

Frenchmen Begin To Grasp Depth Of De Gaulle Moves

By PRESTON GROVER
 PARIS (AP)—Frenchmen began to understand truly last week the depth and force of the de Gaulle revolution with its new taxes, imposed austerity and concentration of governmental power.

The cries have begun to mount. There are even cries against de Gaulle himself—a thing almost unheard of, except in Communist quarters, since the wartime leader took peacetime authority seven months ago.

For the time being the cries are not going to have much effect. De Gaulle seems to know what he wants. He believes the country wants what he wants.

In his inaugural speech on Thursday when he became president he used a word to describe his power and his intentions that no French chief of state in nearly a century would have dared to use.

De Gaulle said he would do what was good for the French public and for the French community. If necessary for the public good, he would even "impose" what was called for.

Imposition is a strong word. Many Frenchmen and North Africans suspect it had a specific reference to de Gaulle's plan to bring a settlement in Algeria.

There remains his biggest problem. The war there is draining away billions of francs France needs for new housing, new equipment and to pay foreign debts.

It is also draining away national self-esteem. Despite an army of 500,000 men, France has not been able to put down the rebellion.

CHOSEN PLACE

In the paragraphs of his speech just before the word "impose" was used, de Gaulle said a chosen place was going to be worked out for Algeria in the French community. He said the territory would develop its own personality.

The determined colonialists in North Africa, now with new voices in the National Assembly, spoke out in protest. They suspected a Gaullist intention to give Algeria a status far different from complete integration in France.

A sharp indication of what the general may be thinking came in unofficial reports that Algerian leaders now in jail in forced residence will be given new privileges—a stage short of liberty.

LATEST GESTURE

This amnesty would be the latest dramatic gesture by de Gaulle to try to get the Algerians to lay down their arms.

But Algeria was not the problem that brought loudest criticism at home. The economic belt-tightening has been the most disturbing.

Among the new decrees are eliminations of subsidies that have kept down prices of coal, bread, gas and electricity. Prices of these will go up, as on tobacco, a state monopoly.

Home Problems Topics At H.C.

The monthly meeting of the Central Royalty Home and whipped up seas estimated at 30 to 40 feet.

Skipped by Cmdr. Albert F. Wayne of New London, Conn., the McCulloch carries 125 men and 10 officers. She mans one of the four weather stations maintained by the U.S. Coast Guard in the North Atlantic.

STILL OPERATING

The first sub. ay on the North American continent was opened at Boston in 1895.

School Association was held in the school recently with a good attendance.

The meeting was conducted by the president, George Ayers. The attendance contest resulted in a tie for the classes of Mrs. Coffin, grade two and Miss MacLinnis, grade five.

The program for the evening was arranged by Harold Bernard and took the form of three short skits— "Must we have bedtime blues", "Junior and his homework", and "What price tidiness". Each was interesting and brought out some of the problems which occur in homes.

The meeting approved the suggestion that the program for the next meeting be a debate also a short film.

Damaged U.S. Cutter Sails

ARGENTINA, Nfld. (CP)—The U.S. Coast Guard cutter McCulloch, which lost a man overboard in a savage North Atlantic storm last week, left here Friday for Boston.

A spokesman at the U.S. naval base said here Saturday the 311-foot cutter also received structural damage during a three-day battle with the storm while manning weather station Bravo, midway between Labrador and Greenland.

The missing sailor was identified as seaman John Hill Lewis Jr. of Saxis, Va.

INJURY REPEATED

The McCulloch was relieved by the coast guard cutter Cook Inlet and headed here, arriving early Friday. It was reported that a seaman injured during the gale would be put into the naval hospital here, but a navy spokesman said Saturday there were no coast guard personnel in the hospital.

The converted seaplane tender suffered buckled deck plates and a cracked superstructure in the storm when hurricane winds this does to us, by cutting us off from our better judgment.

Rash judgment, then, offends God, injures our neighbor and causes serious damage to ourselves and to our lives. It should be avoided like the plague.

The true story of one small borrower...and "MY BANK"

A few weeks ago, Julian Janvrin, an Englishman by birth now living in Toronto, came upon this headline in his daily newspaper: "Bank of Montreal Deposits Top the Three Billion Mark". A depositor at the B of M since shortly after his arrival in Canada five years ago, Mr. Janvrin was prompted by the headline to write a letter to Gordon R. Ball, president of the B of M, outlining his experiences as both a depositor and borrower at Canada's first bank. We thought Mr. Janvrin's story of his struggle against adversity was worth repeating, and with his permission, have made it the basis of this advertisement.

C.N.R. Freight Traffic Shows Decline In December

Both exports and imports to and from the Province via the Canadian National Railways were down for the month of December compared to 1957. The monthly traffic report issued from the office of the Division Superintendent shows that only 868 carloads were transported to the Island compared to 908 during the same month of the previous year. At the same time exports showed 1,081 cars moved off the Island to 1,122 cars shipped on the Borden ferry in December 1957.

Some of the more prominent imports with 1957 figures in brackets are as follows: Coal 190 (211), flour and feed 137 (101), gas and oils 91 (91), lumber 17 (7), meats 16 (14), machinery 13 (12), sandstone and gravel 3 (0) canned goods 12 (16), brick and cement 16 (6), crushed rock 0 (43), less carloads 158 (207).

