's Bridge depot, whence the body was conveyed to Tipperary. Several ex-Fenian prisoners and Messrs. Dillon, Sexton and Healy, members of Parliament, were present.

DUBLIN, Aug. 28. The agitation among the Metropolitan police has subsided, they being satisfied by the assurances of the chief commissioner and of Lord Spencer, who promised that an inquiry should be made into their grievances.

Personal.

WILKIE COLLIER is paying the penalty so many writers have incurred for trespassing upon the capacity of that most useful but delicate and sensitive, and at the same time most absurd, organ of the whole human anatomy—the eye. His sight is failing, and he can no longer read or write. He is dependent upon an amanuensis.

FREEMAN, the historian, in the "Fortnightly," records his opinions of America and Americans. He declines to consider his trans-Atlantic cousins as foreigners, but says them as Englishmen and friends, and says they used him with great kindness. He found some educated men so ignorant of British geography as not to know the location of English counties, which ignorance Mr. Freeman does not feel like excusing. He claims that it is much worse for Americans not to know England than for England not to know America, as all American history dates back to the mother country, while British history is not mixed with American so as to be inseparable.

[ADVERTISEMENT.]

To the Editor of the Examiner. DEAR SIR,—In your issue of yesterday a "one insertion advertisement" appears, with the intention of injuring the "Mutual Provident Association of Canada," which I represent. We are, at all times, only too willing to answer satisfactorily any question propounded; but must take serious exception to the harsh, unkind, and unbecomingly indulgent by rival companies. We claim for our Association—

- 1st, A very low rate of premium. 2nd, An assurance that any death claim will not be fought out in the Courts. 3rd, References from the leading men of the Dominion. 4th, Permanency on account of its mutual characteristics.

The Association is willing to take the opinions of unprejudiced persons as to its solidity, but must refrain from accepting the "ipse dixit" of venal and desperate opponents.

"Old-time" Insurance Companies (such as Insurance Company papers of plant), banks, and other institutions have gone under—yet, we consider our system superior, and destined to exist.

We allow the man of limited means an opportunity of providing for his family in event of death—an advantage denied him by the "old-fashioned companies," on account of their excessively high premiums.

Similar companies have existed and still flourish in Europe and the United States, and their great advantage none can deny. We do not accumulate a surplus from our patrons for the purpose of building magnificent offices, and paying exorbitant salaries to officials.—Our expenditure is small, as we wish the benefit to be enjoyed by the insured.

The homely adage, "Every tub should stand on its own bottom," is applicable in this case. The numerous merchants, public and professional men, and even agents of high-rate Insurance Companies, who have taken risks in this Association, should convince every unprejudiced person that the "Irrelevant Mutual Association of Canada" surpasses, by far, every rival organization. We do not traduce other legitimate Insurance Companies; but, strictly minding our own business, allow an intelligent public to institute comparisons.

The cowardly manner in which our traducers avoid meeting agents of this Association, and their unwillingness to be educated, justify the conclusion that their opposition is merely factious and unprincipled.

I reluctantly appear in your columns, but consider it unwise to allow such an unprovoked attack to go unchallenged.

As anonymous writers are legion, I may say that I will not notice any communication unless signed by the bona fide name of the writer.

I am, truly yours, THOMAS CHAPPELLE, Agent of the President Mutual Association of Canada. Charlottetown, August 30—li
