Capacity Audience Attends Performance

By RICHARD WHITLOCK

A capacity audience at the Confederation Centre was entertained by the band of the P.E.I. Regiment directed by Lieutenant C. M. MacGregor under the kind permission of Lt. Col. E. G. MacLeod and the Royal Canadian Legion Men's Chorus, Leslie Hiscott, director, and accompanied by Albert Blanchard last night.

The concert was presented in two sections. The first half of the evening's programme consisted of the music of the P.E.I. Regimental band while the second part consisted of the men's chorus accompanied by the band.

The band selections contained two various types of marches, hymns of praise and popular selections by Jerome Kern and Kenneth J. Alfred. The marches were The Thin Red Line, their opening selection and Colonel Bogey by Kenneth Alfred and a circus march, Barnum and Bailey's Favorite by K. L. Kline. Colonel Bogey was the closing piece.

Other marches were Them Basses by G. H. Huffine featuring the bass section of the band and Bugler's Holiday featuring the trumpet section. It was composed by Leroy Anderson. Jerome Kern's compositions Five Minutes with Jerome Kern, selections of his most popular pieces including Smoke Gets in Your Eyes, followed The Thin Red Line in the well balanced and delightful programme.

A Musical Switch-Humoresque, K. J. Albert and Hymns of Praise, Dear Lord and Father of Mankind, O Worship The King, For The Beauty of Earth, God of Our Father rounded out the band's selections.

Following the band concert and intermission Sacred Songs Spirituals, American Songs and Old Favorites were presented by the young Legion chorus under the direction of Leslie Hiscott and accompanied by Albert Blanchard.

Sacred Songs Spirituals opened the chorus presentation with four well selected compositions, Battle Hymn of the Republic, Steal Away, Vesper Hymns with soloist Don Hutchison, We're You There?

The presentation of American songs by the chorus equalled that of all other selections however. The Happy Wanderer by Friedrich Moller, the final piece in this section, overpowered the two previous pieces Songs of the Jolly Roger and Kentucky Babe, Serenade, from The Student Prince, by Sigmund Romberg highlighted the evening's performance of the chorus as Albert, Carter delighted the audience with his solo. Other selections in this balanced portion included Drink To Me Only With Thine Eyes, The Bells of St. Mary's, a standard by A. E. Adams: All through the Night, Welsh Air: and What Shall We Do With The Drunken Sailor a sea chanty by Marshall Bartholomew.

The evening of fine music and song was climaxed with a touching and hearty presentation of Bless This House, Brahe, sung by the chorus accompanied by the P.E.I. Regimental Band.

Charles Campbell Elected President

Charles Campbell, principle of the Morell-Regional High School, was elected provincial president of the Young Progressive Conservatives at the YPC annual conference held Saturday at the Basilea Recreation Centre.

Mr. Campbell succeeds Arthur MacInnis of Charlottetown who held the post for five years. Mr. Campbell was elected on the first ballot. He was opposed by Greg Deighan of Summerside and David Nicholson of Charlottetown.

Speaking before the balloting Mr. Campbell admitted he was once interested in another political party but had changed because the Conservatives were the only party interested in national unity.

Mr. Deighan in making his bid for the presidency told the YPC's he did not think that social gatherings such as dances were the proper way to attract members to the organization. He said the young people of today are taking a greater interest in public affairs and wanted frank candid discussions on controversial issues.

Mr. Nicholson told the members that he was sure there would be a provincial election within the year and the YPC must be ready for it. In his speech Mr. Nicholson noted that

Davie Fulton Speaks Here

"Hon. E. Davie Fulton, a former justice minister in the Diefenbaker cabinet was the guest speaker at the provincial banquet held Saturday evening which terminated the two day annual conference of the P.E.I. Young Progressive Conservatives. There were some 250 people in attendance. Other speakers at the banquet included YPC past-president Arthur MacInnis, Charles Campbell, the newly elected YPC president, Premier W.R. Shaw, Hon. Angus MacLean MP, Health Minister Mel McQuaid MP and David MacDonald MP.

Real Casquette, the leader of the Creditiste, had complained that there are no French speaking senators from P.E.I. Speaking in French Mr. Nicholson then made a plea for a senate appointment. He was the only speaker to address the YPC's in French.

Other members of the YPC provincial executive who were elected Saturday were: Albert Fogarty, Souris, vice-president for Kings; David Hyndman, Charlottetown, vice-president for Charlottetown; Lloyd Lawless, Summerside, vice-president for East; Paul Batchelder, Alberton, vice-president for West; Mrs. Errol Bagnall, Hazel Grove, secretary and Mrs. Enid MacKay, Clinton, treasurer.