Of the total imports 757 cars were destined to points between Borden, Charlottetown and Summerside; 47 cars to points east and south of Charlottetown; 64 to points west of Summerside.

Potato shipments, which accounted for most of the exports remained almost the same as last year with 205 (213). Other exports were as follows: livestock 76 (88), meats 26 (23), turkeys 54 (71), canned goods 2 (4), blueberries 1 (3), scrap iron 1 (10), oysters 2 (0).

U.C. Stewards And Elders To Attend Weekend School

An opportunity for stewards and elders of the United Church to become better informed as to their duties will be afforded on the weekend of January 17-18 when a "School for Stewards" and a "School for Elders" will be conducted at Charlottetown.

Presiding at these meetings will be Rev. Ralph C. Chalmers, D.D., professor of Systematic Theology at Pine Hill Divinity Hall. Dr. Chalmers has had good success with such "schools" in both Moncton and Halifax.

Sponsored by the Men's Presbytery Council of the United Church in Prince Edward Island, the school for Stewards will take place on Saturday afternoon, the 17th and the school for Elders on Sunday afternoon, the 18th. Elders and Stewards of the 33 United churches on the Island will be eligible to attend.

An offshoot of a continually expanding lay activity in the United Church, these schools have been tremendously popular in centres where they have been held. In addition to the theme addresses provided, an opportunity for group discussion on problems relating to their duties as church officers is given.

During his visit to Prince Edward Island Dr. Chalmers will preach at the morning service of Trinity Church, Charlottetown and at the evening service of Trinity Church, Summerside. He is a classmate of Rev. Cecil Webber, pastor of the Summerside Church.

The Success Story of Julian Janvrin...

Julian Janvrin is the last person in the world to say that his is a success story. We think it is. But you can judge for yourself.

my bank manager, for the confidence it placed in us and for the help, encouragement and courtesy it has always extended to us.

"To me it is no surprise that the deposits of the Bank of Montreal should have topped the 3-billion mark, for although from the short term point of view I myself am not yet in a position to make large deposits, it may well be from the long term point of view, that my son, as a representative of the coming generation, may be in a position to do as other sons of Canada are now doing."

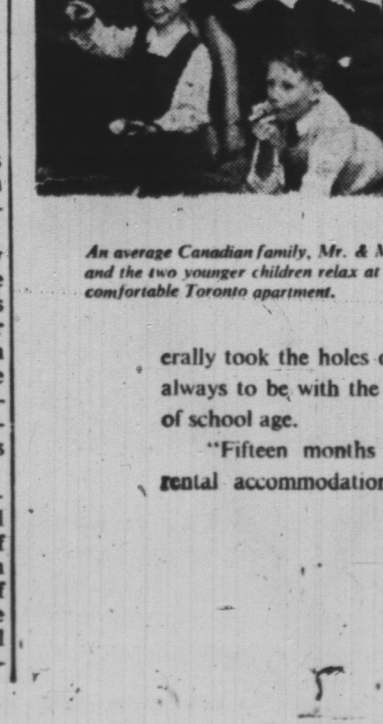

The B of M is, of course, proud to have played its part in Julian Janvrin's success story, and is grateful to him for allowing us to publish it to indicate some of the many ways in which Canada's first bank works with Canadians—new and old alike—in every walk of life from coast to coast.

Mr. Janvrin's story provides a sincere and unsolicited testimonial to the fact that "When you ask for a loan at the Bank of Montreal, you do not ask a favour".

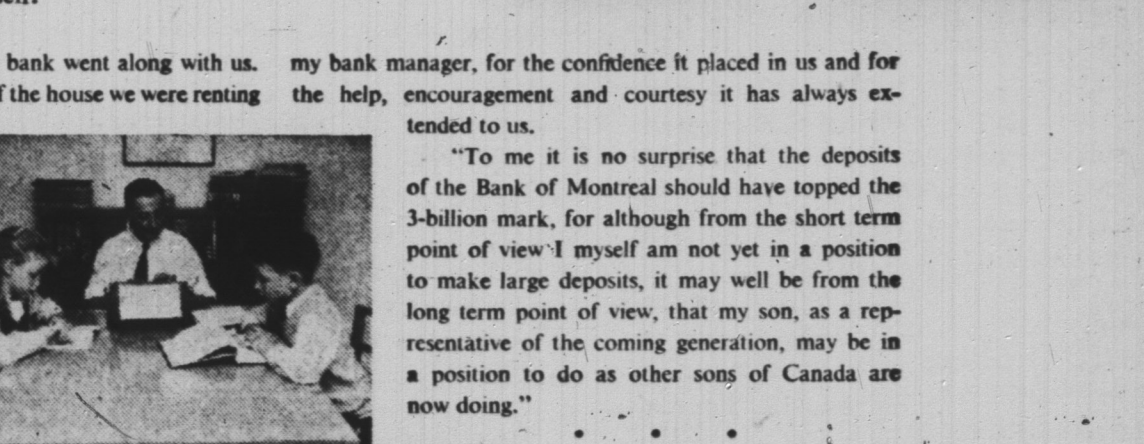

When money is a problem with you, why not see your B of M manager? If your proposition is sound and reasonable there's money for you at the B of M... at the lowest rates and on the fairest terms.
