Mr. Jacob Wilcox of St. Thomas, Ontario, is one of the best known men in that vicinity. He is now, he says, an old man, but Hood's Sarsaparilla has made him feel young again.

"About a year ago I had a very severe attack of the grip, which resulted in my not having a well day for several months afterwards. I was completely run down and my system was in a Terrible Condition.

I lost flesh and became depressed in spirits. Finally a friend who had been benefited by Hood's Sarsaparilla advised me to try it and I did so. I continued taking it until I used twelve bottles and today I can honestly say Hood's Sarsaparilla has restored me to my former health." JACOB WILCOX, St. Thomas, Ontario.

CURIOUS LORE.

Interesting Information Gleaned by Bookworm.

A river of genuine ink is one of the natural curiosities in Algeria. It is formed by the junction of two streams, one flowing from a region of ferruginous soil, the other draining a large territory of peat soil combining the two substances, gallic acid and iron, and producing an excellent quality of ink.

The river Ganges is noted for the mysterious virtue of its waters, which is considered so sacred that Hindoos carry it to remote parts of the earth, and in a court of justice in strange countries, insist on being sworn by it, as Christians use the Bible, to ratify an oath. At the City of Benares, on the banks of the Ganges, thousands of pilgrims assemble to bathe away their sins in the miraculous water. As a product of nature, the Ganges is a wonderful stream. It finds its source in the Himalaya Mountains, the water flowing out of a cave of ice at the bottom of a glacier. Its length is 1,500 miles, and fifteen miles from the sea the delta of the Ganges begins, by the river separating into two parts. Between the different sections are numerous islands called Sunderbunds, which are covered with rank and poisonous vegetation known as jungle, where no one can exist, so unhealthy is the air. Yet in spite of this the water flowing through that district where the atmosphere is rank with fever, is valued highly on account of its rare medicinal qualities.

Another noted and historic river is the Jordan, which is considered sacred on account of the baptism of Christ in its waters. It is to Palestine what the Nile is to Egypt. Its natural phenomena are its annual rise and rapid descent. It is also noted for its serpentine course, which measures in actual distance 200 miles, although straight across it is but sixty miles in length. The Jordan is below the level of the ocean, and the Dead Sea, into which it empties, is a mile below the surface of the Mediterranean. There are twenty-seven rapids in its course, and from the Dead Sea to Lake Tiberias it has a fall of ten hundred and fifty feet. Its high banks are covered with a dense growth of tamarisks and willows, as if to seclude its sacred waters from prying eyes. A sight to be remembered by those who have seen it, is the assembling of pilgrims—often to the number of eight or nine thousand—who come from Jerusalem under a guard of Turkish soldiers to bathe in the waters of the Jordan. They are pilgrims of the Greek church.

What Religion Does.

It is a mistake to suppose that religion is designed to eliminate pleasure from life. Quite the contrary is true. It does inculcate thoughts and principles of a serious and important nature. But in doing so it promotes pleasure of the choicest and most enduring variety. It brings more worldly amusement under due limitation, and employs it chiefly as a relaxation of life. Religion brings its own pleasure with it. Extirpating nothing innocent, it makes innocence itself a bliss. Discouraging nothing cheerful, it renders cheerfulness itself a common habit by grafting into the heart something to be cheerful over. It regulates the intellectual machinery, gives poise to thought, symmetry to plans, and harmony to purposes. It enthrones spiritual good as the law of life, and imparts qualities of richness, sweetness and joy to right actions and helpful words. It promotes longevity by inculcating temperate habits and proper care of all the physical organs and powers. It imparts correct and healthful views of our earthly existence by teaching that every creature of God is good, and nothing to be despised, and that it is the privilege of all believers to use this world as not abusing it. It is the normal condition of complete beings. Sin gives no real advantage to anyone, but holiness does. Sin destroys. It mars perfection. It clogs aspiration. It cripples endeavor. Holiness upbuilds. It engenders completeness. It fans legitimate ardor. It crowns all laudable effort with true success. Paul embodied common sense and true philosophy in his beautiful statement that "Godliness is profitable unto all things, having the promise of the life that now is and of that which is to come."

Bought His Own Statue.

There was grief in a Chicago household one day when a careless servant allowed a piece of valuable statuary to fall and break in a dozen pieces. The girl had a good cry and offered to pay for the marble, but that was out of the question. The man servant, who was also coachman and landscape gardener, was instructed to take the fragments of the art treasure and dispose of them.

