GREAT BRITISH KING COMES TO REST WITH ANCESTORS

Reds Make New Proposals For Conference

More Than Half World's People Pause For Brief Time In Homage To King

(Canadian Press)
More than half the world's people dropped their tasks for a few moments Friday to pay silent homage to the memory of King George VI on his funeral day.
As Londoners sat huddled on cold sidewalks at midnight waiting for the funeral procession to begin, Australians and New Zealanders were already streaming through streets bathed in mid-winter sunshine to attend memorial services.
The tributes followed the sun around the earth from east to west, embracing people of all races, colors and political creeds.
In Russia, officials of the Soviet Foreign Ministry joined diplomats in a memorial service at the British Embassy in Moscow.
On the battle front in Korea, Commonwealth guns were silenced and men climbed out of frozen foxholes to stand, with heads bared, for two minutes' silence.
In the jungles of Malaya, wherever possible anti-bandit fighters halted in their tracks, guns at the ready, to remember their King.
British officials in strife-riddled Egypt charged that Egyptian terrorists took advantage of British troops' attendance at a memorial service to blow up a military train.
Dispatches told how the peoples of the world—both the great and humble—paid their last respects to his memory:
Canada: In Ottawa and across the country citizens gathered in both ceremonial and simple tributes to the King. State officials led in a hushed ceremony on Parliament Hill. The huge Great Bell in the Peace Tower struck at half-minute intervals for 56 minutes. Then a two-minute silence fell, broken by the first shot from a 56-gun salute.
United States: President Truman led official Washington in a special commemorative service arranged by the Bishop of Washington, Dr. Angus Dun, in Westminster Cathedral. British Ambassador Sir Oliver Franks read the lesson, and prayers were offered for the King, the Queen, and the Royal Family. Other cities held similar services.
New Zealand: Sirens and guns summoned people to observe a two-minute silence. Thousands listened to relayed broadcasts of the funeral commentaries.
Australia: Everything came to a halt at noon throughout the vast sun-baked continent. In Melbourne's vast exhibition building, thousands gathered to hear Premier Robert Menzies and other leaders in a special memorial service.
Hong Kong: Humble Chinese fishing folk rubbed shoulders with dignitaries at memorial services.
Singapore: Two weeks of court mourning has been ordered by all nine rulers in the Malay Federation.
South Africa: Churches were crowded from early morning. In Pretoria, a large congregation attended a service at the Dutch Reformed Church—but one black-draped pew was empty. It had been occupied by the royal family when they were in South Africa. Premier Daniel Malan attended the service in Capetown.
Suez Canal: More than 70,000 Britons in the zone stood in silence.

No Immediate Comment By Allied Officers

(By Olen Clements)
MUNSAN, Korea, Feb. 15—(Saturday)—(AP)—Communist truce negotiators today proposed that the concerned governments themselves decide the agenda of the post-armistice conference.
The Red negotiators, Gen. Nam Il presented a one-paragraph proposal at a 15-minute plenary session at Panmunjom.
It called for a political meeting within three months to discuss withdrawal of foreign troops and "peaceful settlement of the Korean problem."
The Reds inserted the significant word "etc." at the end of their proposal describing topics to be discussed.
Vice-Admiral C. Turner Joy, chief Allied negotiator, said "Etc." could mean a lot of things. I will not interpret anything until I have had a chance to study it."
The top truce teams will meet again in Panmunjom at 10 a.m. Sunday (8 p.m. EST Saturday) to discuss the Red proposal.
When Saturday's plenary session ended staff officers began meetings of prisoner exchange and truce supervision.

Duke Of Windsor Plans Two Weeks London Visit

LONDON, Feb. 15—(Reuters)—The Duke of Windsor, who today followed the coffin of his brother the King to his last resting place, intends to spend the next two weeks here.
"He has made no definite plans for his return but it is probable that he will sail for America in the Queen Elizabeth Feb. 28," his secretary said tonight.
The Duke is staying with his mother, Queen Mary, at Marlborough House.
Memory had been sharply stirred in the capital by the first public reappearance of the Duke, 18 years after his abdication, as a principal royal mourner for the brother who succeeded him on the throne.
In his admiral's uniform, he seemed little changed from the sovereign Edward VIII, who in similar uniform, followed the cortege of his father George V in 1936.
The Duke last night had a talk with his old friend, Prime Minister Churchill. Their meeting was believed to have been purely social.
The mass-circulation Daily Express said today that although the Duke and Prime Minister were unlikely to have discussed the Duke's income last night, some state allowances might be under consideration.
"King George is understood to have made an allowance to his brother from his own resources," the newspaper added.

