It is believed that the new Spanish Cabinet will endeavour to induce Senor Olozaga to remain Ambassador at Paris, for some time at least.

DESTRUCTIVE EARTHQUAKE.—LOSS OF 3,000 LIVES.

The Indian mail brings advices of another of those dreadful earthquakes for which Ternati and the adjoining localities in the Moluccas, are proverbial. An eruption of the active volcano on the island of the Great Sangir, in long. 125 50 E., and lat. 3 50 N., has occurred. The north-western part of the island of Great Sangir is formed by the mountain Awn, which has several peaks, the highest being about 4,000 feet above the sea. On the west side the mountain runs very steep into the sea, at the height of the large village of Kandhar, however, falling away to a low promontory. Between seven and eight o'clock on the evening of the 2d of March a sudden and altogether indescribable crashing noise was heard, which, indicating to the Sangirese an eruption of the volcano, filled them with consternation. Simultaneously with this the glowing lava streamed downwards with irresistible force in different directions, bearing with it whatever it encountered on its destructive course, and causing the sea to boil wherever they came in contact. The hot springs opened up and cast out a flood of boiling water, which destroyed and carried away what the fire had spared. The sea, obedient to an unusual impulse, lashed the rocks with frightful violence, dashed upon the shore and heaved itself with a wild haste against the land as if it strove to overmaster the fire-stream. This frightful picture of destruction, the horror of which was increased by the shrieks of men and beasts, the wild roaring of the tempest and the crashing of thousands of trees torn up and carried away, was followed about an hour later by peals of thunder which shook the ground and deafened the ear. A black column of stones and ashes then shot up from the mountain to an immense heighth, and fell, illumined by the glare of the lava, like a shower of fire upon the surrounding country below, producing a darkness that, only now and then momentarily broken by the flashes of lightning, was so intense that people could not discern objects close at hand, and which completed their confusion and despair. Large stones were hurled through the air, crushing whatever they fell upon. Houses and crops which had not been destroyed by fire, sunk and disappeared beneath the ashes and stones, and the hill streams, stopped by these barriers, formed lakes, which breaking over their banks, soon proved a new source of destruction. This lasted some hours. About midnight the raging elements sank to rest; but on the following day about noon, they again resumed their work of destruction with renewed violence. In the meantime the fall of ashes continued without intermission, and was so thick on this day that the rays of the sun could not penetrate through it, and an appalling darkness prevailed. Scarcely recovered in some degree from their fright, the inhabitants of this desolated part of Sangir were again disturbed by an eruption on the 17th of March, which destroyed many fields and a great number of trees on the Tabukan side. Since then the volcano has remained quiet, and the only symptom of its working has been the smoke rising up in all directions from cracks and fissures in the ground. The streams of lava on the slopes are still so slightly cooled that people dare not venture to any great distance from the shore. According to the accounts of the natives, the top of the mountain does not appear to have undergone any noticeable alteration. On the other side of Kandhar, on the extreme north point of the island, the appearance of the devastation which has been caused, is, if possible, even more frightful than what has taken place at Tartuna. For here, where formerly there were to be seen extensive fields, bearing all kinds of crops, and thickly planted and endless groves of cocoa-nuts, we now find nothing but lava, stone, and ashes. The liquid fire seems at this point to have flowed from the mountain with irresistible force and in prodigious quantity. Not only has this fearful flood, as it were, buried the whole district and all that was upon it, but after having caused this destruction over an extent of several miles, it was still powerful enough, on reaching the shore, to form two long tanjongs (capes) at places where the depth of water formerly consisted of many fathoms. A number of other districts and places have been some wholly destroyed, others greatly injured by the fire. The loss of life has been great. It is estimated as follows in the undermentioned districts:—Tartuna, men, women, and children, 722; Kandhar, ditto, 45; Tabukan, ditto, 2,039; Total 2,806. The greater number met their death in the gardens. They fled in all directions, but were overtaken and swallowed up by the fatal fire-stream. Some tried to save themselves in the trees, but were either carried away with them or killed by the scorching heat. At Kalougan and Tariang the houses were filled with people who were stopped in their flight by the lava streaming down on all sides and the streams of boiling water, and who met their death under the burning ashes and the tumbling houses. Many who had reached the shore and thought themselves safe became a prey to the furious waves, and many died through sheer despair and agony.

IRELAND.

