

Opening of Ross Burner & Electric Ltd.

Enterprising Firm Opens New Branch Here Today

bring to his new job a thorough understanding of the appliances with which he will have to deal.

Mr. R. Jewell

Following an urge that took him into the burner and electric business in Halifax nearly ten years ago, Samuel D. Ross with a successful experience behind him opens a branch store in Charlottetown today at 56 St. Peter's Road. The new store is attractively laid out with appliances to meet the needs of both commercial and domestic consumers. The Ross Burner and Electric Limited is Maritime agent and distributor for some of the foremost lines of oil burners and electrical appliances. Attractive displays of these products have been set up in the store in preparation for the opening today.

teous service men for the installation and maintenance of oil appliances and an expert technician for the installation and service of electrical appliances are ready to serve patrons of the Ross Burner and Electric. Mr. Ross, owner and president of the Company has placed the Charlottetown branch under the management of Mr. R.H. Jewell, a former resident of the city who following World War II was demobilized with the rank of Captain in the Canadian Signals and continued his studies of electrical matters. His training in Halifax will