S.D.U. Debaters Defeat Mt. Allison

Debaters of Saint Dunstan's University last night added another win to their growing string when they defeated representatives of Mount Allison University at the local college hall last night.
The Saints won the unanimous decision of the three judges as they upheld the negative of "Resolved that a political union of the three former Maritime Provinces should be effected." Speaking for the Saints were Emmett Roach and Clair Callaghan, while Glen Bartlett and Ken Bagneau represented Mount Allison.
Mr. Brendan O'Grady was chairman for the debate while the three judges were Chief Justice Thane A. Campbell, Judge H. L. Palmer and Mr. Plus Callaghan.

Solemn, Impressive Service In Chapel; Milestone In History

By Alan Harvey
LONDON, Feb. 15—(CP)—Ten days of mourning for a beloved King reached a sorrowful climax today as George VI, perhaps the last of the Windsors, came home to his final resting place.
In a parting tribute to the man who did not seek a kingdom yet added lustre to it, Britain rallied to two great state occasions—a five-mile march of grief from London and a simple funeral service within the walls of Windsor Castle, fortress home of kings.
It was a milestone in the British story, a ritual moment marking the transition from father to daughter—from one respected reign to another already hopefully hailed as the augury of a new Elizabethan age.
The inner chapel of St. George's is a high-ceilinged room with a fan tracery of Cotswold stone reaching high into a tessellated roof. Beneath the tracery on either wall are banners of knights of the Order of the Garter—the most exalted in English chivalry and dating from the days of Edward III.
Beneath the banners are ancient intricate hand-carved woodworkings, each bearing the helmet, sword and crest of the individual knight.
In various vaults are buried kings of the last 150 years, and some before that. Near the royal tomb house are the bodies of Henry VII and his favorite wife, Jane Seymour.
Queen Elizabeth, was tight-lipped.

Tell of Canadian's Heroic Death In Cairo Riots

HAVANA, Cuba, Feb. 15—(AP)—Canadians here today said personal letters from Cairo, Egypt, told details of the heroic death during the Cairo riots of J. MacLeod Boyer, Canadian trade commissioner.
The letter said Boyer died trying to convince a woman to jump from the second-storey window of the Turf Club, set afire by the rioting mobs. Boyer, a native of Victoria, N. B., died Jan. 26.
"Boyer was seen at the window trying to persuade Mrs. Crawford to jump," wrote one man, who saw the incident from another building. "Then, after some time, both were seen to fall back. They died of asphyxiation. He had turned his automobile over to one of the employees of the embassy so she could go home, and took refuge in the Turf Club."
The mob poured kerosene on the building. Those who had taken refuge upstairs began to jump out of windows, landing on the cement area below. Mrs. Reid jumped, and the mob tried to pour kerosene on her and burn her. But an Egyptian employee stood over her with a gun and refused to allow any of the mob to touch her. Then we saw Thomas, the club secretary, jump.
Ivan Kijack, manager of the Royal Insurance Company, and a club overseer were able to get them hidden, and later to a hospital where they are recovering.
"The new government is working hard toward peace."

