

U.P.E.I. Brings Trophy Home

By Nola MacDonald

Last Thursday, January 30, UPEI hosted the seventh annual UPEI-Holland College debate. This year the winner of the Prince of Wales Class of '54 trophy was the home team.

For the last three years, Holland College has won, but this year UPEI's team of Michael Woodman, and Julie Theriault defeated Holland Colleges Greg MacKinnon and Kevin O'Brian.

All four speakers debated well and had interesting points to raise about the topic: "Be it resolved that Canada should scrap its policy on bilingualism." The debaters used a medley of personal anecdotes, statistical facts, and heckling to make the debate lively and interesting.

The moderator for the debate was former Lieutenant Governor of P.E.I., Mr. Gordon Bennett. He also moderated last years debate at Holland College.

Anne Thurlow, one of the judges, made a comment that I will always remember. She said, in reference to Michael Woodman who debated last year as well, that she has never seen anyone improve so much over the course of a year as he did.

Following the judges comments and presentation of the trophy to Mike and Julie, everyone went to the Faculty Lounge for a brief reception.

The debating society wishes to thank everyone who helped with this debate, and a special thanks to Robert Smith, former president of the society who coordinated the event.

Congratulations Mike and Julie!
