UNEMPLOYMENT

OTTAWA (CUP) - Students and young people have been hit hard again by unemployment this summer, with Statistics Canada reporting more than one in 10 people between 15 and 24 years of age out of work in August.

Among students returning to school 8.7 per cent were unemployed in August, compared to 11.9 per cent in July.

But for students not returning to school Statistics Canada says a large 16.6 per cent were without jobs in August. The students not returning to work category consists of those who attended school in March and who are not planning to return or are uncertain of returning.

In the larger age 15 to 24 years old category 12.3 per cent of male and 12.8 per cent of female job seekers were unemployed.

The August figures for students show a slight improvement this year compared to last. In 1978 9.7 per cent of returning students and 20.2 per cent of not returning students were unemployed in August.

Women students not returning to school are the worst off of all student categories, with 20.2 per cent unemployed in August, while men in the same category have 13.1 per cent unemployment rate. Women students returning to school had a 9.6 per cent unemployment rate, 1.6 per cent higher than men in the same category.

Broken down provincially, Newfoundland students returning to school were hardest hit by unemployment compared to other provinces' students in the same category, while Alberta students again came out on top. In July 23.4 per cent of returning Newfoundland students were unemployed, but in Alberta 7.9 per cent were out of work.

In other provinces the unemployment rate for returning students in July was: British Columbia, 12.6; Manitoba, 8.8; Ontario, 12.0; Quebec, 12.5; New Brunswick, 15.8; Nova Scotia, 16.1. Figures for other provinces were not available immediately.

Compared to the national unemployment rate students fared badly. In July the unemployment rate was 7.2

per cent and in August it remained the same.
