

The Rosary of My Years.

Some reckon their age by years. Some measure their life by art— But some tell their days by the flow of their tears And their life by the moans of their heart.

The dials of earth may show The length, not the depth, of years, Few or many they come—few or many they go— But our time is best measured by tears.

Ah! not by the silver gray That creeps through the sunny hair, And not by the scenes that we pass in our way— And not by the furrows the finger of care

On the forehead and face have made. Not so do we count our years; Not by the sun of the earth—but the shade Of our souls, and the falls of our tears.

For the young are oftentimes old, Though their brow be young and fair; While their blood beats warm their heart lies cold— O'er them the spring-time—but winter is there.

And the old are oftentimes young, When the hair was thin and white; And they sing in age as in youth they sung, And they laugh, for their cross was light.

But heed by heed I tell The rosary of my years; From a cross to a cross they lead—'tis well! And they're blessed with a blessing of tears.

Better a day of strife Than a century of sleep; Give me instead of a long stream of life, The tempest and tears of the deep.

A thousand joys may foam On the billows of all the years; But never the foam brings the brave bark home; It reaches the haven through tears.

The Diptherial Worm.

The Elmira (N. Y.) Advertiser gives a strange account of a little girl afflicted with diptheria. In looking into the child's throat, the mother saw a micrococcus moving, which she removed, together with another, which are now on exhibition at a city drug store, and being discussed by the medical fraternity. They are easily seen by the naked eye, though a glass helps one to see the "true inwardness" of the critter. The largest one is fully one quarter of an inch long, covered with hair, with a head something like a caterpillar, tapering body and long hair tail. Its body is formed in rings its color is about that of one of those yellow "thousand legged" worms found under old boards and stones. The smaller one is about one sixteenth of an inch long, being whitish in color, and requiring the glass to bring out its "beauty" of conformation. It is not a pleasant thought to imagine such a thing in your throat, but they get there, and from there into the blood, heart and other organs, producing paralysis, and exist in large colonies in diptheretic membrane. Dr. J. M. Flood is considerably interested in the mammoth bacteria that have come under his observation, which greatly exceed in size anything he ever saw.

A Carnival Trick.

A very favorite trick adopted at Lima, Peru, in carnival time, for frightening people as they pass along the streets, is the following: A sack filled with fragments of broken glass and porcelain, is fastened to the gallery by a strong rope, of such length that, when suspended from the window the sack is about seven feet above the street. The apparatus being ready, a mischievous maid and her amita (young mistress) watch the passers-by until they select one for their victim. The sack is then thrown over the front of the balcony, and a deafening crash ensues, though the rope prevents its contents from hurting any one. It is well known that in almost every street in Lima there is at least one balcony ready prepared for the performance of this trick; yet the suddenness of the crash always proves a shock, even to the strongest nerves. People start and run to the other side of the street, and are sometimes so terrified that they drop down, then loud laughter and jeering remarks are heard in the balcony. Every year this trick is prohibited by the police, but the prohibition is treated with contempt.

Do you know what the fundamental difficulty with the world is? It is the universal delusion that a number five boot can be made to fit a number six foot. The bank cashier takes a few thousand dollars from the vault with the expectation of becoming rich on Wall street, and returning it; the clerk drives a fast team and indulges in all concomitants on a salary of $800; the business man lives on the avenue and accumulates debts with the hope that something favorable will turn up; the young woman marries for money and dreams of a happy home. They are trying to get a number five boot on a number six foot.

Curate—"Good morning, Curley; I hope you are getting on better now?" Artisan—"Yes, master, thankoe. I am saving up." Curate—"I am glad to hear that. How much have you saved?" Artisan—"I have got a penny, master, and I am saving it till I get another, and then I am going to have a pint."—London Fun.

Dec. 14.

The Greatest Medical Discovery since the Creation of Man, or since the Commencement of the Christian Era.

There never has been a time when the healing of so many different diseases has been caused by outward application as the present. It is an undoubted fact that over half of the entire population of the globe resort to the use of ordinary plasters.

DR. MELVIN'S CAPSICUM POROUS PLASTERS are acknowledged by all who have used them, to act quicker than any other plaster they ever before tried, and that one of these plasters will do more real service than a hundred of the ordinary kind. All other plasters are slow of action, and require to be worn continually to effect a cure; but with these it is entirely different: the instant one is applied the patient will feel its effect.

Physicians in all ages have thoroughly tested and well known the effect of Capsicum; and it has always been more or less used as a medical agent for an outward application; but it is only of very recent date that its advantages in a porous plaster have been discovered. Being, however, convinced of the wonderful cures effected by DR. MELVIN'S CAPSICUM POROUS PLASTERS, and their superiority over all other plasters, they now actually prescribe them, in their practice, for such diseases as rheumatism, pain in the side and back, and all such cases as have required the use of plasters or liniment. After you have tried other plasters and liniments, and they have failed, and you want a certain cure, ask your druggist for DR. MELVIN'S CAPSICUM POROUS PLASTER. You can hardly believe your own convictions of its wonderful effects. Although powerful and quick in its action, you can rely on its safety for the most delicate person to wear, as it is free from lead and other poisonous material commonly used in the manufacture of ordinary plasters. One trial is a sufficient guarantee of its merits, and one plaster will sell hundreds to your friends.

Ask your druggist for DR. MELVIN'S CAPSICUM POROUS PLASTER, and take no other; or, on receipt of 25 cents for one, $1 for five, or $2 for a dozen, they will be mailed, post paid, to any address in the United States or Canada.

CATARRH.

Constitutional Catarrh Remedy CURES CATARRH.

Hear what a Reverend Gentleman says of the Constitutional Remedy.

T. J. B. HARDING, Esq., Brockville, Ont.:— "DEAR SIR—It is now two years since your 'Constitutional Catarrh Remedy' was introduced to me. I have waited this long to see if the cure would remain permanent before doing this, my duty, to you, as at first the happy effects seemed to me to be 'too good to be true.'"

I was afflicted in my head for years before I suspected it to be Catarrh. In reading in your Circular I saw my case described in many particulars. The inward "drop" from the head had become very disagreeable, and a choking sensation often preventing me from lying long. I would feel like smothering and be compelled to sit up in the bed. My health and spirits were seriously affected. When your agent came to Walkertown in August, 1876, I secured three bottles. Before I had used a quarter of the contents of one bottle I found decided relief, and when I had used two bottles and a third, I quit taking it, feeling quite cured of that ailment, and have not used any since until of late I have taken some for a cold in my head. A sense of duty to sufferers from that loathsome disease, Catarrh, prompts me to send you this Certificate, unsolicited, with leave to make what use of it you may see proper. Yours truly,

W. TINDALL, Methodist Minister. Port Elgin, Ont., Aug. 24, 1878.
