

REV. AND MRS. W. E. McDOWELL AND ATTENDANTS

Wedding Of Wide Interest Solemnized In N. Bedeque

Mixed flowers of roses, regal lilies, snapdragons and sweet peas formed the setting in the North Bedeque United Church on Thursday, August 8th, when Thirza Winnifred, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Scott Cairns, Freetown, became the bride of William Edey, son of Dr. and Mrs. S. Earl McDowell, Shawville, Quebec. The ceremony was performed by Rev. St. Grant Walls, assisted by Rev. Robert E. Osborne, minister of St. Andrew's Kirk Church, St. John, N.B.

Mrs. Ralph Douglas, organist of Pointe Claire United Church, Montreal, was in charge of the wedding music and played "Praise My Soul, the King of Heaven" as the bride and her father entered the church. The congregation sang "O God of Bethel" and "O God the Rock of Ages." During the signing of the register, Mr. J. B. Lewis sang, "O Perfect Love." The guest pews were marked with bows of white satin ribbon, sweet peas and fern.

The lovely young bride given in marriage by her father wore a white floor-length wedding gown of embroidered nylon over white satin, made in princess style with V neckline front and back, fitted bodice and full skirt. Her fingertip veil of tulle illusion fell gracefully from a Juliet cap, embedded with pearls and iridescent sequins. She carried a cascade bouquet of white carnations.

Miss Louise Cairns was her sister's maid of honor and Miss Gertrude Beckett, R.N., a classmate of the bride, and Miss Amy Cairns another sister, were bridesmaids. They were similarly attired in waltz length gowns of white nylon eyelid over pale green corded taffeta with matching summerbunda hats and gloves. Miss Louise carried a cascade bouquet of pink roses and the bridesmaids carried colonial bouquets of yellow sweetheart roses.

Rev. George MacLean, minister of Glenholme United Church, Nova Scotia, was best man and Mr. Everett McDowell, Shawville, cousin of the groom, and Mr. William Can, brother of the bride, were ushers.

Mrs. Cairns chose for her daughter's wedding a navy lace dress with matching picture hat, white accessories and wore a corsage of white carnations with pink ribbon. Mrs. McDowell, mother of the groom, was attired in a rose coloured lace dress with black picture hat, and white accessories. She wore a corsage of white carnations.

The reception was held at Centreville Bedeque United Church Hall where over sixty-five guests enjoyed a delicious dinner served by the ladies of the church. Mrs. Percy Marchbank and Mrs. Elton Cairns, great aunts of the bride, presided over the tea. The toast to the bride was proposed by Rev. Robert E. Osborne and fittingly responded to by the groom. The toasts to the bridesmaids was proposed by the groom and responded to by the groomsmen.

Dr. McDowell, father of the groom, Shawville, Quebec, who was on his first visit to P. E. Island gave an excellent address in which he complimented those present on the beauty of the island.

Many telegrams from out of the province friends were read by Rev. George MacLean. These included a telegram from the groom's sister, Miss Fay McDowell, R.N., who is presently in Hong Kong.

The church hall and tables were beautifully decorated with mixed bouquets and baskets of flowers. Miss Helen Pendleton R.N. was in charge of the guest book.

Following the reception the happy couple left on a honeymoon trip throughout the Maritimes. For travelling the bride donned a brown printed silk two piece dress with white accessories and a corsage of yellow roses.

The bride is a graduate of Mount Allison University of Sackville, N.B., and of the Royal Victoria Hospital school of nursing, Montreal. Previous to her marriage she was on the staff of the Royal Victoria. The groom is a graduate of Queen's University Kingston. They will reside in Montreal, where the groom is presently Minister of Norwood United Church.

Previous to her marriage Winnifred was the recipient of many beautiful gifts. Miss Gertrude Beckett, R.N. of the Royal Victoria Hospital, Montreal, was hostess at a delightfully arranged shower in her honor at which her classmates presented her with lovely gifts.

On Tuesday evening, July 30th, a large number of neighbours and friends and relatives gathered at Winnifred's home in Lower Freetown and presented her with beautiful gifts.

To the strains of the wedding march played by Miss Ruth Cairns, cousin of the bride, Winnifred was escorted to the seat of honour by her sister, Mrs. Douglas Ferguson. Miss Marion Cairns and Miss Gail Stavert carried in the many well laden baskets of presents which were opened by Mrs. Prowse Gardiner and Mrs. Gerald MacCarville and the verses read by Mrs. Kenneth Simmons and Mrs. Kenneth MacLean. Mrs. Lois Yeo and Mrs. Walter E. Stavert arranged the gifts on the table.

Winnifred in a few well chosen words thanked the people sincerely for their lovely gifts and invited all to visit them at their new home in Montreal. The remainder of the evening was spent in music and games.

A bountiful lunch was served by the ladies. After a very pleasant evening all returned to their homes wishing Winnifred and William many years of happy married life. — Photo by D. W. Sears.

ELLEN'S DIARY

Land Of Make-Believe Enchants Us As Of Yore

The playhouse in the orchard, a wondrous dwelling, admitting then the glory of the sunlight, claimed the children this morning. Perhaps it had become even more desirable than usual after the ordered round and demanding of the week of school ended. Here as at their "September Island" but to enter, was to be immediately transported to that fairy "never-never" kingdom, the beloved land of Make-Believe. The young voices and happy laughter drew us to the back verandah. So pleasant a morning it was, and engaging the scene.

They obviously much interested in their play in the smallest party-wire structure, were close by to shelter them from any cooling riving winds, ancient boughs bent beneath the weight of ripening fruit. Fields away, cattle grazed vari-hued in their pasture, and patterning the farmlands prettily, the grain was coming up now to the harvest.

The growing moon, setting her course by bright boons of stars along the blue channels of night, boyaiges now above quiet fields and farmsteads. Small ones who have played hard by day are abed by this, mothers, we fancy, attending to last minute details in the preparations "for Sunday" pressing out a little frock, or maybe putting last stitches in a hem let-down; sewing a button on a young jacket, polishing shoes in a sacrament the years

College Girls Eye Fashions

NEW YORK (AP)—If you want the lowdown on French fashions, talk to an American college girl who has seen the Paris collections.

Joan Simpson, a student at Bennett Junior College in Millbrook, N.Y., and the daughter of New York dress designer Adele Simpson, and Joan's best friend, Arlyn Miner of Chicago, a Wellesley student, have just returned from a tour of Europe, where they saw the works under the wings of Joan's mother.

"I got a completely new view of fashions from the girls," says Adele. "It was a fresh, accent-on-youth approach that did me good. They liked all the things I thought were awful, and vice versa. It was a fine way for a designer to get out of a rut."

Joan loved all the middy tops and pleated skirts, for instance, and all the gunnysacks. As to the new silhouette variously described as "spindle," "barrel" and "oval," Joan says:

"I'd just call them all eggs—and I think that's the best term, because they come scrambled, hard-boiled or soft."

The girls liked the short dresses too, although some of the more extreme examples elicited the following remark from the junior Simpson:

"The models look just like cigarette girls—all they need is a tray on one hip."

The two college girls scored all the Paris hats, but went into ecstasies over the gondoliers' hats in Venice—those wide-brimmed natural straw skimmers with streamers down the back. Both girls wore them all over Europe and brought them back home, all set to start a new hat fad.
