

CURRENT NOTES.

The Masonic difficulty in Montreal, has for the present been settled.
 The injury to the American corn-crop is not so great as was anticipated.
 La Patrie reports that the police frustrated a plot to kill King Alfonso during the latter's stay in Paris.
 English detectives have just returned from America, with valuable information concerning the extent of the Fenian conspiracy.
 The North German Gazette denies that the powers are irritated against Russia because of recent events in Bulgaria. It says none of the powers desire war or anything else from Russia.
 Ground was broken a few days ago at Fort Covington, New York, on the United States and Canada railway, connecting it with the Montreal and Champlain railway. The two lines are expected to be in full operation before the snow falls.
 This is certainly an age of progress. Farmer Simpson, having manured his wheat fields with baking powder, his crop shot up luxuriantly, and were harvested in the shape of shilling loaves, all ready buttered; a result only paralleled by the success of Mrs. Simpson with the washing powder, which she sprinkled at night over the fine linen, and in the morning it was all mangled and ironed in the drawers.
 The Arab of the desert is pronounced by a recent traveller to be a continual fraud and shami, with his haughty, frowning air, his gravity and laziness, his courage and courtesy, these qualities being only a mask only to hide a soul which is often mean, grasping, cowardly, and treacherous, and which only his brother Arab knows how to estimate at its true value.
 Sir Alexander Cockburn, the late Chief Justice of England, thought more of the spirit than the letter of the law. When an unknown barrister, he was intrusted with the defence of a man who, having been forced into an encounter by a noted duellist, killed him. "Gentlemen," he said to the jury, "my learned friend has told you that this is murder. His Lordship will tell you that it is murder; I know that it is no murder, and you know that it is no murder." After these words, the jury at once returned a verdict of "Not Guilty."
 The Toronto Globe has discovered another sweet morsel to roll under its tongue. There is more trouble in the world to rejoice over. It says:—
 "The practical completion of the Northern Pacific Railway, and of the plains section of the Canadian Railway, is of importance in more ways than one. There is still a great deal to be done to fully equip these roads, but now that the rails are all down, the demand for steel rails and other materials employed in laying them must fall off very considerably. The lessened sale of these articles must have a sensible effect on the demand for coal and for iron ore. Thus a great many men will be thrown out of employment. This will effect, indirectly, the business of the whole world."