Canada Mourns Death Of King; Impressive Ceremony At Ottawa

(Canadian Press)
Canada paid silent, solemn homage yesterday to the memory of its late, beloved King—George VI. The gentle hush of a two-minute silence fell across the land as capital, city and hamlet held quiet memorial services for the sovereign. He was buried a few hours earlier in St. George's Chapel at Windsor, Eng., a burial place of British kings for centuries.
The day was one of general mourning throughout Canada. Schools generally were closed. Banks were shut. Other business places were closed either for all or part of the day. Theatres remained closed in most places until evening.
The always, too, quietened. The CBC, except for broadcasts of the funeral services in Britain and the memorial service in Canada, was silent. Private stations were not required to leave the air, but generally programmed only solemn music.
Solmen Ceremony
Ottawa, the capital, led the nation in its last tribute to the King with a solemn ceremony in the grey-stoned Hall of Fame in the Parliament Buildings.
There, before a draped purple velvet curtain at one end of the hall, leaders of state placed wreaths. Outside, before the buildings, a great crowd stood bareheaded as the two-minute silence was observed and cannon began firing 56 rounds in a salute to the departed monarch.
The Parliament ceremony started with the tolling of the 1,100-pound Great Bell of the carillon high in the Peace Tower that rises above the Parliament Buildings. It tolled for 56 minutes—once each 30 seconds—to mark the 56 years of the King's life.
The crowds—estimated at 3,000 persons—gathered early to throng behind the lines of servicemen stationed there, the main building of Parliament.
Inside, a 100-man guard of honor, representative of the three armed services, lined the Hall of Fame. Diplomats, cabinet ministers, members of Parliament and other officials stood silently in reserved areas along the hall.
At 2:33 p.m. EST, massed bands stationed in a nearby committee room played Chopin's funeral march, "Abide With Me," "God Save The Queen" and "O Canada."
The halls quietened. The two-minute silence, marked by the firing of a single gun, began at 2:58. It ended at 3 p.m. with the first of the 56-gun salute.
Officials Place Wreaths
High-ranking officials placed wreaths, five in all, before the velvet curtain, which was flanked by officer representatives of the army, navy, air force and RCMP. Each stood with head bowed.

Russians Pay Oblique Tribute To King George

LONDON, Feb. 15—(Reuters)—The Russians paid an oblique tribute to the King today by easing up on their jamming of Western broadcasts during the funeral of the late monarch.
The BBC had announced in all its Russian programs, since Tuesday that transmissions in Polish and Russian would be cancelled today between 2 p.m. and 2:45 p.m., the time when the King was laid to rest.
The BBC explained that the wave-lengths used to pierce the Iron Curtain would be used to increase coverage of the funeral in England, French, German, Italian, Greek, Finnish, Danish and Norwegian transmissions.
"A check showed that on about half of these additional wave-lengths the jammers, for once, remained silent," an official statement said tonight.

Iranian Leader Shot Near Tehran

TEHRAN, Feb. 15—(AP)—Hossein Fatemi, Prime Minister Mohammed Mousadegh's nationalist aide, was shot today by a fanatic Muslim youth.
Fatemi, 38, was taken to hospital, where physicians said his chances of survival would not be known for several hours. They said the bullet punctured his intestines.
The young gunman fired at point-blank range as Fatemi addressed nationalist followers at a cemetery near Tehran. Authorities identified the assailant as a member of the Moslem terrorist organization, Fedayan Islam, which already boasts the assassination of one Iranian prime minister during the last year.
The authorities said an inscription posted on the youth's gun said: "We demand freedom for Navab Safavi," a Fedayan Islam leader now in prison.
The gunman was seized by the angry crowd at the cemetery. He gave his name only as Mohammed.

Prince Charles Watches Funeral

LONDON, Feb. 15—(Reuters)—A sturdy little boy with serious blue eyes watched the King's funeral procession from a window in St. James's Palace today.
He was Prince Charles, three, heir to the throne and grandson of the late king.
The Prince looked down on the procession from beginning to end, yet hardly knowing what it was all about, seeing only the splendor and majesty of the pageant.
He was with his nurse, Miss Helen Lightbody.

Funeral Sidelights

BARNES, England, Feb. 15—(AP)—William Caudle and his wife, both about 70, collapsed and died within a few moments of each other today while watching the King's funeral procession on television.
ABOARD THE AIRLINER ATHENA, OVER THE BAY OF BISGAY, Feb. 15—(Reuters)—Speeding through space at 308 miles an hour, the crew and passengers of this British airliner today observed the two-minute silence in memory of the King.
Like other British pilots the world over, Capt. F. A. Taylor kept a careful check on British time as he took his plane on its way to Lisbon.
Just before 2 p.m. he entered the main passenger salon. The 40 passengers rose and stood with him in silence.

