OUR BOARDING HOUSE

Major Hoople

Major Hoople is a character in a cartoon strip. He is depicted as a man in a military-style uniform, sitting at a table in a boarding house. He is engaged in conversation with another man, Tim. The dialogue is as follows: Tim asks, "Say, Major, a cousin of mine named Belasco Bliss stopped off between trains, and my better-or-worse has turned the go-light on him! Could you sneak him in on the biscuit roster a few days?" Major Hoople replies, "Egad, Tim! The door of Hoople Manor is always open to an unfortunate wayfarer! Um! Where is the chap?" The cartoon ends with the caption, "Right now he's sleeping in the depot = 5-7".
