

Sports Arena Will Have Big Fight Card May 10

No one has ever accused Ivan Doherty, Charlottetown boxing promoter, of not having given local fight fans the worth of their admission tickets. But in the fight card which he has arranged for the opening of the summer's boxing shows at the Sports Arena on May 10, Ivan has outdone himself.

The main bout of ten rounds will bring together 23-year-old Jackie Hayden, Western Canada lightweight champion, and Edgar Stover of New York City, a 24-year-old colored boy who would sooner fight than eat and who does both about as well as it is possible to do them.

The first semi-final (six rounds) will see Don (Duck) Trainor, Charlottetown middleweight, attempt the climb back to fight prominence against Dick Hill, an American colored boxer who cut a wide swath as a middleweight in the U.S. Marines and who, on April 8, won his first and only fight since being mustered out of the Navy. That fight was at the St. Nicholas Arena.

The second six-round bout will see the always crowd-pleasing Gaston Roy swap punches with a vastly improved Roy (Tiger) Steele. Bobby Quinn, one of the Island's cleverest boxers, will go against Jimmie Gillis of New Glasgow in the curtain raiser.

Jackie Hayden will be out to show Charlottetown fight fans when he goes against Stover. He is a fit claimant for the British Empire Lightweight Championship now held by Tawee of South Africa. It is understood that Matchmaker Doherty has arrangements practically concluded for having Pat McCoy, Irish lightweight champion, meet Hayden here with in the next few weeks. But no one knows better than the Westville boy that if he is going to get a match with Tawee, he must take Stover here on May 10 and McCoy when they meet later on. But Hayden who lost a split decision to Kid Howard believes he can beat both Stover and McCoy.

As for the Trainor-Hill match, no one knows better than the Charlottetown boy that, so far as he is concerned, this is it. "Duck" Trainor has in his mind one or two other fights, but he has not yet decided on any of them. There was a time, but two or three short years ago, when more than one American fight manager predicted great things for "Duck." He had speed, game, power, and a punch. Then some sort of a virus sneaked up on "Duck," caught him when he was in a run-down condition, and robbed him of his reserve strength and vitality. In that shape, "Duck" fought more than one ring battle in which he had nothing to offer more than courage when he climbs through the ropes against an opponent who also has courage and who is in perfect physical condition besides. For this bout, however, "Duck" Trainor will be in the finest condition of his career. The virus has long since gone. So are its effects. His handlers predict that the boy who steps to the center of the ring on the night of May 10 will be a revelation to the fans.

It is hard to restrain oneself in writing of the Gaston Roy-Tiger Steele bout. From every aspect it is a natural. Roy is one of the gamest, hardest-biting, middleweights in the Maritimes. So far as cleverness is concerned, he will never be a Joe Gans, a Benny Leonard, or a Jack Britton. But that does not mean that he is as easy to hit as the previous sentence might imply. He blocks punches well, but he is not a defensive fighter. He likes to get in close and he dislikes giving ground. He believes in punching until something gives.

In this bout, however, Roy will be going against a fellow who likes the going when it is rough and bumpy. Steele has not always done himself justice under the big lights. Inclined to complacency in recent years he has found it hard work getting into fighting trim and has sometimes left a few extra pounds on his back. Steele's boxing skill to keep himself out of trouble. But this time, "Tiger" has really got down to business. His flesh is as hard as nails, his wind good, and his timing as accurate as in the full flush of his career. The "Tiger" that Gaston faces on the night of May 10 is going to be a hungry one, out for the kill.

Few local fight fans know much about Jimmie Gillis, the boy who meets Charlottetown's Bobby Quinn in the preliminary. But New Glasgow has always had a reputation for turning out good, well-conditioned boxers, and Jimmie Gillis is said to be no exception. In Bobby Quinn he will be meeting a boy who knows his way around a ring and who can hit, step, and get away with as much finesse as many a more experienced ringman. It should be a good fight.

All in all Friday night, May 10, should witness one of the best fight cards at the Sports Arena that this city has seen in years.

Cincinnati Defeats Philadelphia 6-3

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Cincinnati's scattered Brooks Lawrence scattered nine hits and teammate Frank Robinson swatted a three-run homer Tuesday night as the Redlegs defeated Philadelphia Phillies 6-3.

Lawrence weathered Philadelphia hitting in every inning but the sixth and seventh to rack up his second victory against one loss.

Starter Harvey Haddix replaced by Dick Farrell in the fifth, took the defeat for a 1-1 record.

Robinson connected in the third, the inning which spelled doom for the third-place Phillies. Lawrence, Wally Post and Gus Bell had angled prior to Robinson's big moment, with Lawrence scoring a 2-1 lead with two goals 33 seconds apart.