Mr. Smith O'Brien has published a letter during the last few days, addressed to the editor of an Irish journal, in which he refers with gratitude to the efforts which have been made, without his knowledge, to procure his own unconditional release from captivity, so that he might return once more to his home. From this document, which is quite free from boast or fustian of any kind, we learn that no less than 140 members of Parliament of all political opinions, memorialized Lord Palmerston in the last session to grant this boon to Mr. O'Brien,—that one gentleman twice made a voyage round the world in the hope of carrying him away,—that the Canadian Parliament petitioned for his restoration to Ireland,—that in Van Diemen's Land all the colonists, without reference to country, treated him with the most considerate courtesy,—and that the warmth of his reception in the free colonies of Australia and in the United States, penetrated him deeply. In conclusion, he says:—"To all who have expressed or felt sympathy, I would willingly tender my acknowledgments; and it is with this view that I address to you this letter, in the hope that it may obtain extended publicity." We announced recently that Mr. O'Brien had for the present declined to enter Parliament, and to this determination he appears still to adhere. Experience, a bitter monitor, has evidently produced a strong impression on the mind of Mr. Smith O'Brien.

The Mutiny and Trials at Nenagh.—On Wednesday, the cases of the persons implicated in the mutiny at Nenagh were finally disposed of at the North Riding of Tipperary assizes. Thomas Carr, a lance corporal of the Tipperary Militia, was put upon his trial as a ring-leader in the recent riot, and was found guilty, whereupon all the other prisoners, under the advice of their counsel, pleaded "guilty." Mr. Justice Moore then proceeded to sentence the prisoners:—Stephen Burns, for the wilful murder of Patrick Curley, a soldier of the 41st Regiment, to be hanged, and his body buried within the precincts of the gaol; John Barron, Edward Laffan, William Cummins, Thomas Carr, and Cornelius Ryan, to be each transported for 15 years. The learned Judge, in passing sentence upon Burns, said:—"No doubt could be entertained on the evidence but that the unfortunate man lost his life by his [the prisoner's] hand. The deceased had been in the service of Her Majesty. He had served with distinction abroad, and having survived the perils of a hard-fought campaign, he returned to his country to receive his death at the hands of a comrade. He believed the prisoner acted under circumstances of great excitement, but no excitement could justify the crime of murder. He did not desire to say anything to aggravate his feelings, but he hoped that among these feelings were to be found deep regret that he had taken the life of a fellow-creature. He was happy to think and hope that, though he had been guilty of the crime, it had not been attended with those circumstances of atrocity which sometimes attend the commission of crime in this country. It did not appear that he knew the individual he had murdered, and he bore him no ill-will. Nothing remained for him but to pass on him the dreadful sentence of the law. He had no power over that sentence either to vary or abridge it. He had been recommended to mercy, but he [his Lordship] had no power to let that operate upon the sentence. That recommendation would be forwarded to the Government, backed by him as far as he could go. It was not for him to hold out hope. He could not say there was no hope, nor could he say there was hope." His Lordship then passed sentence of death on the prisoner in the usual form.

A Daring Abduction.—The Cork Constitution states that a Miss H——, of Clonbrook, Queen's County, was to be married on a certain day to a Mr. H. L——. Another lover of the lady endeavoured to prevent it by collecting a party of friends, who assisted him in locking the gate approaching to the lady's house. They also placed large stones in front to obstruct the passage of the jaunting car; and, after completing their task, they lay in ambush awaiting the arrival of Miss H—— and her friends. Having arrived on the hour above mentioned, and finding the approach barred against them, some of the party left the car to remove the obstacles presented to them, when the lady was pounced upon by the party of her former lover, and then a struggle ensued—the bridegroom's party endeavoured to retain her, and the other to carry her off. The conflict terminated in victory for W——, the former lover, who succeeded in placing the lady on a car, and in effecting his escape with his prize, neither of whom was heard of up to Wednesday last. The intended bridegroom had his countenance much damaged. The matter has come before the magistrates.

