Island Delegation May Wear Kilts

By JEAN MACRAE
Gaelic dancers and sportsmen will probably represent Prince Edward Island in the national fitness festival to be held Sept. 3 at the Canadian National Exhibition in Toronto.

It was learned from David Brown, provincial director of physical fitness.

The presentation of each of the 10 provinces at the fitness festival will be designed on a theme that particularly represents that province and identifies it to send 10 representatives.

Because of lack of time it was found feasible for the Atlantic provinces to combine with one theme that is common to all yet will distinguish one province from the others.

Delegates from the Atlantic area, which includes the Maritime provinces and the province of New Brunswick, are expected to wear kilts.

Plans for the fitness festival were made at a meeting of provincial physical education directors, directors of the Canadian Association of Health and Physical Education and a sports committee of the CNE in Toronto.