Burns scored an unassisted goal at the 31-second mark of the third before Kromm cut the lead to 3-2 seven minutes later. From then on, Whitby took complete control of the play. Burns scored while Dunlops were shorted. Etcher and Williams got Whitby's fifth and sixth markers.

Whitby thus became the first team ever to win the Canadian senior championship after stepping up to the A category from a B league.

The Ontario Hockey Association this season allowed the entire eastern senior B group to move to senior A status. Dunlops were a little chance to go anywhere but upset Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen, Allan Cup champions two years ago, and North Bay Trappers in their march to the Canadian finals.

Last year's Allan Cup winners, Vernon Canadians, were eliminated from the western Canada final by Spokane, who looked inept against their eastern rivals in the entire final series. They showed some signs of prolonging the series in the first half of Tuesday night's game, but as in the other games couldn't hold the powerful Dunlops.

The teams battled through a scoreless first period. Zahara gave Spokane a brief 1-0 lead at 10:35 of the second when he tipped in Carl Curillo's long shot. Less than two minutes later Ed Harsley, coming out late in the first, scored with linemates Samolenko and playing coach Bus Gagnon, gave Dunlops a 2-1 lead with two goals 33 seconds apart.

Burns scored an unassisted goal at the 31-second mark of the third before Kromm cut the lead to 3-2 seven minutes later. From then on, Whitby took complete control of the play. Burns scored while Dunlops were shorted. Etcher and Williams got Whitby's fifth and sixth markers.

Whitby Dunlops Win Allan Cup

TORONTO (CP) — Whitby Dunlops Tuesday night won the Allan Cup in their first season of senior A hockey as they exploded for four third-period goals to defeat Spokane Flyers 6-2 and take the best-of-seven series in four straight games.

Before a wildly screaming crowd of 6,259 fans, Dunlops again showed the power which had carried them to victories in the first three games. They spotted the western Canada champions a 1-0 lead early in the second period but after that were much superior to their rivals.

Centres Charlie Burns and Bob Atterley and leftwingers Fred Etcher and Doug Williams scored the winners' goals. Centre John Zahara and leftwinger Bob Kromm scored for Spokane.

Johnny Antonelli Checks Milwaukee

NEW YORK (AP) — Johnny Antonelli checked Milwaukee's early rush, pitching the New York Giants to a 4-0 shutout Tuesday night that snapped the Braves' four-game winning streak and handed them their second loss in 11 starts.

Antonelli, making his fourth start of the season, handcuffed the Braves with seven hits, only one of which came after the fourth inning. In addition, he poked one of the two giant homers off loser Bob Buhl to drive in half his team's runs. Dusty Rhodes accounted for the other two runs with his first homer of the campaign.

A crowd of 15,333 saw the Braves open their 12-game eastern swing on the wrong foot. They had runners on bases in each of the first four innings but could not crack through Antonelli's strong pitching when a hit meant a run.

The victory was Antonelli's second against two defeats. Buhl, now has a 1-1 record.

Lemon Gets First Victory As Indians Beat Senators

CLEVELAND (AP) — Bob Lemon got his first victory of the season for the Cleveland Indians Tuesday night 5-1 by holding the Washington Nationals to two hits in eight innings he hurled and hitting a home run off loser Pedro Ramos. Gene Woodling also homered for the tribe.

Lemon, who has not finished a game in four starts, needed help from Ray Narleski in the eighth inning for the winning two batters. Narleski retired the next seven batters in order.

Woodling's homer in the first and Lemon's in the third gave the Indians a 2-0 lead. The Tribe scored another run in the seventh on singles by Roger Maris and Jim Busby and an error, one of four made by the nationals.

Two more runs scored in the eighth when Bob Avila singled and Woodling doubled him home. Woodling took third on a wild relay by Pete Runnels and scored on a sacrifice fly by Al Smith.

The Senators got their only run when Neil Chrissy scored from second on Hank Berberet's fifth-inning single, the first hit given up by Lemon. Pete Runnels got the only other Washington hit, a single in the sixth.

Robinson Is Better Fighter Than He Was On January 2

By WHITNEY MARTIN NEW YORK (AP) — After Gene Fullmer won the middleweight championship from Ray Robinson Jan. 2, a fellow wrote that Robinson never would be a better fighter than he was that night, and if they met again the outcome would be the same.

The vacillating, spineless fellow, meaning this correspondent, who penned those words now is reversing his field like a scaback. Robinson, it says here, will be a better fighter when he meets Fullmer in Chicago Wednesday night than he was Jan. 2, and the outcome will be reversed.

We seldom take much stock in what we see in a training camp. So many good fighters have looked like bums when preparing for a bout, and so many bums have looked like good fighters.

