plain about everything that you do!

The Gem will cover any issues that people feel are important, even if only one person thinks it is important (as long as it complies to our submission policy). This means that if someone indicates that they would like to read something about homosexual issues, we will print them. One person wrote in and complained because we only covered homosexual issues and neglected issues such as bestiality, masturbation, and incest. Well buddy, if we left out your little sexual fantasies I apologize, but if you would like to submit something on those issues, we'll certainly print them. But... then people will probably write in and say that I have sex with my horse. Come on people, grow up! You're in university now not junior high, and its time you stopped being so closed minded!! Oh, and if its any of your damn business, no I'm not homosexual, and neither are any of my staff members to my knowledge.

I apologize for thinking that you might care to read some articles written by the bigger universities in Canada. I guess the open minded people go the Memorial, U of T, and McGill, while the closed minded people go to U.P.E.I.!!

T.L.H.

P.S. This editorial is only for those of you to whom it applies, and you know who you are. I realize that not everybody here at UPEI is close-minded. However, we never seem to hear from you open-minded people out there.

Dear 'TS'

You sound a little bitter. Is it because you have to walk 20 min. to school. Remember, where you live was your choice. There's plenty of room in residence, feel free to move in. By the way, if you did own a car, and were paying $500 rent per month to live in a building that had handy parking, wouldn't you be just a little bothered that your landlord made you park three blocks away??

Attention Submitters

I would like to remind you that not every submission gets in the issue it was submitted for. If you will read our submissions policy, you will find that we reserve the right to edit submissions due to taste and "space" limitations. This means that if we are running an eight page issue, many submissions will be left out. Unless we are notified otherwise, these submissions will automatically be put into the next issue, unless we decide not to run them at all.

I would also like to remind you that we only accept hand or typewritten submissions through our mail slot or submissions mailed to VAX account GEM. We do not accept submissions on disc as we do not have a micro-computer.

Please do not phone or write to our office and complain that we "forgot" your submission last week. We rarely "forget" submissions, so if yours is not in the paper, there is probably a good reason.