It happened that he knew a thing or two. Instead of dumping the pieces into an ash barrel he took them to a repair shop, where they were carefully glued together by an expert workman. When the job was completed the servant took the marble to a dealer in antiquities and objects of art, explained how he came into possession of it and received an equivalent of two weeks' wages above the cost of repairs. Some weeks later the original owner came upon the marble in the show window. He could hardly believe his senses, as he had bought his marble as an original, and here was another original. He went into the shop and priced the figure.

"That's very cheap," he remarked. "I must explain to you," said the dealer, "that it has been broken and repaired. He pointed out the faint lines showing where the pieces had been joined, and then the former owner recognized his property. He couldn't claim it, as he had once ordered it thrown away. Neither could he accuse the servant of theft. He bought the marble and took it home with him, and the man servant nearly fainted when he saw it in its old place on the mantel.

Counterfeits

A few years ago a great discovery was made.

Unprincipled persons are trying to prey upon and dupe people who are led to ask for kidney treatment.

Some of the methods adoptee by imitators are as follows:

First—To imitate the size, color and shape of Dodd's Kidney Pills and sell them by count.

Second—To put them up to appear very nearly the same and to be offered at the same price.

Third—To hook on the work "kidney" in naming cathortic pills so as to increase sales of mere physic.

Fourth—To give a name so near to Dodd's that unwary people may be deceived and think they are getting Dodd's.

Look out for such dodges. When you want kidney medicine you want the best. And ought not to be the subject for any trick.

So beware.

When we go out to meet trouble we never have a long walk.

Why Contemplate Suicide?

It is like tempting Providence for consumptives to ignore the remarkable remedy known as Miller's Emulsion of Norwegian Cod Liver Oil. For any person to die of consumption without trying this remarkable flesh and blood maker, after knowing of its existence, is suicide pure and simple. All that the consumptive patient needs is new blood with which to battle against the destructive forces of the disease, Miller's Emulsion provides new blood in abundance. It is a combination of Norwegian Oil and hypophosphites of lime and soda—a triumph of science. Miller's Emulsion is the great nerve strengthener and blood maker, and cures Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis, Scrofula and all Lung affections. In big bottles, 50c. and $1, at all drug stores.

When we want to help our neighbor in distress there is no use in telling the rest of the world about it. Let him do that.

Tore His Flesh in Agony.

"I was troubled with blind itching piles for 20 years; was unable to work, and tore my flesh in agony. United States and Canadian doctors failed to relieve. Chase's Ointment was a God-send. I am a better man than in 20 years, and am able to work every day." Philip Wallace, blacksmith, Iroquois, Ont. Chase's Ointment cures piles, eczema and irritant diseases. All druggists 60c. per box.

A man never appreciates the best of life until he has known the worst of it.

Bad Blood Between Them.

The ever-slaving farmer's wife, her delicate sister in the city, suffer more than they care to tell. The dark rings around the eyes, headaches, dizziness, palpitation or rheumatic twinges, betoken a run-down system. The blood is poor, and is a bar to enjoyment of life Scott's Sarsaparilla purifies the blood, strengthens and vitalizes the system, and speedily restores the bloom of health to the cheeks. It cures when all others fail.

A Prominent Londoner.

Chase's Ointment is an invaluable remedy for itching Piles and in my own case I would pay $50 it if it could not be otherwise hard.

A HEAVY MORTGAGE.

How a prominent farmer quickly lifted it.

A mortgage has been described as an incentive to industry, a heavy mortgage, as a sure sign o ruin. The last is particularly true, for if a mortgage is allowed to run it will eat up the farm. In this connection Mr. Henry Fowler, of Huron writes: "From my boyhood scrofula had marked me for a victim and it seemed as if it had a life mortgage on my blood. I suffered fearfully with sores, and knowing my condition I have remained a single man. Doctor after doctor prescribed for me, and finally a Toronto specialist told me bluntly that my complaint was a deep-seated, incurable, blood disease. Sarsaparilla I knew was a good blood medicine, and I sent for a bottle of the best. Mr. Todd, the druggist, sent me Scott's Sarsaparilla, and I have stuck to it. It has lifted my mortgage, for to-day I am free from those horrible sores, my eyesight is not blurred, my tongue is not furry, and I have no irritation. I look upon Scott's Sarsaparilla as a marvellous medicine when it will cure a life long disease in so short a time."

Scrofula, pimples, running sores, rheumatism and all diseases generated by poisonous humors in the blood are cured by Scott's Sarsaparilla. The kind that cures. Sold only in concentrated form at $1 per bottle by your druggist. Dose from half to one teaspoonful.