From it evolved also a plan to lease about two-thirds of the more than 6,000,000 small holes in the Prairie duck factory from farmers at a cost of $5,100,000 each year for a 10-year period starting this year.

Wildlife Conference Is Opened

OTTAWA (CP) — Increasing federal government concern over dwindling populations of some animals is reflected in the theme of National Wildlife Week which opens April 10.

Young Conservatives Hear Premier Shaw

Premier Walter R. Shaw was the guest speaker at the noon luncheon of the Young Progressive Conservatives of P.E.I. annual conference held Saturday at the Basilea Recreation Centre.

The Premier told the YPC's "the need of a very informed electorate extends beyond what it did some years ago when the interest was left chiefly to the old fellows.

"All citizens should take definite and intensive interest in public life," the premier contributed, "we must want the in which preservation of wildlife habitat is not an urgent problem," said R. C. (Dick) Passmore, executive director of the Canadian Wildlife Federation, the non-governmental organization co-ordinating the drive to make Canadians more aware of what is happening to wildlife.

Northern Affairs Minister Laing, whose portfolio includes the Canadian Wildlife Service, stated the problem simply before a Commons committee last week.

"Drainage of wetlands, the destruction of natural cover for urban development, agriculture and forestry and the construction of dams have reduced the area for habitat for some species.

"Wildlife numbers depend upon the extent and quality of available habitat."

A new national wildlife policy evolved at a 1965 meeting of provincial resource ministers calls for agreements between Ottawa and the provinces for the study, protection and use of wildlife.

From it evolved also a plan to lease about two-thirds of the more than 6,000,000 small holes in the Prairie duck factory from farmers at a cost of $5,100,000 each year for a 10-year period starting this year.

support of the young people because it is chiefly their interests we have at heart.

"Youth must take its place with the older people," said Mr. Shaw, "but that I don't mean the older people should be pushed aside. In the provincial, national and international sphere all leaders are very mature men."

Making reference to his own cabinet the premier said "here is the happy combination I like to see, the old and the young."

"Everyone in the cabinet is an outstanding man and capable of stepping into my shoes and carrying on," said the premier making the first reference to his eventual departure from politics in a number of months.

He made another reference to the possibility sometime later when he said, after reviewing the accomplishments of his government during the past six years, "when I lay down the reins I will have these achievements behind me."

Speaking of the events in the present session of the legislative assembly the Premier told the gathering, "the image of the opposition diminishes somewhat."

With reference to Alex Campbell, the young leader of the Liberals, Mr. Shaw said, "his training is not as broad as it could have been."

"There didn't seem to be too much unity among the unlucky thirteen," said the Premier. He claimed he had difficulty telling who the real leader of the opposition really was. "We had the official leader, we had the ex-leader, the tall fellow and there was the little fellow from Murray River."

CAPTURE TROPHY

The Robert Bradley trophy, which is up for semi-annual competition among the various service clubs in Charlottetown, was won by the Parkdale Lions' Club at last fall's Red Cross blood donor clinics. Here Mr. Bradley, left, is seen congratulating King Lion, W.C. Matthews, and presenting him with the new trophy he has donated to keep the competition going. Mr. Matthews said last night that the Parkdale Lions' Club are determined to retain the trophy as the result of their all-out attendance at this week's clinics which get underway tonight at the Confederation Centre, but the Junior Chamber of Commerce with Ken Haywood as their blood donor chairman, claim that they are going to take this trophy away from the Lions' Club.

Dr. J. D. Murch Speaks In City

Large congregations heard Dr. J.D. Murch of Washington, D.C. speak at the Central Christian Church yesterday. In the morning he spoke on the Triumphal Entry of Our Lord and in the evening he spoke on, "One Church for One World." Quoting from Thomas Campbell, a leader of the Restoration Movement, he demonstrated that scripturally the church is "intentionally, essentially, and constitutionally one." This scriptural unity of the church, and its attainment through restoring the New Testament church, has been the plea of the Christian churches and churches of Christ for over a hundred years. This morning Dr. Murch will deliver the first of his lectures at the Maritime Christian College at 10:00 a.m. The subject this morning will be "The Validity of the Restoration Principle." This evening at 8:00 p.m. he will be speaking in the Central Christian Church on "The Rise of the New Catholicism." Both of these lectures will be very pertinent to present-day church problems.

These daily lectures will continue through Tuesday and Wednesday, morning and evening. The public is invited to attend.