Yugoslav Has Worst Storm In 100 Years

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia, Feb. 15—(Reuters)—The famed Orient Express, which crosses Europe from Paris to Istanbul, was held up today by a snow-drift on the Yugoslav frontier in the worst storm in the district for 100 years.
DEAN OF SENAT
OTTAWA, Feb. 15—(CP)—Senator Thomas J. Bourque of Richibucto, N. B., now is dean of the senate both in age and length of service.
Until the death this week of Sir Allen Aylesworth in Toronto, Senator Bourque, 87, was senior in length of service only. Sir Allen, 92, was appointed to the senate in 1923.
Senator Bourque was appointed in 1917.

Seek To Settle Germany's Role In Western Defence

LONDON, Feb. 15—(AP)—Western leaders worked feverishly behind the scenes of a British monarch's funeral today to stave off a major diplomatic failure—a failure to settle West Germany's role in the defence of Europe.
Official sources reported these developments:
1. United States, Britain and French foreign ministers arranged definitely to meet here Sunday—whether the present French Government is in office or not after tomorrow's confidence vote.
2. They arranged also a face-to-face talk with West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer for Monday on future Allied-German military and political relations.
Two special meetings were set up for tomorrow as a prelude to the full-dress conferences.
First, Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden will talk with Adenauer at the Foreign Office.
Then State Secretary Dean Acheson and four close advisers will go into conference with Eden and his aides. The Anglo-American discussion will range far beyond Germany—and likely will deal with Atlantic Pact business, the situation in the Far East, Middle East matters and Russian foreign policy.

Driver Falls Asleep At Wheel, Four Men Killed

AILSA CRAIG, Ont., Feb. 15—(CP)—An automobile, whose driver apparently fell asleep at the wheel, rammed into a tree near here today, killing four passengers. Three others were injured.
Ed Hunniford, 30, of Thorndorf, Ont., the driver, and three soldiers from Camp Ipperwash lost their lives. The three other occupants, all soldiers, were injured; two severely.
Names of the soldiers, members of the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, were withheld pending notification of next-of-kin. It is believed some came from Western Canada.
Al Bridget, owner of a garage in this town, 20 miles northwest of London, was called to help remove the dead and injured from the car.
Bridget said "We had to pry the car apart to get at the victims. When we got there there were two dead soldiers in the front seat. Another was lying across the back of the front seat. He was dreadfully injured and died while we were getting him out."
Bridget said the fact that there was no snow or ice on the road and signs from the tire marks that the car gradually left the highway indicated that the driver fell asleep.
Police said the soldiers met Hunniford in a Thorndorf restaurant last night, went to London with him and were returning to the camp when the accident occurred. The camp is 50 miles northwest of London.

Scores Of Allied Tanks Raid Red-Held Kumsong

SEOUL, Feb. 16—(Saturday)—(AP)—An Allied raid by scores of tanks into the central-front town of Kumsong killed nearly 100 Communists wounded 88 more and blew up 50 Red bunkers, officers reported today.
The raid Friday into the rubbled no-man's land city followed an intense artillery barrage. Behind the firing, tanks pushed through Kumsong and attacked bunkers and trenches.
Kumsong is 27 miles north of the 38th parallel.
Allied artillery Friday pounded Red central and eastern-front positions from which a series of sharp Communist attacks had been launched.
The guns opened up a few hours after noon. In less than half an hour 500 rounds had burst on Red positions in the Mundung valley sector of the eastern front.

It was there that 1,100 Communist troops tried to breach the strong Allied defences Thursday night in a short but bloody battle.
In other sectors the barrages lasted only 10 minutes.
Approximately 200 Communist troops hit two Allied hill positions southeast of Kumsong and attacked bunkers and trenches.
Allied units later recaptured it without opposition. A field dispatch said there were signs of "large enemy losses."
In the air, Allied planes swept over North Korea. One Russian-made Mig jet was damaged in a brief clash between 19 U. S. Sabre jets and 30 Migs.