But in this case we came away from Robinson's camp greatly impressed by what we had seen, and heard.

We haven't seen Fullmer since he won the championship, and maybe he wouldn't be changing our original idea of the outcome of the Wednesday fight if we had seen him, although we doubt it.

WHY CHANGE? We believe we know pretty much how Fullmer would look in the gym, and how he will look Wednesday night. He'll be the Fullmer of the previous fight, a plodding, mauling battler with unlimited determination and ability to absorb punishment. He can't change and, after all, his awkward style was good enough to win before, so why should he change?

So the difference has to be in Robinson, the picture fighter who can adapt himself to any situation.

We aren't forgetting the manner in which Fullmer belabored Robinson in the clinches in their last meeting.

Nor have we forgotten that Robinson landed tremendous body blows that failed even to slow up the rugged lad from Utah. Even Robinson's flurries failed to daunt him.

Algerian Fighter Wins Decision MONTREAL (CP) — Cherif Hamia of Algeria pounced out a unanimous 10-round decision over Bobby Bell of Youngstown, Ohio, Tuesday night to boost his stock as a leading contender for the vacant world featherweight title. Hamia weighed 127½, Bell 132.

The clever little sharpshooter scored repeatedly with lightning left jabs and kept Bell off balance. There was no semblance of a knockdown throughout the fight.

Sugar Ray And Fullmer In Title Bout Tonight

By JACK HAND Associated Press Staff Writer CHICAGO (AP) — Sugar Ray Robinson will try to win the world Middleweight title for the fourth time tonight when he meets champion Gene Fullmer in a battle of faded ring skill against the brute strength of confident youth.

Fullmer, a 25-year-old mauler from the Utah copper mines, lifted Robinson's crown by a unanimous decision, Jan. 2 at New York, flooring the sugar man and cutting his left eye.

The rematch is expected to draw about 12,000 fans at Chicago Stadium and a gate of about $150,000. Unless there is a wild late scramble, these figures will be considerably below the New York show of 18,134 and $194,645.

Radio-television receipts of $100,000 will boost the gate to the point where each fighter's cut of 30 per cent of TV and gate should be about $65,000. It will be Fullmer's first big pay day for he had to agree to take only 12½ per cent of $21,000 in the first fight to Robinson's 47½ per cent or $138,000. Last time Robinson got all the TV money.

ODDS JUMPING AROUND Under the pressure of pre-fight ballyhoo the odds have been jumping around. From an original 3 to 1 on Fullmer you hear quote

Robinson's age is almost as hard to nail down as the price. The ring record books says he will be 37 on Friday but Ray insists he will be 36. In any event, all his years showed in January when he was man-handled by a crude bullyboy who never will know the skill of a Robinson at his prime.

Detroit Tigers Edge Yanks, White Sox Beat Baltimore

By THE CANADIAN PRESS Right-hander Dube Maas restricted the powerful New York lineup to three hits Tuesday and Frank Bolling cracked a 10th-inning home run to lead Detroit Tigers in a 2-1 win over the Yankees.

Bollings' homer, his third of the season, ended a tense pitching duel. Maas struck out seven and was in trouble in just one inning—the third, when New York scored its run on Andy Carey's blooper behind first base and Hank Bauer's long double.

In the other American League day game, lefty Billy Pierce got back in the groove after being bombed from the mound in his last two starts as Chicago White Sox stifled Baltimore Orioles on six hits to maintain their league lead with a 6-1 victory.

A dropped ball by second baseman Billy Hardner on an attempted force-out in the third inning led to an unearned run that gave the Sox a 2-0 bulge. After yielding a run in the fifth, the Sox caved in pitcher Ray Moore with four runs in the seventh to nail down their eighth triumph in 10 games. Pierce boosted his record to 3-1.

The big seventh would have been bigger had not shortstop Willie Miranda retired the side with a spectacular backhanded stab near third of Sherm Lollar's grounder to throw him out.

Bollings' home run at Detroit came off Bob Grim, who had taken over at the beginning of the 10th after starter Johnny Kucks was lifted for a pinch hitter. Kucks yielded only five safeties in the nine innings he worked and the only damage off him was Bolling's fourth-inning triple which was converted into a run on a sacrifice fly by Al Kaline.

The Yankees didn't collect a hit from the time they came in the fourth until Gil McDougald doubled with one away in the 10th.

Baseball Plans Being Made Although the ground is still a little too damp to play baseball plans are already being made. A meeting of the St. Mary's Baseball Club has been called by President Stu Sanford for Thursday night at the Parish Hall.

This will be a very important meeting, so fans and players, how about it? Plans will be formed for the repeating of the diamond, which, by the way, is in pitiful condition. Other important
