BUOTE'S PROOF PRESS

PATENT NO 63767

This invention provides a long felt want for the printing craft. Various methods have been in vogue in the art of printing, for the taking of galley proofs, ranging from the use of mallet and planer to that of a proof press having a stationary bed and a heavy roller covered with felt or cloth. In all these constructions, however, it is necessary that the paper used should be dampened prior to use in order that a clean proof may result, the attempt to take it dry producing an imperfect result. To obviate these disadvantages Buote's Proof Press is constructed with a movable bed, the impression rollers being stationary, allowing of the use of a pressure regulating mechanism; it also provides paper rolls at opposite ends by means of which the proofs can be taken rapidly. The Press is neat and attractive in appearance, durable in construction, simple and efficient in operation and can be made at a moderate cost. Not only can Buote's Proof Press be used for proofs but it can also be used for posters and hundreds of jobs which comes within the range of country offices.

The most fascinating invention of the age. Always ready to entertain, it requires no skill to operate it and reproduces the music of bands, orchestras, vocalists or literary mental soliloquies. There is nothing like it for an evening's entertainment at home or in the social gathering. You can sing or talk to it and it will reproduce immediately and as often as desired, your song or words. Other so-called talking machines reproduce only records of one and the same subject, specially prepared in a laboratory; but the Graphophone is not limited to such performances. On the Graphophone you can easily make and instantly reproduce records of the voice, or any sound. Thus it constantly awakens new interest and its charm is ever fresh. The reproductions are clear and brilliant. Graphophones are sold for $10 up
