There may still be tickets for the next Delicious Dalton Delicacies so read on!

Every Tuesday from Oct. 31st to Dec. 5th, the Home Economics 411 Quantity Foods class is your host for a low-cost, high quality meal.

The main course is served at 11:45 a.m. and tickets are on sale from the secretary of the Home Economics Department, Room 109, Dalton Hall in the mornings of Thursday, Friday, Monday and Tuesday preceding the given meal. Please get your tickets early as only a limited number will be sold.

These students are learning principles of food production, management and organization in preparation for taking their places in the professional world of food service.

Costing is a difficult procedure. The price of individual meals is based on raw food costs, and should give the diner a good idea of the net cost to restaurants of home-cooked dishes, before adding for labour, capital costs, energy and profit.

The first meal, held Oct. 17th, was a "Harvest Feast" featuring Golden Glory Chowder, Shorts Bannock, a cold plate and Apple-Ginger-bread at a price of $2.50.

Watch each week for posters giving information on the meal for that week.