Sir Dominick Daly.—We are rejoiced to hear that the honour of Knighthood has been conferred on the Governor of P. E. Island. We believe there are few men in the Colonies better entitled to such an honor than his Excellency, and we trust that still higher honors and more responsible offices are reserved for him. We have lately had an opportunity of visiting the Island, and we heard from persons of all classes and creeds the highest praise bestowed on Sir Dominick Daly, for the ability and impartiality with which he administered the affairs of the Island. We believe there is no Governor who is more beloved by the people, or who enjoys to a larger extent the respect and esteem of all classes. It is on such men that the honors of the Crown are worthily bestown, because earned by a faithful discharge of their duties, and by a desire while securing the rights of the sovereign to promote the welfare of the people.—Halifax Catholic.

LOCAL NEWS.

Fire Incendiarism.—Between Saturday night and Sunday morning last, (August 10,) the house, barn, bed and bedding, clothes, furniture and farming utensils, belonging to James Conway, (blind), of the West River, near Crosby's Mills, Lot 30, was consumed by fire—during the absence of the family, who reside on the Tryon Road. It is suspected to be the work of an incendiary. The public are respectfully solicited to aid him in getting up another house.—Has. Gaz.

This City was visited with another terrific thunder and lightning storm on Tuesday evening last, accompanied with very heavy rain and hail. The storm commenced at about eight o'clock in the evening, to the southward, and continued, with but little intermission, until four the following morning. Hundreds of panes of glass were broken by the hailstones, and the crops in the vicinity of the town have received some damage.—Adv.

Survey of the City of Charlottetown.

(Extract from the Minutes of the City Council.)

WHEREAS in the opinion of this Council, it has become imperatively necessary that a correct plan of this City should be made from an actual survey thereof, by civil Engineers or Surveyors of skill and experience: Be it therefore Resolved, That a plan of the City be made from actual survey, and that the Surveyor who shall make the same, be guided by the following regulations:—

Specification with respect to a Survey and Plan to be taken and made of the City of Charlottetown.

A line to be run along Water-street as nearly as can be in the same place and in the same direction as the line laid down on a plan drawn by the late Surveyor General, George Wright, in the year 1834, which line is described in a field book, a copy of which may be taken at the City Clerk's office. This line to extend from the fence enclosing Fort St. George eastwardly to the foot of Weymouth-street, and all the distances to be taken from the said line to the buildings at each corner on either hand, and a record made of the same after this line has been run; lines are then to be run up each of the streets from Water-street to Euston-street, at right angles from the line on Water-street, and all the distances taken from those lines to the buildings adjoining right and left at each cross street. The distance is then to be chained from the line on Water-street to the centre of Richmond-street, at each end, namely, at Weymouth-street and at Pownal-street. A line is then to be run along Richmond-street from end to end, and the distances taken as before described. The distance is then to be chained from the centre of Richmond-street to the centre of Kent Street, and a line run through Kent-street from end to end, and the distances taken from the centre line to the buildings on either hand. The distance will then be chained to the centre of Euston-street, and a line run from end to end of said street, and the distances laid off in the same manner, as before described. The five remaining east and west streets, namely, King, Dorchester, Sydney, Grafton and Fitzroy, to have centre lines run through them, parallel with Water-street, and the several distances right and left from said lines laid off in the same way and manner, as herein before described for the other streets.

After the survey has been made, in accordance with the above directions, a plan will then have to be made of the survey on the scale of eighty feet to the inch. The said plan to be drawn in fine lines, describing all the lots, squares, &c.; and also, shewing in fine dotted lines, all the variations in the several boundaries from the regular lines. The survey will also have to include sections on the same scale as the plan of the several streets; shewing the actual surface, outline and the heights from high water mark.

The plan to be drawn on the best drawing paper and properly backed with linen, and bound on the edges with linen tape, and to be sufficiently large to allow a plan of the lots below Water-street to the edge of the channel, taking in the wharfs and stores, to be hereafter added on the same scale.

The Surveyor to supply all the labour and materials necessary to be provided in making such survey and plan, and the whole of the survey and plan shall be subject to the approval of any competent Land Surveyor or Civil Engineer, who shall be appointed by the City Council to examine and pronounce upon the accuracy of the same.

And be it further Resolved, That advertisements for Tenders for Surveying the City and making a correct plan thereof, pursuant to the above instructions, be inserted in the papers published in this City.

City Clerk's Office, Charlottetown, 16th Aug., 1856.

NOTICE is hereby given that in accordance with the foregoing Resolutions, Sealed Proposals will be received at this office, until WEDNESDAY, the 10th day of September next, for the performance of the above survey and plan.

By order of City Council,

Aug. 18. W. B. WELLNER, City Clerk.