A Blow From a Dead Hand.

"Seeing the picture of that dead man in yesterday's Journal reminded me of an experience of my own which I will never forget," said Henry Billups, a retired engineer, of Denver, Colo., at the Kimball. "Why it should do so I cannot tell, as there is nothing similar in the two cases; but it does and I will relate the incident. It occurred when I was running a night train on the Santa Fe road, back in the '70s. This particular night had been stormy and threatening, and the flashes of lightning were frequent and intense. We were running ahead of our schedule, in order to make a siding in time to allow an extra to pass us, and were traveling, I suppose, at the rate of about thirty or thirty-five miles an hour. I was sitting with my face close to the forward window of the cab, gazing straight ahead, when in a brilliant blaze of electricity a man's arm and head suddenly burst with great force through the glass and the open hand struck me squarely in the face. I was dazed for an instant by the blow, and held blindly to the side of the cab. My first thought was that some tramp was trying to hold up my train to rob the passengers, and acting on this idea I seized my wrench from its place and dealt the head of the intruder a blow with all my might. The fireman, thinking I had killed the man, shut off steam and we slowed down and took our lanterns to examine the strange visitor. I could not describe the feeling that crept over me when I climbed upon the engine and looked at the man whom I believed had attacked me. His entire body below the arms was gone. It was easy to understand what had happened. He had been struck by the rapidly moving engine and his body severed as with a knife, the lower half falling to one side and the head and arms flying straight through the cab window."—Atlanta Journal.

An Intelligent Thunderbolt.

Almost every day we encounter proof that "truth is stranger than fiction." A story comes from a town in New York State which no one for a moment can doubt. A veracious chronicler states that shortly after the return of a prodigal son, a calf on the farm of his parents was struck and killed by lightning. As if this incident was not a strong enough hint to induce the old folks to "do the rest," the electric fluid also hit the family Bible, opened it and marked the verse in Luke which read: "And bring hither the fatted calf and kill it and let us eat and be merry." This solicitous thunderbolt was evidently a graduate of a theological seminary, and a thorough student of the Scriptures, albeit some credulous persons may say that it was in collusion with the modern prodigal. Of course no reasonable man or woman will entertain such a hypothesis. The only surprising thing about the incident is the neglect of the lightning, which killed the fatted calf, to follow up its work by going out into the potato patch and plowing up a peck of the esculents, peeling them and conveying them to the kitchen to roast with the veal. Such an intelligent and accommodating thunderbolt should have made a complete job while it was about it—even to splitting the wood to cook the dinner.

One Brass Band in China.

There is only one native band in China. It is, in fact, the only band of any kind in Northern China, except those on the foreign men-of-war, and it created a great sensation when Maj. von Hanegan sent it to Pekin to play in the "forbidden city," where the Emperor lives. Neither he nor the Empress Dowager, who is the power behind the throne and the most influential personage in China, or any other member of the court had ever heard foreign music before. They were delighted. The Empress Dowager was particularly pleased, and the director of the band told me that her favorite piece was "Marching Through Georgia." So much was she impressed that Li Hung Chang, who was then in disgrace and trying to get back into her favor, sent to Paris and bought her an orchestrion for 3,000 francs, making it a condition that it should be able to play this air, in connection with fourteen other selections. The instrument came shortly before I arrived in Pekin, and was put up at the palace by a Swiss merchant, through whom it was purchased. When it was in order he wound it up and sent for the Empress Dowager. She came into the room with her ladies in waiting, took her seat with great ceremony, and then Mr. Telleu turned on the tunes. The old lady was paralyzed. They say that the Empress Dowager does very little else nowadays but listen to that orchestrion. She finds it a very welcome change from the gongs and cymbals and triangles and drums which the Chinese use for music.—Washington Post.

Alcohol From Lime and Coal Dust.

The recent discovery of Mr. Wilson of acetylene gas from lime and coal dust treated with electricity from carbon electrodes has made it possible to produce ethyl alcohol so cheap that all other processes will be abandoned. Should this discovery prove to be what is expected alcohol will be made for 2c or 3c a gallon, or even less. Its uses in the arts will be largely increased, and as a beverage it could be cheapened to an enormous extent. The occupation of distilling will be superseded, and the manufacture of whisky and other alcoholic beverages will change, and the great problems which center around them commercially, scientifically and socially will have new features. —Popular Science News.
